VOTERS DEFEAT LA FOLLETTE

38,000 CHEER AS CUBS' VICTORY CLINCHES FLAG

Cuyler's Hit Beats Pirates, 5-2.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The 1932 Cubs, slashing away in their most characteristic Wrigley field mood, yesterday gave Chicago its seventh National league championship and its second in four years. The pennant was clinched mathematically when the Chicagoans defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates, their most persistent rivals, in the first game of a double header by a score of 5 to 2.

The first game victory put the Cubs seven full games ahead of Pittsburgh, making it impossible for Pittsburgh to overtake Chicago even if the Pirates sweep all of the remaining six games on their schedule.

Lose Second Game.

In the second game the Pirates won a 5 to 0 decision from the Cubs B team, but it didn't seem to make them very happy.

The climax of one of the most exciting, not to say surprising, baseball seasons in history, was exactly the kind of show Manager Charley Grimm had wanted to put on for the folks—a real thriller. And those who don't know it was a thriller weren't among the 38,000 who saw Kiki Cuyler drive in the three winning runs with a triple in the seventh inning.

A triple by Kiki Cuyler with the score tied and the bases full! The scene was made to order. But Ki wasn't the whole show. The whole Cubs cast played an active, errorless game.

Bush Pitches Brilliantly.

There was, for instance, Guy Bush's pitching. Guy was touched for eight hits, but those which enabled the Pirates to get their two runs, tying the score in the fourth inning, were Texas league singles of the scratchiest variety. It was Bush's nineteenth victory of the year—the first time in his major league career he has achieved that total, although twice before he won 18.

The end of the pennant race officially came at 3:24 o'clock when Billy Herman accepted his twelfth chance of the afternoon and threw out Pinch Batter Dugas, the last Pirate batter of the first game.

The windup of the race was attended by jollity in marked contrast with the flat way in which the Cubs clinched the pennant on Sept. 18, 1929. On the earlier occasion the Cubs lost to the Giants, but marched in because Boston beat Pittsburgh that afternoon. Naturally the direct process of squelching the ever annoying Pirates was much more dramatic.

Gets Ball for Souvenir.

When the game ended Bush ran over to first base to get the ball from Grimm for his souvenir cabinet. Then he dashed to the boxes near the Cub dugout and embraced Mrs. Bush. Manager Grimm also put on a family scene when he ran to the official Cub section to take a few caresses from Mrs. Grimm, much to the delight of the agile photographers.

The customers loved these personal tableaux almost as much as the earlier heroics. Though they had sat through a mist all through the game, not one of the 38,000 budged until the heroes had vanished through their dugout and the B team came out to play the second encounter. Although the rain was coming down harder than ever, at least 20,000 stayed to witness the finish of the happy afternoon.

Cross Up Baseball Sages.

In winning the clincher the Cubs tied the total victories registered by the St. Louis Cardinals, who won the pennant in 1926. The Cardinals' mark represents the fewest number of games ever to take a pennant in a 154-game major league race. Before the Cubs went wild in their August home stand, it generally was predicted the pennant this year would be won with fewer than the St. Louis low.

The satisfying outcome of the pennant race topped off a season that probably will take its place with the Boston Braves' drive of 1914 as a historic crossing up of baseball sages.

Though the Cubs kept in front rather consistently during the first half of the season, few thought them capable of finishing higher than third. Among these cautious estimators was their then manager, Rogers Hornsby.

On July 3 the Pirates chased the Cubs out of first place. On July 23, in Pittsburgh, the Pirates made it seven straight victories over the Cubs and pushed the Chicagoans 4½ games into second place.

The night of July 23 President Wil-

A boy was blinded for life and a girl mother suffered injuries which may cause her blindness when they were caught in a bomb explosion in front of the home of Judge John P. McGoorty at 929 East 45th street last night. Judge McGoorty, now hearing chancery cases in the Superior court, served as chief justice of the Criminal court in 1930 and led a militant fight against organized gangdom. The bombing, police said, might have been the work of a vengeful hoodlum or some one whom the judge had sentenced years ago.

One of the gangsters sent back to prison by Judge McGoorty during his drive on crime was James [Fur] Sammons, once condemned to be hanged for murder. Sammons was liberated recently by Judge Edward Shurtleff, at Woodstock, in a habeas corpus proceeding. The police are seeking Sammons for questioning about the bombing.

Blast Intended for Another?

Another theory was that the bomb might have been intended for someone else in the neighborhood. It was learned that John McCoole, 40 years old, a veteran prohibition agent, resides at 923 East 45th street, three doors away from the judge's home. Several windows in McCoole's home were broken. The bomb might have been intended for him because of his dry activities, detectives pointed out.

The two persons injured by the explosion are Mrs. Ada Miller Moyer, 16 years old, of 4558 Oakenwald avenue, mother of a four months old child, Mitzi Jean, and Lee Wilbur Koeppen, also 16, of 4305 Oakenwald avenue. They were taken to the Chicago hospital.

Boy Loses Both Eyes.

Dr. S. J. Conway said that both eyes of Koeppen had been blown out and that Mrs. Moyer may lose her sight. The boy's right foot was almost torn off and he was burned and cut. The young mother was burned on the face and arms and legs. Koeppen might die, physicians said.

The police questioned Robert Moyer, 19 year old husband of Mrs. Moyer, and his father James. They learned that young Moyer and his wife separated six weeks ago.

The bombing occurred shortly before 10 o'clock. The explosive apparently was thrown from a passing automobile, not more than a minute before Koeppen, Mrs. Moyer, Fred Koeppen 18 years old, brother of Lee, and Miss Betty Lewis, 17 years old, of 4560 Oakenwald avenue, neared the scene.

Bomb Bursts Under Couple.

Lee Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer were strolling together, well in advance of the second couple. As they reached the front of the McGoorty residence, Koeppen noticed a sputtering fuse beside the walk. He called Mrs. Moyer's attention to it, and stepped toward the fuse.

At this moment, the bomb burst. The blast caught Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer and hurled them ten feet away. It shook the three story McGoorty residence, shattered several front windows, and broke two or three panes in the adjoining homes of John K. Segrave at 933 East 45th street and Fred Allen at 927 East 45th street. Segrave is a flour broker and jobber. Allen is a freight handler.

Inside the McGoorty home were the judge, his daughters, Betty and Margaret, and his son, Robert. All were reading. They were jarred by the explosion. Judge McGoorty ran to the door in time to see Miss Lewis and Fred Koeppen helping Lee Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer into a taxicab which had just pulled up to the curb.

Swanson Goes to Scene.

The police were summoned by a dozen startled neighbors. Squads rushed to the McGoorty home from downtown and the Hyde Park station. Shortly afterward State's Attorney Swanson and his chief investigator, Pat Roche, also went to the scene.

Swanson and Roche conferred with Judge McGoorty until nearly 1 o'clock this morning. Others present were Acting Deputy Chief of Detectives John McGinnis, Acting Capt. Arthur F. Patten of the Hyde Park police, and Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne. Mr. Swanson an-

THE FIRST REAL GOOD NEWS IN YEARS

CHICAGO TO GAIN THAT LOST HOUR OF SLEEP SUNDAY

Chicago will abandon daylight saving time for 1932 next Sunday. Officially, clocks are to be set back one hour at 2 a. m. Most householders will turn their clocks back before they go to bed Saturday night and thereby gain back the hour of sleep they lost last April 24.

Twenty-one communities in Illinois will also abandon daylight saving time for the year, most of them being suburbs of Chicago. Approximately 140 million inhabitants of the United States and Europe went on daylight saving time this summer, according to statistics.

Railroad schedules, including those on suburban lines, will be adjusted to meet the change.

Hotel Man Buys 50 Barrels of Beer for April 15, 1933

Uniontown, Pa., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Leo H. Heyn, hotel proprietor, has ordered 50 barrels of beer from Hofbrau Haus of Wuerzberg, Germany, for delivery on April 15, 1933.

By placing his order now, Heyn explains, he saves $2 a barrel and is assured prompt delivery.

"In view of the promises made both by Republicans and Democrats, I feel safe in entering into this agreement," he says.

Riot in India as Gandhi Goes on Death Fast

POONA, India, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Mahatma Gandhi partook of an unusually large meal of fruit, bread and milk just before noon today and then, laughing and joking, started the hunger strike which he declares will last until he dies or until the Indian electoral system is revised in accordance with his principles.

Riots flared in India between caste Hindus and "untouchables" shortly after Gandhi began his death fast. The most serious disturbance occurred at Ahmedabad.

As he started his fast the Mahatma was technically a free man, for the government announced that his prison term, imposed several months ago because of his nationalist activities, was over. But he elected to remain in his cell in Yeravda jail.

The embargo on visitors was lifted at the same time that the "fast unto death" began. Among those who called on the Mahatma were representatives of various Hindu interests and of the depressed classes.

Leaders to Call on Gandhi.

Among the Indian political leaders expected tomorrow are Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru, B. M. Ambedkar, leader of the "untouchables," and Pandit Madan Mohan Malabiya. It is understood that they will bring with them a new scheme of representation for the "untouchables" which may satisfy Gandhi and cause him to renounce his hunger strike. This electoral scheme is reputedly acceptable to the depressed classes themselves.

The crowd of friends and well wishers who called at the jail when the embargo was lifted apparently proved too much for the 63 year old Mahatma. He became ill. His indisposition was attributed to excitement, and on the advice of his physician he turned away many callers. But first he received representatives of the press, whom he had not met in nine months.

Jokes with Visitors.

The correspondents found the Mahatma to be the usual curious mixture of naive jocularity and spiritual seriousness.

"Aha!" he said as the newspapermen entered, "I have been appointed superintendent of the bakery in the jail."

VANDALS SMASH SHOP MACHINERY AFTER BINDING 5

Two vandals carrying guns and sledge hammers invaded the plant of the Merchants Matrix Cut syndicate at 538 South Clark street last night, tied up five employes, and then smashed the machinery. The damage was estimated at $500.

"You know what all this is about," one of the hoodlums told the employes. Apparently, police said, the man referred to a recent price cutting by the concern.

The men held prisoners by the vandals are John Kristan, 5315 Leland avenue, the night foreman; Thomas Joyce, 8620 Carpenter street; Edward Morino, 3345 Union avenue; Charles McKail, 920 West 50th street; and Joseph Jacques, 3120 North Monticello avenue.

MAYBE BERWYN DOESN'T WANT A CURFEW LAW

On Sept. 13 an ordinance establishing a 10 o'clock curfew for boys and girls under 18 years old was introduced in the Berwyn council by Alderman Charles Treger. Last night a message regarding this proposed law, signed by the North Berwyn Taxpayers' club, was read to the council. It stated:

"If you can't do anything better for our benefit than this, don't try to raise our children for us."

After Mr. Treger had protested that he only wanted to be helpful by stopping drinking and parking in automobiles and Alderman Carl Anderson had defended the youth of Berwyn as too good to need a curfew, the ordinance was referred to the judiciary committee.

Frank Billings, Noted Doctor, Is Dead at 78

Dr. Frank Billings, noted physician who numbered among his patients many of the business leaders of Chicago in the last generation and who founded several of the city's largest medical and scientific institutions, died last night at his home, 1550 North State parkway. He was 78 years old.

Dr. Billings apparently had been in good health until last Saturday, when he slipped on a rug and injured one of his shoulders. He has since been confined to bed. Death was directly due to an internal hemorrhage.

Daughter at Bedside.

At his bedside were his only daughter, Mrs. George R. Nichols II., and her young sons, Frank Billings Nichols and George R. Nichols III. They had arrived in Chicago yesterday from Watch Hill, R. I., where Dr. Billings had spent the summer with them.

Recognized for more than forty years as one of the most competent practitioners of medicine in the United States, Dr. Billings was further known as perhaps the most able builder of medico-scientific institutions in the middle west.

Founder of Hospitals.

"He had tremendous influence with his patients," said Dr. Morris Fishbein, editor of the Journal of the American Medical association, who has prepared a biography of Dr. Billings, "and, as many of them were men of great wealth, he easily obtained from them gifts with which to establish hospitals, clinics, and research laboratories that have been of inestimable value. It is my belief that he founded more of these and trained more great doctors than any other American."

The establishment of the McCormick Institute for Infectious Diseases by Harold F. and Edith Rockefeller McCormick following the death of their son, John Rockefeller McCormick, was attributed to the influence of Dr. Billings. He chose Dr. Ludwig Hektoen to head the institute and under his direction the cause of scarlet fever was determined.

Obtains Other Gifts.

Also the Sprague Institute for Research in Medicine at the University of Chicago was financed by the heirs of Otho S. A. Sprague at the suggestion of Dr. Billings.

With his cousin, C. K. G. Billings, and his brother, Charles, Dr. Billings made a family gift for the erection of the Billings Memorial Medical center on the Midway campus. At his personal solicitation Julius Rosenwald also donated a million dollars.

Later, Mr. Rosenwald gave the funds for the Billings library of the university's medical center. Asked why he had given so freely to this cause, Mr. Rosenwald replied:

"Why, Frank Billings asked me to do it."

Wealthy Packer Contributes.

On another occasion Dr. Billings, while walking on the street with John Roberts, wealthy packer, mentioned that he would like to get a children's hospital built at the center. Mr Roberts became interested and another million dollar gift went to a Billings institution designed to help the ill back to health.

It could not be said, however, that the physician in Dr. Billings was overshadowed by the organizer. He displayed early his great gifts as a healer, and to the end of his long career maintained the reputation of being able to cure and especially to diagnose where many others had failed.

Graduate of Northwestern.

He was born at Highland, Iowa county, Wis. He obtained his M. D. degree from Northwestern university in 1881. Then followed a year as interne in the Cook county hospital. In 1885 and 1886 he studied bacteriology

KOHLER WINNER FOR GOVERNOR; 43,000 AHEAD

Chapple 5,000 Ahead of Blaine.

BULLETIN.

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The La Follette progressive political regime that has ruled in Wisconsin for about a quarter-century apparently has been overthrown in the defeat at today's state primary of Gov. Philip F. La Follette at today's state primaries. On the basis of returns from more than one-third of the state's 2,899 precincts Kohler was leading by approximately 43,000 votes. The vote in 1,196 precincts gave Kohler 160,326; La Follette, 117,965.

Another progressive veteran, U. S. Senator John J. Blaine, was being closely pushed in the senatorial primary by a young editor from Ashland, John B. Chapple. 1,014 precincts out of 2,899 give Chapple 100,724; Blain, 95,216.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Sept. 20.—Former Governor Walter J. Kohler, head of the conservative regular Republicans, seems to have defeated Gov. Philip F. La Follette in today's gubernatorial primaries on the basis of the incomplete returns. With almost one-third of the precincts in Wisconsin tabulated Kohler has a lead of 37,063 votes. For the first time in more than thirty years the old tradition "A La Follette never has been defeated" apparently has been shattered.

Returns from 871 precincts out of 2,899 give:

LA FOLLETTE, 81,505.

For United States senator John B. Chapple, the crusading Ashland editor, running on the Kohler ticket, was more than 5,000 votes ahead of Senator John J. Blaine, one of the "sons of the wild jackass," when almost one-fourth of the precincts had been counted. Reports from 675 precincts give:

CHAPPLE, 61,845.

Entire Kohler State Ticket Leads.

Gov. La Follette late tonight refused to answer telephone calls requesting an official statement from him. William Evjue, one of the governor's aides, also refused to give out any statement concerning the election.

The incompete returns indicated the entire conservative ticket for statehouse officials was running with Kohler ahead of the La Follette ticket.

If the present ratio is maintained in the precincts still unheard from Kohler would have an indicated majority of about 125,000 over La Follette. Two years ago Gov. Phil beat Kohler by about 128,000.

The incomplete returns are from all sections of the state, rural and urban. Kohler jumped into the lead in the first batch and has kept out in front of La Follette throughout the night.

The incomplete figures indicate the most stunning reversal ever met by the La Follette group, which has dominated Wisconsin politics for nearly a generation. Manufacturing centers, home of the labor vote, piled up votes for Kohler, whom two years ago they rejected, largely as a political reflex of the depression.

Madison Rejects La Follette.

Madison itself, home of the La Follette family, rejected Gov. Phil. Eighteen of 22 precincts in Madison gave Kohler a lead of more than 3,000 votes over La Follette. Two years ago La Follette carried his home city by 2,500 votes. Dane county itself, where the late "Fighting Bob" got his first start in politics and always a political stronghold for the family, has apparently switch from the "dynasty."

Kohler has a lead of nearly 2,000 in Dane from approximately two-thirds of the precincts.

In Milwaukee county, where both the regulars and the La Follettites made a terrific fortnight's drive for the factory vote, the incomplete returns give a lead to Kohler. In 39 precincts in the county the vote stands, Kohler 5,236, La Follette, 3,101. For senator it stood, Chapple 4,153, Blaine 3,503.

Both camps has regarded Milwaukee as key to the election, and by virtue of its great industrial vote, both sides mobilized their forces for a tremendous drive for the votes of the workingmen.

Hatchet Men Effective.

The first Milwaukee county returns were from West Allis, where four precincts gave Kohler 767 and La Follette 356. In West Allis two years ago, the mill workers carried La Follette on their shoulders and rolled up his vote.

The hatchet men—"Cut Costs with Kohler"—were exceedingly active. High cost of government, high taxes were the issues emphasized. Kohler called for a $16,000,000 reduction in taxes, and set forth as his doctrine that factories mean jobs, and that to build up private incomes by keeping the taxing system from chasing industries out of the state is more fundamental than to increase income taxes.

Hammers at Economic Issues.

Four years ago, Milwaukee county gave Kohler the nomination for governor. Two years ago it was captured by La Follette, who spoke at factory gates and roused the workers with gibes at "Hoover prosperity, just around the corner." Yesterday found voters in workingmen's precincts, and battalions of the unemployed voting for Kohler. On the platform Kohler had kept hammering away at an underlying economic issue, "more factories mean more jobs."

The air was filled with arguments that Kohler in his bathroom factory at Kohler had given employment to two and a half times more workers than Gov. Phil had in his overhead highway crossings program to relieve unemployment.

In Racine, where the industrial vote is large, incomplete returns showed Kohler and Chapple leading by large margins. In the first six precincts the vote stood Kohler, 770; La Follette, 245. For senator, Chapple, 636; Blaine, 293.

Kohler village, near Sheboygan, the home of the conservative candidate, voted Kohler, 847; La Follette, 22.

Waukesha county was giving John B. Gay, candidate for congress in the Second district, a majority over Charles Kading and John M. Nelson. Evans Davies and W. H. Steele were leading for the Republican nomination for the assembly in the First and Second districts.

Democratic Vote Grows.

The early and incomplete figures show the Democrats polling a much larger vote than usual. In the triangular contest over the governorship nomination A. G. Schmedeman, mayor of Madison, was leading. The first 77 precincts gave him 663 votes, while Leo P. Fox of Chilton got 324 and William R. Rubin of Milwaukee 437.

For senator, F. Ryan Duffy of Fond du Lac was without opposition.

Indications are that the Democrats have polled in excess of 75,000 votes, on the basis of the early returns.

When the polls opened this morning both rival Republican camps held that the size of the Democratic vote would be a strong factor in deciding the results. For a quarter century in Wisconsin the Democratic state party was swallowed up, for the line of demarcation in state politics was La Follette versus anti-La Follette, instead of Republican versus Democrat.

Polled 247,000 Votes in Spring.

In the primaries two years ago the Democrats polled only 17,000 votes, but last spring in their Roosevelt delegate primaries they rolled up 247,000 votes. For weeks the Democratic chieftains besought the Democrats to stay in their own primaries this time, while on the other hand Senator Burton K. Wheeler, Democrat of Montana, toured the state beseeching the Democrats to vote for La Follette and Blaine.

At the outset all camps were immensely interested in the size of the Democratic vote, on the theory that if it proved large, Kohler would benefit, while if it were slim, La Follette would profit. They figured that 80 per cent of the Democrats who voted in their own primaries would be a loss to the La [illegible].

The part the Democratic vote plays in controlling Republican politics in Wisconsin was demonstrated last April. In the primaries that month the conservative regulars elected a majority of the national delegates and for the first time in a quarter of a century controlled the Wisconsin delegation in the Republican national convention. It was attributed to the fact that the Democrats in April pulled 247,000 votes into their primaries.

ATTEMPT TO KILL VILLAGE TRUSTEE LAID TO POLITICS

County highway police last night were investigating an attempt to assassinate Peter Reiland, a trustee of the village of Northbrook, near the northern limits of Cook county on Waukegan road.

Mr. Reiland was asleep in his home when, shortly after midnight, two shotgun charges were fired in a window. He attributed the attempt to kill him to political enemies and offered a reward of $250 for their apprehension.

"I took office last spring," he said. "Soon after my election I was sued in a $50,000 slander suit, but the man who brought it withdrew it when he learned he had been used by my political enemies. Now we are making an audit of the books of village officials. Perhaps this is a move to stop the audit."

Seattle, Wash., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—High tariff walls, raised by a Republican administration to keep out the cheap products of foreign nations, have walled in American producers instead, declared Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt in a speech here tonight, which was frequently interrupted by cheers and applause.

Earlier in the day the Democratic nominee for the presidency had been acclaimed by a hundred thousand men and women of this northwest corner of America, who lined the streets along the route of his parade through the business district. It was a throng such as had never before been seen in Seattle, according to many impartial observers.

Other countries, barred from sending their products to American markets, have set up barriers of their own, Gov. Roosevelt declared, to keep the fruit of the labor of American farmers and manufacturers from being sold in the markets of Europe.

Outside Markets Destroyed.

The result, Gov. Roosevelt asserted, has been the destruction of the outside markets for the surplus products of American commerce and has made it impossible to obtain fair prices.

To remedy this situation the governor proposed tonight that when he goes into the White House, if he does, he will amend the tariff schedules. He will open negotiations with foreign nations, he said, and seek a friendly revision of their schedules, in agreement with the American government. He would put an end to the retaliatory system which, according to his view, has raised such havoc with American business.

"This constitutes," said Gov. Roosevelt, "what I conceive to be a deal in the restoration of foreign trade—it is the way to economic peace and stability and to a reasonable and sound prosperity.

Fairness to Forgotten Man.

"It is the way to fairness and justice, too—fairness to our customers abroad and justice to our own citizens who have suffered so bitterly because of the loss of this export trade.

"This measure of justice can come only through a revival of industry and employment. Not charity, but a chance to earn a living, this is the hope and the demand of the man forgotten by the present Republican leadership."

The speech was the old story of the low Democratic tariff against the high Republican tariff, except that Gov. Roosevelt added the provision that an outside nation seeking friendly trade with the United States must agree to trade in such a manner as will uphold the scale of living of American workers, and will not disturb the stability of American currency.

Assailing the Hawley-Smoot tariff, which he always refers to as the "Grundy" tariff, Gov. Roosevelt said that "President Hoover should have known that this tariff would raise havoc with any plans that he might have had to stimulate foreign markets."

Raps Special Tariffs.

"But he did not, I am afraid, sufficiently understand how insistent are the demands of certain Republicans for special tariff protection," said the Democratic nominee. "When this tariff was passed, with its outrageous rates, he weakly yielded to the demand of these leaders and started us on the road where we now find ourselves.

"And it is the road to ruin, my friends; that tariff, as you in the state of Washington well know, had the inevitable result of bringing about retaliations by other nations. Forty of them set up their own tariff defenses."

He cited many examples of retaliatory tariff and continued:

"To remedy this, I have advocated and continue to advocate a tariff policy based in large part on the simple principle of profitable exchanges arrived at through negotiated tariffs with benefit to each nation.

"If I am any judge of conditions, this policy will be initiated March 4."

Visits Crippled Children.

During the day Gov. Roosevelt visited the Puyallup fair, Tacoma, and the Orthopedic hospital here. At the hospital a group of crippled children had been gathered on the lawn, and he spoke to them, saying:

"Some of you children know it's a little difficult for me to stand on my own feet, the same as many of you. I wish I had time to go into the hospital to see all of it, especially the swimming pool. You know I'm an expert swimmer myself."

The governor, in speaking of his difficulty in standing, referred to the fact that since he was stricken with infantile paralysis twelve years ago his legs have not been strong enough to sustain his body weight without braces.

WOMAN HELD BY BANDITS WRITES FOR POWDER PUFF

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—A cry for powder puff and lipstick from a British woman in distress among Chinese bandits in the wilds of Manchuria was reported to the Daily Mail today from Newchang.

"Please send me a powder puff, face cream and a lipstick," Mrs. Pawley, kidnaped by the bandits near Newchang over a week ago, was quoted as writing to friends from the bandits' retreat. "I don't want anything else but a bath. The bandits intend to keep moving until the pursuit ceases. Please persuade the police and soldiers to keep away, otherwise they say we will be killed. I feel in a vile temper with the fools. They probably will want an extortionate ransom, but please don't bust yourselves."

The letter was received together with a demand from the bandits for 100,000 Chinese dollars as ransom.

HOOVER CHOOSES OCT. 4 FOR SPEECH AT DES MOINES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The first week in October was set by President Hoover today as the date for his initial invasion of the corn belt to answer the challenge of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, and sound a plea for his own reelection for another four year term.

The President will speak on Oct. 4 at Des Moines, Ia., state capital and center of the middle west farming district. In choosing this city to deliver his principal farm speech of the campaign, Mr. Hoover elected to make his bid for the farmer vote in one of the hotbeds of the farmers' revolt against the low prices paid for farm products. But one address will be delivered by the President on his western trip. Immediately after the speaking engagement has been filled, the presidential party will board a train for the return to Washington.

Speed Western Campaign.

The departure of the President for the west has been set as the signal for an immediate intensification of the campaign in the central and far western states. At the time the President is away from Washington, at least four cabinet members will be in the west or far west presenting the Republican case for a mandate to continue at Washington for another four years.

Announcement of the President's speaking plans came as cabinet members and party leaders loosed a new high pressure campaign to persuade Mr. Hoover to stage a spectacular finale to the campaign by making "a swing around the circle" during the closing days of his fight for reelection. This trip would take him through the Rocky mountain states and into California for election day.

Demand Hoover Lead.

This latest manifestation of the widespread demand among party leaders that the President assume the active leadership in the Republican campaign developed immediately upon the return to Washington of Walter Newton, White House political secretary, from a survey of conditions in Minnesota and the middle west generally. Mr. Newton reported to the President that he must get out among the people and answer the Roosevelt challenge if he expects to capture the farmer vote.

According to close friends of Mr. Newton, the political secretary has urged the President to make several speeches in the west. It is known that several cabinet members including Secretary Hurley have urged Mr. Hoover to extend his speaking tour to the coast.

Other Plans in Abeyance.

The announcement of the Hoover Des Moines speech was made in the following statement issued after today's cabinet meeting:

"President Hoover will make his first speech of the campaign at Des Moines, Ia., on the evening of Tuesday, Oct. 4. Arrangements for a nationwide radio hookup are being made.

"The President will return immediately to Washington after his speech. He will make no other addresses en route. Time and place of other addresses by the President have not yet been arranged."

The present tentative schedule calls for a presidential speech in New England or New York City around the middle or latter part of October.

The President has been working on his farm speech for several days. It is probable that while the farm problem will be the major subject discussed, that Mr. Hoover will outline other phases of the administration program for the next four years, in event he is reelected. Mr. Hoover discussed his speech today with Representative Gilbert N. Haugen [Rep., Ia.], a White House caller. Mr. Haugen said that one speech by Mr. Hoover in his state would put it in the Republican column.

Due to Slump Missouri Leans to Roosevelt; Republicans Wait on Cash to Start Campaign

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—What with normal Democrat votes for Roosevelt, with votes which really are votes against the depression, and with votes for outright repeal of prohibition, Missouri is not unlikely to return this year to its ancient Democratic moorings, from which another Roosevelt jolted it loose in 1904.

Ever since that fateful year Missouri has given its electoral vote to the Republican candidate for President, except in 1913, when the Republicans were split. But now the burden of the reports of the precinct workers in St. Louis and Kansas City and of the scouts returning from the fish fries and barbecues of the hinterland is that the prodigal is about to return to the house of his fathers, for the time being at least.

Like His Railroad Speech.

There is no wild enthusiasm for Roosevelt—in fact, scarcely any enthusiasm—and in the judgment of most Democratic leaders themselves the appearance of the Democratic candidate in this state and his speech in adjoining Kansas on the agricultural problem did not noticeably strengthen him in this region. There is evidence, however, that his speech at Salt Lake City on the railroads has commended him favorably to conservative Democrats who hitherto have observed the candidate's radical tendencies with some uneasiness.

Missouri is a conservative state, and for this reason it will be a battle ground right up to election day. Republican National Committeeman E. B. Clements does not for a moment concede the state to Roosevelt. The evidence of Republican disaffection he waves aside as the usual September omens of Democratic victory, which somehow fail of fulfillment in November.

The Republican organization has not started its campaign, being without funds, but expecting to get a goodly slice of that $1,500,000 Republican National Chairman J. R. Nutt reported to President Hoover he had succeeded in raising. Dr. Clements is confident that when the Republican organization goes into high things won't look so rosy for Roosevelt.

Looks to Hoover to Turn Tide.

Above all things, the Republicans are pinning their hopes to the effort the President is to make to turn the tide of public sentiment running against him in the west. That nobody can save Hoover in this election but Hoover himself is the settled conviction of many Republican leaders. They cite the President's acceptance speech as an example of what Mr. Hoover can do for himself.

One hears comment on every side that the Hoover acceptance was a masterpiece, that it was his greatest utterance, that it was the profoundest analysis of the depression and most statesmanly exposition of the measures essential to recovery, that it made votes for him unquestionably among the more intelligent classes of the electorate. A common comment is that Hoover's acceptance made Roosevelt's acceptance speech appear puny in comparison. Incidentally, the Roosevelt acceptance speech is not included in the Democratic campaign literature being circulated, at least in this part of the country.

Republican leaders will tell you that if the President comes into the west and makes a speech as powerful as his acceptance, a speech demolishing Roosevelt's campaign arguments, he will regain all the ground he has lost and be assured of carrying Missouri, Minnesota, and other of the more conservative western states now in the balance.

Business Men Like President.

The business men of St. Louis, Kansas City, and the other large cities are favorably disposed to the President, and this is saying a good deal, so far as Kansas City is concerned. For the last year or two there were no critics of the President more bitter than the grain and live stock traders of this city and bankers and merchandisers whose business revolves around this great agricultural market.

The operations of the farm board had put a serious crimp in the business of the grain and live stock traders who generally blamed the President for their plight. But after Roosevelt got into action and after the Hoover acceptance speech, and particularly after Roosevelt's Columbus speech proposing drastic regulation of grain and produce as well as stock exchanges, the Kansas City business men turned again to Hoover as the lesser of two evils.

Outside of the business men of the larger cities, however, there is every evidence of serious Republican disaffection. What with men out of work in the towns and farmers getting profitless prices for their products, though crops are good this year, there is widespread discontent which translates itself as usual into blind antagonism to the party in power. To the unthinking Hoover symbolizes the depression. The unemployed workers and distressed farmers are preparing to vote not so much in favor of Roosevelt as against the depression.

Democratic Landslide in 1931.

The Democratic trend in Missouri materialized in a Democratic landslide in the 1930 congressional election. Then in a bye-election last year the Democrats carried by 15,000 the Seventh congressional district, which was normally Democratic by only 1,500. St. Louis, which is capable of giving a Republican candidate a plurality of 50,000, is not expected to give Hoover more than 25,000. On the other hand, Jackson county (Kansas City), controlled by the Pendergast machine, which makes Tammany appear a kindergarten, is scheduled to give Roosevelt a plurality of from 35,000 to 50,000, compared with the 30,000 it gave Hoover four years ago.

In the primary this year the Republican vote was 361,000; the Democratic 618,000. Four years ago the Republican primary vote was 2,000 greater than the Democratic. In St. Louis the Democratic primary vote this year was 90,000, compared with a normal 37,000. Thousands of wet Republicans voted in the Democratic primary, attracted by the Democratic prohibition repeal plank and the promise of the reëstablishment of St. Louis as a great brewing center. In Kansas City the Democratic vote rose from 50,000 to 100,000.

Missouri, once a satrapy of the Anti-Saloon league, went joyously, unblushingly wet in the primary. Col. Bennett Champ Clark, son of the late Speaker Clark, an able young lawyer, a scholar, as evidenced by his recent life of J. Q. Adams, and a protégé of Jim Reed, won the Democratic nomination for senator hands down on a repeal platform, having espoused repeal long before his party. His opponents were Boss Pendergast's candidate, Charles Howell, who soft pedaled the prohibition issue, and Charles M. Hay, an old time Anti-Saloon league candidate, who was nominated for the senate in 1928 by the rural drys and was defeated, though running ahead of Smith.

Clark Sweeps Wet St. Louis.

Clark swept not only wet St. Louis, but the one time dry rural counties. At a dinner in Kansas City Reed formally transferred the mantle of the Missouri senatorial dynasty to young Clark, the dynasty that included Benton, Vest, Cockerill, Stone and Reed.

Clark's Republican opponent is Henry W. Kiel, three times mayor of St. Louis. He is for repeal. He carried the dry rural counties in the primary.

FISHER STORMS COUNTY BOARD FOR JURY FUNDS

Judge Wins $9,000 Amid Scenes of Uproar.

In a tumultous session of the finance committee of the county board yesterday Circuit Judge Harry Fisher won an appropriation of $9,000 for the special grand jury which he convened last April when he was chief justice of the Criminal court. The announced function of the jury was to investigate organized gangs and racketeers, with particular emphasis on protection afforded them by corruption of public officials. The appropriation will carry on the work for two months under Special Assistant State's Attorney Edmund D. Adcock.

JUDGE FISHER.

The county board adopted the committee recommendation for the appropriation by a vote of 10 to 2.

For two hours in the committee session Judge Fisher was under fire by opposing commissioners, who held the investigation to be merely political, without promise of results and a duplication of prosecuting functions. For a time argument reached the pitch of shouting. In the baiting the judge was driven to cast reflection on the state's attorney's office and was shushed by several commissioners. He confessed he was imprudent. During the meeting commissioners wrangled among themselves.

Stormiest Session In Years.

Employés of the board of many years' service said the session was more stormy than any in their recollection. The appropriation matter was introduced quietly with a setup for one month calling for the expenditure of $4,500, of which the chief special prosecutor is to get $1,200; two assistants, $900 and $600; three of the clerical staff, $200 each, and three investigators, $200 each. A sum of $600 was set aside for miscellaneous expenses.

The special grand jury for which the appropriation was asked is the outgrowth of petitions filed in the heat of the April primary campaign. Circuit Judge Feinberg convened one special grand jury to investigate charges that gangsters would resort to fraud and violence to elect gang supported candidates. Judge Feinberg, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for state's attorney, also instructed his jury to investigate charges of favoritism by judges in the appointment of receivers and attorneys.

Judge Fisher's Grand Jury.

A few days later Judge Fisher ordered the impaneling of another special grand jury—the one for which the present appropriation was asked. The Feinberg grand jury was held illegal by the Illinois Supreme court. After this decision Judge Fisher on June 7 appointed Attorney Adcock to direct the investigation of the second grand jury. The jury has not met during the summer.

Before the finance committee yesterday Judge Fisher spoke of the necessity of the investigation, declaring he had been told that every labor union stands in danger of being taken over by racketeers. While the judiciary is in danger of character assassination for granting probation to a youth, he said, no gangster had ever been taken into his court.

Mrs. Fleming Opens Fire.

"What about those rotten receiverships?" Mrs. Edward J. Fleming, a county commissioner, interrupted.

JUDGE FISHER—You're wrong.

MRS. FLEMING—I have a good memory. Why are you off receivers and on crime?

JUDGE FISHER—You are woefully uninformed.

MRS. FLEMING—I can't help it because God gave me a good memory.

JUDGE FISHER—We are not trying this in the newspapers. There was not one word in the petition on receiverships. The matter was mentioned by Judge Feinberg, however.

MRS. FLEMING—It should certainly be in.

JUDGE FISHER—The question of receiverships has nothing to do wth it.

Commissioner George Miller asked why the regular grand jury could not undertake the investigation. After a long pause Judge Fisher asked who would assist the regular grand jury in the work. Commissioner Miller named the state's attorney and asked if that office had ever refused to act in the investigation. The judge said that he himself could not act as prosecutor and that the petition for the grand jury's appointment had made reference to public officials giving protection.

Charges It's All Politics.

Commissioner William Busse interposed: "It's purely politics."

"I don't know," Judge Fisher replied. "You will have to judge for yourselves. I have no personal or political interest. The question before you is, will you do your duty and vote the money?"

"You helped bring the child into the world," Commissioner Miller said. "What difference does it make whether it was conceived by Judge Feinberg?"

"Thirty-six labor unions are said to be in the hands of lawless men," Judge Fisher answered. "These men are said to rule by intimidation and fear. If it is true, the community and the unions suffer intolerable harm."

Other commissioners pointed out that the board has expended $600,000 in the last 10 years for special grand juries without a shred of result. They demanded to know whether Judge Fisher could promise results. He held the question to be impudent, as it questioned his action on the bench.

"Taxpayers Weary of Inquiries."

Commissioner Busse said he had been in the county service 42 years and had seen enormous sums expended without results. He said the taxpayers were tired of digging into their pockets for investigations.

"The lives of the finest men in the community are being endangered," declared Miss Mary McEnerney, another commissioner, in support of Judge Fisher. "One man was kidnaped, paid $50,000 for his release, and now must ride about in an armored car. Some union headquarters have been forced to become forts to guard themselves against racketeers."

Miller demanded to know why, if Judge Fisher had information, he had not turned it over to the state's attorney to act upon.

"Whose duty is it to prosecute," asked Judge Fisher, "the judges or the state's attorney? You have just heard some information. Has this escaped the state's attorney?"

They Shush the Judge.

Several commissioners cried, "Shush, shush." The judge said he regretted he had been forced into the statement. Following this the meeting became a pandemonium of shouting.

In a lull Mrs. Glenn E. Plumb proposed that an appropriation of $9,000 be voted for two months' work by the special grand jury. Miss Amelia Sears raised a legal objection on the ground that the board has adopted its budget for 1932. She moved that County Attorney Hayden Bell be consulted to determine whether the request for the appropriation constituted an emergency demand.

The motions were debated heatedly. Judge Fisher declared that if the investigation has no promise of indictments after two months he will ask Judge John Prystalski, the present chief justice of the Criminal court, to dissolve the jury. He added that even though there are no results the jury will work to relieve the public's belief in the existence of racketeer domination.

The committee voted, 9 to 4, for the two months' appropriation. Commissioners Busse, Miller, Fleming, and Sears opposed it. The nine who voted for the fund were Commissioners McEnerney, Plumb, Homer J. Byrd, Daniel Ryan, Frank J. Kasper, Charles H. Weber, Maurice F. Kavanagh, Peter M. Kelly, and Walter La Buy.

In the board balloting that followed President Emmett Whealan cast the necessary tenth vote to carry the appropriation. The two who voted against it were Commissioners Miller and Sears. Commissioners Fleming and Busse had walked out.

Reveals Betrothal to Scientist's Son

ROSE HOBART.

Secret for Months

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—After keeping their romance secret for more than four months, Rose Hobart, stage and screen actress, and William M. Grosvenor Jr., son of the socially prominent scientist, admitted today that they will be married in October.

Miss Hobert said the wedding would take place some time after the opening of her new starring vehicle, "I Loved You Wednesday," by Crosby Gaige, which is now in rehearsal here.

Grosvenor, however, has a more definite idea about the date of the nuptials, which he has set for Oct. 15. He said he had no objections to Miss Hobart continuing her career. The wedding, he said, would be the "old fashioned kind" with only members of the family attending. It will be Miss Hobart's second trip to the altar. She obtained a Reno divorce in 1929 from her first husband, Benjamin L. Winter.

H. O. STONE & CO. OFFICIALS PUT ON TRIAL BY U.S.

Selection of Jury to Try 9 Defendants Begun.

Selection of a jury to try Henry F. Norcott, president of the defunct H. O. Stone & Co. real estate and investment concern, and eight associates was begun yesterday before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward. The defendants have entered pleas of not guilty to charges of using the mails to defraud.

The start of the trial was delayed two hours while prosecutors conferred on the offer of the defense to waive a jury. Prosecutors Joseph A. Struett and Thomas Dodd Healy, instructed by United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, decided to demand a jury. They pointed out that the Supreme court has ruled that the defense, government and court must all consent before a jury can be waived.

52 Veniremen Summoned.

A special venire of 52 men was summoned to the courtroom and three were excused because they admitted acquaintance with Francis E. Richardson, one of the defendants. Then the government tendered four veniremen as acceptable. One of them, Thomas O'Connell, 36 North Crawford avenue, a railroad switchman, was tentatively accepted by Attorney Charles Rathbun, who took up the questioning for the defense.

On adjournment Judge Woodward instructed the veniremen to return today without discussing the case with any one.

"This case will be decided on the evidence presented in the courtroom," the judge said. "You are not to read the newspapers or discuss the case with any one. Return tomorrow in the same frame of mind as you are in today."

As the government finished questioning the first panel of veniremen there was a pause as the defense lawyers went into a huddle in front of the bench. When Judge Woodward became impatient, Attorney Rathbun said: "We are just trying to establish the order of precedence." The remark indicated, court attaches said, that an attorney for each of the defendants will seek to question each veniremen.

The Stone company failed two years ago with liabilities of $14,500,000 and assets which brought $100,000.

Defendants Are Listed.

The defendants and their attorneys in addition to Richardson and Norcott, who is represented by Attorneys Rathbun and James B. Westcott, are:

CLAUDE NILES, vice president of H. O. Stone & Co., represented by John Elliot Byrns and Gerald T. Wiley.

CHARLES D. PACKER JR., treasurer of H. O. Stone & Co., represented by Harry Olson, former chief justice of Municipal court and his son, Sanford.

DAVID A. COLEMAN, president of Stone Finance company, represented by Attorney Benjamin Bachrach.

HAROLD D. BENNETT, vice president of H. O. Stone & Co., represented by Attorney Stephen Monahan.

MARSHALL W. GEORGE, secretary of H. O. Stone & Co., represented by Attorney Fletcher Dobyns.

LESLIE A. NEEDHAM, counsel for H. O. Stone & Co., represented by Attorneys T. I. McKnight and Thomas Hart.

Richardson, a vice president of the Stone Finance company, is also represented by McKnight and Hart.

To Welcome Guests

MRS. ADOLPHUS PEINE.

The Blue Devils of Chicago, a new organization of French-Americans, has been formed with the purpose of welcoming French visitors to the Century of Progress next year. An inaugural party of the club will be held in the Medinah Athletic club tomorrow evening. Among the organizers is Mrs. Adolphus Peine of 4300 Lake Shore drive, who explained that the uniform of the organization is modeled on that of the French military unit known as the Blue Devils.

SUITOR AND GIRL FOUND SHOT TO DEATH IN HOTEL

An apparent suicide pact in a west side hotel ended the frustrated romance of two young lovers yesterday. The couple, James Maio, 29 years old, 3518 Flournoy street, a trap drummer, and Miss Ethel Constantino, 25, of 2619 Rice street, a stenographer, were found shot to death last night in room 404 of the Jackson View hotel, 3501 Jackson boulevard. They had been dead since noon.

Miss Constantino was found on the floor. Maio was lying on the bed, an automatic pistol at his feet. Both had been shot in the right temple. Her right arm was grazed by a bullet, indicating she may have tried to shield herself.

In the room police found a farewell note written by Maio to his mother, and also a court summons, and a letter from Maio's attorney to Frank Constantino, Miss Constantino's father. It was learned that Constantino had opposed the marriage of his daughter to Maio and that Maio had filed a $25,000 alienation of affections suit against him. This suit was dismissed by Maio last Thursday.

FILE PETITION TO RUN R. E. CHURCH AS INDEPENDENT

A petition making an independent candidate of Ralph E. Church, whose nomination as Republican candidate for congress from the Tenth district is being contested by James Simpson Jr. was filed in Springfield yesterday, according to dispatches from the state capital. The petition was signed by 13,000 voters.

A decision in the recount contest is expected soon from Circuit Judge Thomas J. Lynch, before whom the contest was heard. It was begun by Simpson, who was defeated for the nomination by only 73 votes out of more than 80,000 on the face of the returns of the election commissioners. At the close of the court hearings the unofficial recount standing gave Simpson a lead of 25 votes.

Judge Lynch, however, has under consideration the standing of several hundred ballots, the validity of which has not yet been determined.

HORNER OFFERS A PROGRAM OF REFORESTATION

Calls on Havana Farmers for Their Co-operation.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Lincoln, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Judge Henry Horner campaigned for governor through the fish and game country of Illinois today outlining a program for the future conduct of the state department of conservation, aimed to benefit the farmer and the sportsman alike. He made his principal address at Havana where the Illinois river still yields a living to commercial fishermen. That once thriving business has been reduced to a fraction of its former scope, but the pleasure seekers still draw fat fish from the river and huntsmen fill the duck blinds along the marshes in the fall.

Judge Horner is in hearty sympathy with this sport, he told his large audience in the courthouse square at Havana, but he has a serious turn of mind where conservation is concerned. The farmers whose lands have streams and small lakes were attentive when the following program was outlined by the Democratic candidate for governor.

Reforestation of Lands.

Reforestation of timber lands. An honest and equitable enforcement of the present game laws. Encouragement of coöperation between land owners, farmers and the conservation department for the restoration of game and fish.

Restoration of streams and lakes within Illinois to their natural state to encourage the propagation of game fish, and the abolition of the bootlegging of game.

"The old time rabbit shepherds must go," the judge declared, in expanding his program. "We must have trained game wardens."

"The department of conservation has been operated at a profit—the fees exceeding the cost of operation, but I shall insist that enlightened economy prevail. I want Illinois placed first among the states for preserving to future as well as the present generation the natural resources and beauty of our state. Progressive government demands this."

Lucas Master of Ceremonies.

The Havana community turned out en masse to hear the judge and his traveling companions, John C. Martin of Salem, candidate for state treasurer, and Martin A. Brennan of Bloomington, candidate for congressman at large. The master of ceremonies was Scott W. Lucas of Havana, who ran on the Igoe ticket for the nomination for United States senator in the spring primaries, but was defeated, although rolling up a large vote downstate.

Mr. Lucas introduced Judge Horner in a warm tribute today, thus demonstrating again that Democracy in Illinois is wholeheartedly behind the entire slate of candidates.

A sizable auto and farm wagon parade led the judge through the town to the speakers' stand in front of the old courthouse. Most of the vehicles bore amusing signs: "Not This Time, Len Small," "There Are No State Pay Rollers in This Parade," and "No Boat Rides Today."

Horner Gibes at Small.

The last was a gibe at Small, Horner opponent who steered his waterway cruise to the Havana dock ten days ago.

One proud farmer drove a small black cow and a big white horse hitched to his wagon.

During the morning Judge Horner took time off from his campaigning to visit the Dickson Indian mounds nearby. There he viewed the much publicized group of 230 human skeletons—the largest neo-lithic group yet found lying as they were uncovered on the Dickson farm. Their burial date has been set as from 500 to 1,500 years ago by various scientists.

Sees Cat Fish Crawl Out.

Timed precisely for his speech about fish, the judge witnessed the best "fish story" of his life at the mounds. While on a previous visit one of the Dickson brothers, there are two, Arland and Don, asked, casually, if the judge would care to watch catfish crawl out of the water to eat horse meat and oatmeal from a floating plank.

Believing the remark a joke, the judge laughed it off but again today, Arland Dickson soberly renewed the invitation, and was promptly taken up. The judge has five substantiating witnesses to what followed.

The Dickson's maintain one of the largest mink farms in the country and they have stocked a small pond with catfish as food for the small, costly rodents. While the Horner party walked to the pond, Arland Dickson mixed water, horse meat and oatmeal in a bucket, brought it to the water's edge and shoved off in a small duck boat to the fork of a dead tree rising from the center of the pond.

There he dumped the food upon a thin plank and set it afloat, rippling the water with his hand the while. Soon the quiet surface of the pond near his boat was flecked with wriggling fish tails and the plank danced about as small, hungry mouths grabbed the food trickling from its edges. Presently all the food which remained was in the center of the board and as the Horner party watched, a score of small catfish wriggled aboard and ate their fill while Arland Dickson solemnly towed the plank to shore so that all might see.

"The pied piper of the fish kingdom."

MRS. RUTH PRATT RENOMINATED IN CONGRESS RACE

G. O. P. Wet-Dry Contest Enlivens Primary.

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Organization control won the day in the primary elections up-state today. Both wet and dry Republican incumbents in congress who were backed by the party leaders defeated efforts to oust them on prohibition grounds while the Democratic organization supported aspirants for office in every instance were victorious.

Representative Ruth Pratt, Republican, defeated her insurgent opponent, George Hiram Mann.

In the city the vote was negligible and the organization designees were returned without trouble in almost every case. The principal fight of interest was in Brooklyn, where State Senator William Lathrop Love, denied renomination by the McCooey organization, staged a primary contest against Joseph A. Esquirol, organization man. Senator Love lost by a 4 to 1 margin.

3 Wets and 3 Drys Win.

The fight will be waged again at the fall election, as Senator Love was unopposed for the Republican nomination. In another state senator fight John A. Hastings, renominated at the instance of former Mayor James J. Walker, to whom Senator Hastings was linked during the city investigation, won by a smaller margin, defeating David Paston.

Three Republican representatives considered dry held off primary attacks from prohibition repeal advocates, three Republicans considered wet or moderately so defeated dry candidates. In two other contests involving dry Republican representatives the result still was in doubt.

Two Contests Still in Doubt.

Representative Frank Crowther won in the 30th congressional district, as a dry, defeating Frank Barnes. Representative Frederick M. Davenport, considered a dry, defeated Daniel F. Trobel, a dripping wet, in the Oneida-Herkimer district. Representative Francis D. Culkin, another dry, won over Edmund R. Wilcox, a wet, in the 32nd district.

To balance this, Representative John D. Clarke in the 34th, Representative Walter G. Andrews in the 40th, and Representative E. F. Cooke, fighting dry candidates, were victorious. Representative Gale H. Stalker in the 37th, a dry, contesting with W. Sterling Cole and Representative Daniel A. Reed, fighting two wets in the 43rd, were meeting some trouble with returns still incomplete.

Youngman Leads in Bay State.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Lt.-Gov. William S. Youngman piled up an imposing lead over Frank A. Goodwin for the Republican gubernatorial nomination on returns from slightly more than a quarter of the precincts in the state in today's Massachusetts primaries. At that time his lead was more than 10,000.

The vote from 504 precincts out of 1,707 gave:

Youngman, 56,148; Goodwin, 45,907; Sullivan, 4,376; Brownell, 3,383.

Congressman George Holden Tinkham of Boston received the Republican nomination to congress from the Tenth District. He was opposed for the nomination by Washington Cook, also of Boston. John J. Crehan of Boston was unopposed for the Democratic nomination in this district.

SPEAKER GARNER'S MOTHER DIES IN HER TEXAS HOME, AGED 81

Detroit, Tex., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Sarah Jane Garner, mother of Speaker John N. Garner, the Democratic nominee for Vice President, died shortly after noon today. Her three sons and two daughters were at her bedside awaiting the end which appeared certain several days ago when she became ill with a general toxic condition. Speaker Garner hurried here from Washington, abandoning for the time his campaign.

Mrs. Garner was 81 years old. She was born and spent her entire life in the northeast section of Texas. Her father, Mark Guest, came into this territory from Tennessee in 1831, married a pioneer girl named Dickson, and established a home at Blossom Prairie where Mrs. Garner was born. Like her mother, she married a frontiersman, John Garner Sr., and they made their home in a log cabin near the present town of Blossom, where Speaker Garner was born.

The great joy of Mrs. Garner's declining years was in watching the career of her son in congress, arising to the position of Democratic leader of the house of representatives and then a year ago becoming speaker. His nomination for Vice President was a happy event for her and she proudly stated she would live to see him elected.

Funeral services probably will be held tomorrow and the body will be placed in a vault beside those of her husband and two children.

BOMB INJURES 2 BEFORE HOME OF JUDGE M'GOORTY

Youth and a Girl Mother Hurt in Blast.

nounced his office would strive to bring the bombers to justice.

"The maiming of the children is tragic and deplorable," he said. "I shall direct my office to work night and day until the perpetrators of this crime are apprehended."

Prosecutor Ditchburne and Deputy McGinnis visited Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer in the hospital. They were visibly affected when they emerged. "It is horrible," Ditchburne said. "It is the most pitiful thing I have ever seen. Here are two innocent lives ruined. Even if they recover, they will never be the same. It is our hope to punish the bombers."

Victims Tell of Blast.

While both Koeppen and Mrs. Moyer were in serious condition, they were able to talk to Ditchburne and McGinnis.

"Ada and I were walking ahead of my brother and Betty Lewis," said Koeppen. "As we got in front of Judge McGoorty's home, we saw the fuse burning. It led to what resembled a half loaf of bread. As I stepped on the fuse, it went off."

Mrs. Moyer told a similar story, but gave a more accurate description of the contraption. Her story satisfied Sergt. Michael Toohey, police bomb expert, that the bomb was well made, the work of professionals.

Sergt. Toohey examined the ground in front of Judge McGoorty's home. The explosion occurred near the edge of the sidewalk, 15 feet from the porch, squarely in front of the house. It blasted a hole in the walk several inches deep. Sergt. Toohey said the explosive was either dynamite or pyrotol, either of which pushes downward.

It was likely, the sergeant said, that the terrorists tossed the bomb from a slowly moving vehicle, that it struck the iron fence in front of the McGoorty home and dropped to the walk a few seconds before Mrs. Moyer and Koeppen reached the spot.

Judge McGoorty said that the blast shook up the house and his family considerably.

"I was reading the newspapers at the time," he said. "The house was severely jarred. Our windows were broken. I have no enemies that I know of, and I do not like to think the bomb was meant for me."

Judge McGoorty has been on the bench since 1911 except for the two years from 1921 to 1923 when he resigned to engage in the private practice of law. He was first elected to the Circuit court. He served six years in the Appellate division. In 1923 he was elected to the Superior court. He has been chief justice of the Criminal court twice.

"If you want clothes to last avoid cheap soap"

"It's surprising what a difference good soap makes in the cost of maintaining your household. You may pay a penny or two more per cake . . . but think of the dollars you save in clothes and linens.

"I learned my lesson . . . like so many other housewives have . . . because I couldn't resist the temptation of buying those big bargain cakes that seemed to offer so much more for the money. But never again!

"They caused nothing but trouble. What a toll they took in ruined washables and faded fabrics. Instead of being an economy those strong lye-laden bargain soaps proved the greatest extravagance imaginable.

IT'S CHEAPER TO BUY GOOD SOAP THAN NEW CLOTHES

Cheap soaps are lacking in real soap value. They often contain free lye that eats and weakens fabrics . . roughens delicate hands. A big cheap cake may look like a bargain but the few cents difference in price can't begin to pay for the clothes it ruins.

"Now I'm back to American Family again. And I'd like to see anybody get me to change! There's nothing that compares with it for the hard water of this Great Lakes region. Its rich, penetrating double-suds is doubly quick . . doubly safe . . . doubly economical . . . not only in the laundry but for all household-cleaning tasks.

"And what a treat for your hands! There's nothing finer. It makes them soft and keeps them smooth. It's every bit as gentle with your skin as it is with your clothes.

"Besides . . . now that the cake has been made so much larger without changing quality or price . . . Kirk's American Family is actually the biggest bargain of them all!"

Skinny! New discovery adds pounds quicker than BEER

Astonishing gains with new double tonic. Richest yeast known, imported beer yeast, concentrated 7 times and iron added. Gives thousands 5 to 15 lbs. in a few weeks

FOR years doctors prescribed beer to put flesh on skinny, run-down men and women. But now, thanks to a new scientific discovery, you can get even better results—put on firmer, healthier flesh than with beer—and in a far shorter time.

Not only are thousands quickly gaining beauty-bringing pounds—but other benefits, too. Blemished skin becomes radiantly clear. Constipation, poor appetite, lack of pep, vanish.

Concentrated 7 times

This amazing new product, Ironized Yeast, is made from specially cultured, imported beer yeast — the richest yeast ever known—which through a new process has been concentrated 7 times—made 7 times more powerful.

But that is not all! This marvelous, health-building yeast concentrate is then ironized with three special kinds of iron which strengthen the blood—add abounding new pep.

Day after day, as you take Ironized Yeast, you'll see hollow chest develop and pipe stem arms and legs round out attractively. Complexion becomes radiantly clear—indigestion disappears—you'll have new, surging vitality.

Skinniness dangerous

JURY TOLD DAVIS' SUCCESS STORY IN LOTTERY TRIAL

Contract Reveals Senator as Moose "Dictator."

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The success story of Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, how he built the Loyal Order of Moose from a minor organization of 250 members into a $40,000,000 corporation of 600,000 members, was placed before a jury in federal court today as part of the evidence on which it will be called to decide if one of the promotion programs constituted a lottery.

From one reluctant witness, Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell, in charge of the prosecution, drew a picture of Mr. Davis' domination of the order. From another he obtained a description of how tickets plucked blindly from a barrel entitled the holders to shares in the $50,000 in prizes which he called the "lottery." From a third he elicited the information that Bernard McGuire, a professional promoter whom he had previously called a "cheap chisler," was given the authority to draw upon Moose funds.

Reveal Davis' Contract.

Treadwell's hopes of proving that behind all of these activities stood the figure of Mr. Davis, as being either aware of what was going on or having ordered them, he pinned in part upon the contract which he introduced in evidence, executed between Mr. Davis as the director and virtual dictator of all Moose organization work, and the order.

The signatures on the contract were identified by J. Willis Pierson, for a number of years a district supervisor of organization work for the Moose in Illinois and Ohio.

"The said order confers upon the said Davis," the contract read, "the exclusive privilege to contract with lodges, chapters, legions, and all other units of the order for the purpose of recruiting the memberships.

"The requirement of a bond to guarantee fulfillment of this contract is waived, the order regarding the promise of the said Davis as vastly of more value than the bond of any surety company."

Lodge Bars Lotteries.

Malcolm R. Giles, the last witness of the day, testified the by-laws of the order stated that a "lodge shall not under any circumstances conduct a lottery of any description."

The contention of the prosecution has been that through a series of charity balls, the proceeds of which were to go to the organization's home for orphans, Mooseheart, Ill., the order in 1930 and 1931 collected upwards of $3,000,000, of which Mooseheart received $150,000; McGuire, 150,000, and Davis $172,300.

While the defense sought to bring out that Senator Davis was only the "inspirational head" of the order, it was shown by testimony that he attended a luncheon in Mooseheart, Ill., only two hours before the actual drawing there of the lucky numbers.

A witness yesterday testified that the Pennsylvania senator was seen in Mooseheart two hours afterward also.

Not Present at Drawing.

Senator Davis was not present, however, when the ticket stubs were taken from a huge barrel in the printery of the children's camp, it was developed through the examination of Matthew Fischette, secretary of the Moose lodge at Clyde, N. Y.

Fischette said that his lodge participated in the 1931 annual ball only after its officers had been assured that Senator Davis was one of the sponsors.

Under cross-examination by one of the defense lawyers, Donald F. Stewart, editor of the Moose magazine and first witness for the prosecution, described the senator as only the "inspirational head" of the order—a man too busy with his political activities to keep abreast of the activities of the order which uses his name so freely, and consulted him only because of his general reputation and prestige.

The editorials signed by Senator Davis were written by others most of the time, the witness continued. The senator's name and number in the lodge—247—had always been "sacred," he said.

Stewart, appointed to the editorship of the magazine by the senator, was called by the prosecution in its effort to prove that the defendant is not only the guiding spirit of the Moose order but the actual perpetrator of the alleged lotteries. There are fourteen other witnesses to be called by the prosecution.

All of these, Mr. Treadwell told the jury yesterday when the trial opened, are either friends or appointees of the former secretary of labor and consequently likely to be hostile to the prosecution.

Stewart proved difficult today. At one point when the defense objected to a question by Treadwell on the ground he was cross-examining his own witness, Judge Frank J. Coleman commented:

"Well, it's pretty hard to tell just whose witness he is."

DEMOCRATS TO RAISE CASH BY SELLING SOAP

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Tyre Taylor, president of the Young Democratic clubs of America, announced today that unemployed persons throughout the nation will be used by member clubs in a campaign to sell 25 million bars of "Democratic soap."

Each bar is wrapped in red, white and blue paper dotted with stars and printed on the front of each is the slogan: "Democratic soap—let's clean up America."

Printed on the back of each wrapper is: "Works best when wet—buy Democratic soap—your dime provides a job for another good American and helps carry on the fight for clean government."

Taylor said it is planned to conduct a nationwide campaign selling the soap house to house and office to office. Each unemployed person handling the soap will receive several cents for each bar sold, and the local young Democratic club will get the remainder.

HOOVER URGES GERMANY TO STAY IN ARMS PARLEY

Plea Follows Report U. S. Joins France.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—What was interpreted as an appeal to Germany not to bolt the Geneva arms conference on the eve of the resumption of sessions by the steering committee at Geneva tomorrow was issued by President Hoover today.

In a formal statement the President said that while the United States was divorced from what he referred to as the "German arms question" this country was "anxious that Germany shall continue to participate in the arms conference" at Geneva.

Plea Follows Joining France.

The President's statement was issued within a few hours after American newspapers had printed cables from abroad indicating that Ambassador Edge and Senator David Reed [Rep., Pa.] had advised French officials that this government was standing shoulder to shoulder with France and Great Britain in insisting that Germany should not be allowed to rearm at this time. Germany recently asked for equality in armament, threatening to remain away from the league's session at Geneva unless her request was heeded.

"With reference to press dispatches from Paris on the German arms question, the position of this government is clear," the President said. "The sole question in which this country is interested is in reducing armaments of the whole world, step by step.

German Arms Europe's Problem.

"We are not a party to the Versailles treaty and its limitation on German arms. That is solely a European question. The United States has already declared that it takes no part in that discussion.

"We are anxious that Germany shall continue to participate in the arms conference which has now such promise of progress for the entire world and that she shall lend her aid in this great purpose."

AURORA RESIDENTS RECALL DRAWINGS OF MOOSE PRIZES

Residents of Aurora yesterday recalled the grand prize drawing held in the Leland hotel in Aurora, on Jan. 3, 1931, under the auspices of Loyal Order of Moose, which is part of the evidence against United States Senator James J. Davis of Pennsylvania, in his trial in a New York federal court on charges of conspiracy to violate the law against lotteries.

The drawing followed the grand ball of the Moose held in Aurora Dec. 17, 1930. Other balls were held over the country. Each 50 cent ticket of admission bore a numbered stub which entitled the owner to a chance at the big prize money. Salesmen of the tickets earned a commission. Stubs from all over the country were mailed to Aurora for the drawing.

When the drawing was conducted, Mrs. George Nahill, 2729 North Leavitt street, Philadelphia, was named as the winner of the $20,000 main prize. A. W. Koppman, 206 Brotherhood bank building, Cincinnati, won the $10,000 second prize. The $5,000 third prize was drawn by Frank S. Goodnow of Milford, Mass.

There were five $1,000 prizes, five $500 prizes, 15 $200 prizes, and 75 $100 prizes, the residents recalled, making a total of $53,000 in cash prizes given away.

Theodore G. Miller, head of the propaganda department of the Moose, was in charge of the Aurora drawing. Miller has been indicted on the same counts as Senator Davis but will be tried later.

ILLINOIS VOTERS FOR ROOSEVELT, ASSERTS CERMAK

The Cook county Democratic organization plunged into campaign activities yesterday at a meeting of the county central committee. Mayor Cermak told the committee that the fate of the county ticket depends upon victory in the county for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Democratic presidential nominee.

"Don't listen to talk about our having to carry Cook county by a tremendous majority to overcome a Republican majority downstate," the mayor said. "The sentiment downstate is the same as it is in Cook county, and the sentiment in both places is for the Democratic candidates for governor and President."

The county committee ordered a complete canvass of the city made before Oct. 1, the first day of registration.

8 More Plead Guilty in $10,000,000 Liquor Plot

Eight defendants in the $10,000,000 nation-wide alcohol diversion case yesterday pleaded guilty when arraigned before Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward and were given various sentences and fines totaling $4,450. Altogether nearly fifty defendants have now entered pleas of guilty and paid fines of approximately $50,000. Eighty-eight other defendants, including 63 individuals, have entered pleas of not guilty and are now awaiting trial. On motion of Assistant United States District Attorney James C. Leaton the case was continued generally subject to call on twenty days' notice.

FRANCE TO BRING UP BERLIN ARMS DEMAND TODAY

Germany Faced by United Front at Geneva.

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Sept. 20.—Armed with the threat of making public the much discussed secret dossier of German armaments, Premier Edouard Herriot of France has decided to bring up Germany's equality demands and her refusal to take part in the disarmament conference for immediate discussion when the conference bureau meets tomorrow, it was reliably reported tonight.

Germany will be faced with a united front, including the United States and Britain, if the French maneuver succeeds, which Herriot is confident it will. After indicating to Chancellor von Papen's government that they mean business by opening a discussion on the question as soon as Chairman Arthur H. Henderson has formally put the matter up to the bureau, the French will shift their tactics.

Personal Persuasion Drive.

It is understood that Paris has obtained the agreement of the British and Americans to join a campaign of personal persuasion directed at the German foreign minister, Baron Konstantin von Neurath, to induce him to change his mind before Friday, when attention will be turned to the league of nations council meeting.

Herriot's trump card—threatening the Germans with exposure of their alleged secret arms—will be played on Article 213 of the treaty of Versailles, which, according to French interpretation, precludes Germany's raising objection once the dossier is laid open.

Part 5 of the article reads: "So long as the present treaty remains in force, Germany undertakes to give every security for any investigation which the council of the league of nations, acting if need be by a majority vote, may consider necessary."

Says Allies Broke Pledge.

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Germany's world war opponents were accused by Baron Konstantin von Neurath, the foreign minister, in a magazine article today, of reluctance to fulfill their disarmament obligations.

Simultaneously the Nationalist newspaper, Deutsche Zeitung, commented that today's statement of President Hoover, urging the Germans to remain in the disarmament conference, reflected the "great embarrassment of the American President."

"Reckless Franco-British movements against the self-evident German demand hit the disarmament question so hard that Mr. Hoover's campaign could be badly hampered, because his name is closely connected with European armament woes," the paper went on.

"But he cannot seriously expect Germany to be guided out of consideration for the American campaign."

"No Upward Movement."

Baron von Neurath, writing in Weg zur Freiheit, said the disarmament question was stagnating from the reluctance of Germany's former opponents. Denying rumors in the foreign press that Germany favors to arm upward instead of general disarmament, the baron continued:

"Germany is disarmed and national security demands that others reduce their armaments to the same level, thus giving her the same rights and the same protection. If tanks and heavy guns in the possession of others are harmless defense tools, nobody can assert they become homicidal tools of aggression in German hands."

VON HINDENBURG JOINS GERMAN ARMY IN FIELD; CLAD IN WAR REGALIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Sept. 20.—President Paul von Hindenburg, clad in his field marshal's uniform, joined his troops in the field today in the German army maneuvers. The sham warfare embraces the area between the Oder and Warthe rivers. Von Hindenburg watched a cavalry division cross the Oder on an improvised bridge.

A large number of school boys and girls were given a holiday today and taken by their teachers to witness the military spectacle. The "battle for Berlin" is not yet decided. The attacking red forces possess better motor equipment and their greater rapidity has forced the blue legions to change their original defense plans.

French War Games Open.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CHALONS-SUR-MARNE, France, Sept. 20.—The French army's autumn war games in the Champagne region began today under the eye of the pacifist minister of war, Joseph Paul-Boncour. The maneuvers are called "coördinated exercises."

Twenty-four thousand men engaged in "battle" as the men or the motorized 15th division crossed the Marne to attack Camp Mailly, which was defended by the Second North African division.

Association of Commerce to Hear Cermak Oct. 5

The 1932-'33 program of weekly meetings of the Chicago Association of Commerce will be opened at the Hotel LaSalle on Wednesday noon, Oct. 5, with Mayor Anton J. Cermak as the principal speaker, it was announced yesterday. His subject will be: "What I Encountered in Europe."

HANGMAN BROODS OVER PEOPLE HE KILLED; ENDS LIFE

Spent 22 Years Putting Others to Death.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—(AP)—John Ellis, the world's most famous hangman, ended eight years of brooding retirement today. He was found dead, his throat slashed and a razor by his side.

On Jan. 9, 1923, after 22 years at his sinister task, Ellis bore the reputation of being the hangman who had sent more condemned murderers to their deaths than any other living man.

On that same day he put to death the notorious Mrs. Edith Thomson, who with young Frederick Bywaters, was condemned to death for the murder of the woman's husband.

Ostracized Himself from Society.

Years before Ellis had ostracized himself from society. His worry increased as his reputation became public. The hanging of Mrs. Thomson, who had to be dragged to the scaffold, was too much for him.

The aging man retired as a public hangman in the following year, but he was unable to shake off the horrors that haunted him. On Aug. 20 of that year he spent a sleepless night and the next day was found gravely wounded with a revolver by his side.

But he recovered, and after a long conference with a magistrate promised that he wouldn't commit suicide. But the years piled on years and the horror remained. The promise dimmed and today Ellis was dead.

Put Knight to Death,

Among those who died in a noose supervised by Ellis was Roger Casement, former British knight and consul, who was hanged for high treason. He was put to death in 1916 for conspiring to cause an armed revolt in Ireland, and for having sought German aid to that end.

Ellis also officiated at the hanging of Maj. Herbert R. Armstrong, a leading Welsh solicitor, convicted on a charge of poisoning his wife.

But it was the hanging of Mrs. Thomson that got his nerve, and he was reported to have sworn never to execute another person.

Appeared Once on Stage.

For a brief period in 1927 Ellis went on the stage in the part of a hangman, but that also was a little too much for him.

It was once Ellis' boast that he performed a hanging in 9 seconds, that span representing the time it took to take the condemned person from his cell and drop him to death.

HOUSEKEEPER IS PUT ON TRIAL IN $60,000 THEFT

Mrs. Sophia C. Paul, 56 years old, 4227 North Hermitage avenue, went on trial yesterday before Judge Michael Feinberg on a charge of stealing $60,000 from Harry C. Wirsing, 76 years old, retired real estate dealer, who was once rated a millionaire.

Wirsing, who lives at 126 Main street, Evanston, testified that he had been a widower since 1925 and that Mrs. Paul had been his housekeeper for the last four years. He added that he had placed all his movable wealth, which included $9,300 in cash, in a safety deposit box in the loop, after Mrs. Paul had convinced him the banks he patronized were unsafe.

On April 21 of this year, Wirsing continued, his housekeeper took his key to the box, entered it and removed all the property, which included jewelry and securities, in addition to the money.

"That's the whole truth," he asserted, pointing to the defendant. "I am a pauper on account of that woman."

Further testimony in the case will be taken today. Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller is prosecuting.

LEGISLATORS TO PROBE REPORTER FEES IN COURTS

The irregularities in the services of the nine official shorthand reporters of the Criminal court revealed by County Efficiency Expert Thor E. Madsen in a report to the county board were called to the attention of the legislative committee on local government yesterday. State Representative Elmer J. Schnackenberg said the committee would investigate the matter in its campaign to cut the cost of government.

The reporters received $300 a month from the state and in addition receive money from the county for transcripts at the rate of 50 cents a page and 25 cents for the first carbon copy. Mr. Madsen found duplication of service, over charges and over appropriation. He recommended a cut in the number of reporters to conform with the number of judges in the court. There are five judges sitting.

The county board finance committee yesterday postponed action on the report for a week.

QUEEN WILHELMINA.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 20.—Two communists today threw the Dutch upper house of parliament into an uproar by shouting "Down with the queen! Down with the throne! Down with the government!" just as Queen Wilhelmina began reading her address from the throne, which formally opened the assembly. Their voices were drowned out when the whole assembly burst spontaneously into the national anthem.

When the queen, accompanied by the prince consort and Princess Juliana, left the hall, a number of communists and unemployed attempted to attract her attention by cries of "Hunger!" They were quickly removed by police. Later at a communists' meeting there were several clashes between communists and police. The latter dispersed the demonstrator with swords.

The Netherlands' budget for 1933 shows a deficit of $40,000,000. Expenditures are estimated at $260,000,000 and revenues at $220,000,000. By increasing taxes and import duties 30 per cent, reducing wages of state functionaries 10 per cent, and introducing luxury taxes, the government hopes to balance the budget.

GUNMEN INVADE SHOP; SPRINKLE ACID ON CLOTHES

Two armed vandals invaded the clothing shops of Morris Lauter and L. Garber on the second floor of the building at 402 South Market street last evening, and destroyed $2,000 worth of clothing by sprinkling acid on it.

Lauter and his son, Harold, both of 6321 North Oakley avenue, were in their shop, which adjoins that of Garber, when the vandals entered. "This isn't a holdup," one of the pair announced. Both carried revolvers. They forced the Lauters into a rear room, and while one guarded them the other ruined the clothes with the acid. Before leaving the men yanked out the telephone wires.

South State street police were notified. Lauter said that he has had no immediate troubles, but that last April he had wage differences with the clothing union. Police said the vandalism was probably inspired by labor disputes.

Auto Fumes Kills Former Board of Trade Member

Fred C. Hey, 68 years old, former member of the board of trade, was killed by carbon monoxide gas from an auto motor yesterday in the garage in the rear of his apartment building at 2435 Wilson avenue. He had been a garage owner in recent years. Hey was found by Henry Meier, 22 years old, son of a tenant. Rescue Squad No. 3 of the fire department, commanded by Capt. Thomas Shay, tried unsuccessfully for several hours to revive Hey. Police believe he was overcome accidentally.

RIOT IN INDIA AS GANDHI GOES ON DEATH FAST

ing free. He loked fit—as though he weighed rather more than his usual 101 pounds.

"I am touchable by birth," he cried, "but untouchable by choice."

Then he went on to explain the background of his decision to fast until he dies.

"Life of No Consequence."

"My life I count as of no consequence," he said. "A hundred such lives given for this noble cause would in my opinion be poor penance done by Hindus for the atrocious wrong heaped on the helpless men and women of their own faith."

He reiterated his complaint that separate electorates for the untouchable Hindus would still further divide them from their fellows.

"It is only because Englishmen cannot possibly see the living side of the picture," he continued, "that in their ignorance and self-satisfaction they act as judges upon a question affecting the fundamental feeling of millions of people—I mean both caste Hindus and untouchables, that is, the suppressors and the suppressed.

Tussle for Justice.

"Like the prophet of Islam and like Jesus, I, on a humbler scale, have undertaken a tussle for justice, as my fast continues my human cry will rise to the heavens of God Almighty.

"My fast is not for sympathy. After the first few days the desire for food will vanish and I shall begin to brood. All my interest will be withdrawn from externals, and I shall become one with 'the cause.'

"Be assured, however, that I shall make a superhuman effort to retain my grip on life. I am anxious as anybody to continue to live.

"There is nothing like water for prolonging life and I shall partake of it whenever I require it, and hope to carry on until the Hindu conscience awakens."

Clash at Temple.

AHMEDABAD, India, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Riots broke out here today as Mahatma Gandhi began his death fast in Yeravda jail at Poona. The trouble began over a proposal to open some of the Hindu temples to the "untouchables," whose voting privileges are the reason for Gandhi's fast of protest.

Police were called out to disperse an angry crowd of orthodox members of the Jains, a Hindu sect, who staged a demonstration outside one temple, pulling down an announcement that the lower classes would be admitted.

The Jains had set up a picket on the temple gates to prevent the untouchables from entering.

Sympathy Fast Urged.

New York, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Followers of Mahatma Gandhi were urged at a massmeeting tonight to observe a 24-hour fast in sympathy with his avowal to starve himself to death unless the British government accedes to his electoral ideas.

Dr. Haridas T. Mu Zumdar, editor of the India Review, described the Indian leader's decision as "Gandhi's Calvary" and said that "in a strange manner the drama of crucifixion is being reënacted." A resolution was cabled to Prime Minister MacDonald supporting Gandhi's stand and asking the government to revoke its communal awards.

TERENCE MAC SWINEY'S DEATH RECALLED BY GANDHI HUNGER STRIKE

Mahatma Gandhi's "fast unto death" in Yeravda prison in India occurs twelve years and a month after another fast that profoundly affected the British empire. Terence MacSwiney, lord mayor of Cork, began to starve himself in behalf of Irish freedom on Aug. 12, 1920, and died 74 days later.

MacSwiney was identified with the Sinn Fein movement in Ireland which began a passive resistance campaign, but became violent after the "Easter riots" of 1916. The Sinn Feiners proclaimed a republic in 1919, and their members were hunted down by British police and troops.

At the height of the Sinn Fein resistance MacSwiney was elected mayor of Cork. Soon after his inaugural he was arrested and tried on charges of possessing a secret police code, making a seditious speech, and pledging allegiance to the outlawed Dail Eireann. He was found guilty and sentenced to two years in prison. MacSwiney declined to take food the moment he was arrested.

He was taken to Brixton prison in London and on Aug. 21 announced he was dying for Ireland. The British government refused to release him.

MacSwiney's fast was clouded in some respects. Before 30 days had elapsed his death was expected momentarily. As the fast went on, it was said that he was being fed food tablets by his wife, Muriel, and revived occasionally with injections of strychnine. There was also an implication that prison physicians were keeping him alive by forced feeding. Five days before MacSwiney's death it was admitted that a prison physician had forced some beef extract and brandy down his throat.

SAYS S. W. STRAUS HAD HOTEL FLOOR FREE OF RENT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20. — The entire twelfth floor of the Hotel Ambassador was the rent free home of S. W. Straus, now dead, for twelve years, the state attorney general charged in an amended complaint filed today in the Supreme court in the action seeking appointment of a receiver for S. W. Straus & Co., investment bankers. Straus & Co. handled the bonds of the Hotel Ambassador among other real estate securities.

The attorney general seeks a receivership on the grounds that the firm was guilty of fraud in the sale and distribution of bonds. A temporary injunction also is asked to forbid Straus & Co. from further dealing in securities.

The story of the apartment was told in an affidavit of William H. Peterkin, former chief accountant at the hotel. He also said that before his death Mr. Straus gave the furnishings, valued at $200,000, to his wife. Peterkin said that Straus' presence deprived the hotel of about $500,000 possible revenue. Mrs. Straus, he said, after her husband died, made a small payment on the basis of $10,000 annual rent.

$500 a Month Temporary Alimony to Mrs. Wieland

Circuit Judge Philip Finnegan yesterday awarded temporary alimony of $500 a month to Mrs. Mae Wieland, 1111 Sheridan road, Wilmette, in her divorce action against Charles J. Wieland, dairyman. The judge set Sept. 26 for hearing on Mrs. Wieland's bill which names Miss Buelah Johnson, 659 Wrightwood avenue, as corespondent.

LIGHTNING SETS FIRE TO HOUSE.

Marquette, Ia., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The $4,000 farm residence of William Breckler, near here, was struck by lightning Monday night and burned to the ground. Mr. and Mrs. Breckler and their two children escaped without injury.

COLOMBIANS RAID PAPER; STIRRED BY "WAR FEVER"

Charge Unpatriotism in Row with Peru.

BOGOTA, Colombia, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Charging unpatriotic publications during the "Leticia affair," a mob today invaded the offices of the communist newspaper Tierra, destroyed furniture and seized and burned copies of the paper. There were no casualties. More than 3,000 women paraded through the streets of the capital today singing the national anthem.

Earlier in the day it was announced that the Colombian government had refused to accept a Peruvian proposal for a settlement of the controversy over the recent occupation of the port city of Leticia by Peruvians. Leticia was ceded to Colombia by Peru in 1922.

The Colombian foreign office reply said it "cannot accept the Peruvian suggestion as to how we should act in the repression of Leticia, the movement being a matter of internal order." The note said "troops will pass through Colombian waters," and will "exert in Colombian territory, an independent act of national sovereignty."

Paraguay Claims Advance.

ASUNCION, Paraguay, Sept. 20.—(AP)—An army communique tonight said Paraguayan troops had advanced in all sectors in the nearly two weeks long siege of Fort Boqueron in the Chaco area. It was added that several Bolivian attempts to break the ring of troops around the fort had been repulsed, with heavy Bolivian casualties.

Brazil Claims City Captured.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Federal troops in the northern sector tonight claimed to have occupied Igarapava, important railway and highway junction on the Minas Geraes-Sao Paulo state line, in one of two drives launched against the Sao Paulo rebels. Southern troops were reported to have taken the Sao Paulo coast town of Porto Evaldo in the other offensive. The northern advance for the day was said to be about 30 miles.

CAPTURE ROBBER AFTER HE BEATS WOMAN IN HOME

An 18 year old robber, who beat Mrs. Mathilda Kuchenbecker when she resisted him in her home at 2221 Eastwood avenue yesterday afternoon, was pursued and captured by a police squad which had been informed of the occurrence by a radio message.

At the Albany Park station the youth identified himself as Robert Christenson, 3565 Le Moyne street. He admitted that he knew Mrs. Kuchenbecker's husband, Frank, was secretary of a carpenters' union and that he had gained entry to the house by representing himself as a member who wished to pay his dues.

SWANSON AIDS HUNT RECORDS OF THE INSULLS

Start Investigation of Companies' Books.

State's Attorney Swanson's investigation of the affairs of the Insull companies went into full stride yesterday.

In pursuance of his plan to establish whether criminal acts were committed in the sale of Insull securities to thousands of investors before the collapse of the Insull holding and investment companies last spring, Mr. Swanson sent his special staff of four assistants and an auditor on a hunt for the personal records of Samuel Insull and his brother, Martin J. Insull.

The assistant prosecutors — John Hampton, Charles Bellows, Voyle Johnson and John O'Hora—called first at the main office of the Middle West Utilities company, 20 North Wacker drive, the gigantic holding corporation through which Samuel Insull formerly ruled a utilities dominion in thirty-two states.

Records Are Thrown Open.

The Middle West receivers, Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, provided the investigators with a special office and bade them examine any records they pleased.

"We haven't come across any 'personal' records of the Insull brothers," Mr. Hurley told the prosecutors. "Any records we have are open to your inspection and the staff of the company will give you every assistance it can."

The prosecutors and their auditor, John Bailey, spent the afternoon acquiring some education in the mazes of utility finance as practiced by the Insulls. Mr. Hurley and Mr. McCulloch played the rôle of instructors.

"It was the most complicated financial setup I ever heard of," said Mr. Bellows afterwards. "It seemed almost incredible that such a system could be built up and controlled by one man. The study of the records will take weeks."

Auditor to Start Today.

Auditor Bailey will begin the study of the Insull records this morning while the prosecutors will branch out into other phases of the investigation.

Prosecutor Hampton will leave for New York to observe the proceedings in the New York federal court where several subsidiaries of the National Electric Power company, itself a subsidiary of Middle West, are going through an ancillary receivership.

Prosecutor O'Hora will go to Springfield to examine the Middle West statements filed at various times in the office of the secretary of state to qualify Middle West securities for sale under the blue sky law.

Aldrich Off to Washington.

Little activity was discernible in the federal building, where a separate Insull investigation is being started. K. P. Aldrich, chief postoffice inspector in Chicago, departed for Washington, presumably to get further instructions regarding his assignment in the inquiry.

United States Attorney Dwight H. Green denied a report current in the federal building that he had already appointed an assistant to conduct the Insull investigation. W. A. McSwain, chief of the bureau of investigation, department of justice, was absent from his office. His subordinates said they did not know where he was.

Hint Suits Against Directors.

The possibility that suits may be filed against directors of the Insull holding and investment companies on behalf of stock and bond holders was hinted in several quarters during the day.

Among the directors of the companies are the following:

MIDDLE WEST UTILITIES: Samuel Insull, Martin J. Insull, Samuel Insull Jr., Walter S. Brewster, and Edward P. Russell, partners in the brokerage house of Russell, Brewster & Co.; Britton I. Budd, receiver for the elevated lines; Edward J. Doyle, Louis A. Ferguson, John F. Gilchrist, John H. Gulick and E. W. Lloyd, all executives of Insull operating companies; and Bernard E. Sunny.

B. J. MULLANEY RETURNS TO CITY WITH HIS BRIDE

Bernard J. Mullaney, a vice president of the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company, returned from Paris yesterday with his bride and news of Samuel Insull, former utility magnate, who attended the Mullaney wedding at Chantilly on Sept. 5.

Of his bride, the former Mrs. Georgia Blackman Pratt of Paris, he was willing to talk at length, but he was reluctant to discuss Insull.

"Please don't say very much about Mr. Insull," Mr. Mullaney begged reporters. "He is looking very well and is living quietly. He wants people to leave him alone so he may forget everything."

Asked if Insull appeared to be cheerful when last seen, Mr. Mullaney replied:

"He was in good spirits when I last saw him—the day of our wedding. But his chief concern is Mrs. Insull, who is not well. She was improving, however, when we came away. The doctors have assured Mr. Insull that she is in no danger, but must be kept quiet."

Mrs. Mullaney, wearing a fall coat of brown, brown slippers, a mustard green beret and blouse, and an orchid on her coat lapel, obligingly posed for photographers with her husband. Although she visited the states last winter, she has resided in France since the war, during which she was in Red Cross service.

CERMAK GETS 1ST 1933 FAIR CERTIFICATE

The first official World's Fair certificates were presented to Mayor Cermak yesterday by Miss Jane Carpenter, W-G-N entertainer. The certificates will be distributed to merchants throughout the middle west and will be used for transportation, hotel rooms, meals and entertainment during the exposition next year.

The World's Fair has awarded a contract for issuance of the certificates to the Chicago Merchandise Certificates company. They will be issued in denominations of 1, 5 and 25 cents face value, and purchased by merchants who will distribute them to patrons as a means of stimulating trade. Accumulation of enough of the certificates will enable the holder to see the exposition without cost. Fifteen Chicago companies have agreed to take the certificates in payment of bills.

The contract provides that the Continental-Illinois Bank and Trust company will act as trustee of the funds.

BUTTERCUP JUST DOTES ON KINDLY POUNDMASTER

William Erlandson, Evanston's premier dog catcher, yesterday appealed to the police of his suburb for help.

"Something must be done about Buttercup," Erlandson said. "He is a little brown dog that I had in as a prisoner not long ago. The boy who owned Buttercup came around and got him, but now that dog comes back every day and just sits at the gate of the pound, crying piteously to get in."

It was suggested that a kick in the ribs might change Buttercup's ideas of the pound, but Erlandson replied that this might make the regular prisoners nervous.

"Besides, I am too kind hearted," he murmured.

RECORDS SHOW FAVORED BUYERS OF INSULL STOCK

250,000 Shares Purchased at $12 Apiece.

The records of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., show that there was a group of selected individuals and concerns participating in a syndicate in connection with the marketing of the company's common stock. Samuel Insull and others who participated were allowed to purchase 250,000 shares at prices under the public offering price and the prevailing market quotations.

The identity of the individuals and firms that took part in this operation is not disclosed in the audited report filed by the receivers with the federal district court.

Samuel Insull entered into an agreement with the corporation in January, 1929, shortly after its incorporation, in which he promised to purchase or cause to be purchased 250,000 shares of the common stock at $12 a share. The stock was offered to the public at $15 a share but it was not sold below $27 in the open market and allotments at the offering price were highly coveted at the time in La Salle street.

Insull's Option Used.

The record of stock sales contained in the report filed by the receivers shows Insull's option to purchase the stock at $12 a share was exercised.

Arthur Andersen & Co., the auditors, said in this connection: "The conditions of this contract were complied with and additional common stock was issued in accordance therewith. Under provision 4 of the contract of the 250,000 shares were subscribed for during 1929 by a wide list of individuals."

Samuel Insull placed this stock himself, but the names of the persons who purchased the shares were not a part of the company's records.

Other Syndicates Formed.

Other syndicates were formed by Insull during 1929 and 1930 to facilitate the public distribution of the stock and one such syndicate has not been completely liquidated. The latter, which was formed through Insull, Son & Co., subsidiary of Insull Utility Investments, and 150 concerns and individuals took part in the operation.

This group was organized in the summer of 1929 to maket $30,000,000 of common stock. Members of the syndicate agreed individually to take designated amounts of stock for which they posted margins. As the operation was expected to result in a profit to members they were not called on to put up the entire purchase price. The purchase of shares from Insull Utility was financed through a large bank loan which the syndicate has not fully repaid. At present the members of the syndicate are being called on to pay up their share of this bank loan.

Bankers Have List.

The names of the 150 members of the syndicate are in the hands of the bankers who made the loan, but are not a part of the records of Insull Utility Investments. While bankers and others acknowledge the existence of this list they say they do not know of the reported group of 1,600 persons who are supposed to have had special concessions when the Insull stock was offered.

Receivers of Insull Utility Investments say they know of no such list of individuals. George A. Cooke, co-receiver with Calvin Fentress, said yesterday that if such a list existed he had not seen it and that the records of the company did not contain the names of any such group of individuals.

Bankers familiar with the affairs of the Insull investment companies said that at least as many as 1,500 individuals were granted allotments of the stock at the regular offering price when such allotments were made at prices substantially under the prevailing market quotations.

State's Attorney Swanson, who is investigating other aspects of the Insull situation, said yesterday that he knew nothing of the "list of 1,500" except which he had read in the newspapers.

BOOTLEGGER IS HELD AFTER CRIPPLE DIES OF POISON LIQUOR

Robinson, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special]—A bootlegger was held in Crawford county jail today for investigation following a verdict returned by a coroner's jury that Raymond Martin, a cripple of Russelville, came to his death "by taking some variety of poison, obviously wood alcohol, furnished by persons unknown."

The bootlegger, Louis Shrock, was taken into custody by local officers today after they raided his home and confiscated 42 bottles of home brew and a quantity of whisky.

Martin died last night. Coroner L. P. Sloan, who conducted the autopsy, stated that death resulted from wood alcohol poisoning.

COURTNEY WINS CRIME BOARD'S BACKING IN RACE

Report Attacks Swanson's Record as Prosecutor.

The Chicago Crime commission yesterday indorsed the candidacy of Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic candidate for state's attorney, in a statement issued by President Frank J. Loesch and Charles R. Napier, secretary. The statement said that State's Attorney Swanson's "administration of his office has not been such as to warrant reelection."

Informed of the stand of the crime commission, State's Attorney Swanson said: "The best answer to that report is the record of my office over a period of three and one-half years. It shows conclusively that with fewer courts in action we have tried cases more swiftly and had a greater percentage of convictions than before. The Criminal court calendar is in better shape than at any time in the last 50 years."

"We have shown 23 per cent greater convictions than the previous administration approved by the same organization. We have cured the bail bond evil without unnecessary public clamor. The best answer is always in the record, which shows results and not merely words. I must admit that I will not allow outside organizations to run my office."

The statement of the crime commission urged the voters to cast their ballots for the Democratic candidate in "the best interests of the public."

"The Chicago crime commission is a voluntary nonpartisan organization," the commission's statement said. "Its sole object is to promote the proper and efficient administration of criminal justice.

"The board of directors and officials of the crime commission are convinced that the present state's attorney's administration of his office has not been such as to merit his reelection. In the opinion of the commission, there-

FATE OF CHICAGO POOR RELIEF UP TO WASHINGTON

Cermak Leaves Tomorrow to Appeal to R. F. C.

Mayor Cermak will head a party of city and state officials and legislators who will start to Washington over the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tomorrow afternoon in a last-minute effort to obtain funds to keep Chicago's relief stations from closing Saturday night.

One hundred and twenty-five thousand families in Cook county alone are now dependent upon charity, it was stated, and there will be an increase in the number of these dependents when the cold weather begins. It is this message, together with a promise that a definite legislative program will be adopted next week that carries the hopes of the mayor and his party for a $8,100,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

Hearing on Friday.

Corporation Counsel Sexton announced that the finance corporation's officials have granted a hearing to the Illinois delegates at 11:30 o'clock Friday morning.

The $8,100,000 sought from the Reconstruction Finance corporation, which has already loaned $9,000,000 to Illinois for relief purposes, will be sufficient to keep the relief stations open until Nov. 15, according to the estimates of officials of the Joint Emergency Relief commission. By that time, it is hoped, money will be available from new sources tapped by the legislature.

The representatives of Illinois were told upon their last appearance in Washington not to come back for more money until they had adopted a definite legislative program. A joint committee of state senators and representatives decided upon two relief measures Monday, and they hope that their recommendations will be interpreted in Washington as a "definite program."

These two measures contemplate the diversion of the gasoline tax by each county for relief purposes and a county sales tax to be adopted by the counties that want it.

Flood Relief Fund.

Mayor Cermak, announcing that he would join the party going to Washington, issued a statement attacking his predecessor in office for withholding $100,000 contributed by school children for Mississippi flood relief several years ago.

"The school children of Chicago contributed their pennies and nickels for suffering flood victims," he said. "The need for flood relief subsided with $100,000 still in the fund. That money, nowcheid by the former mayor, should be turned over by him for the relief of starving Chicagoans."

Among those who will go to Washington, D. C., are Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Joint Emergency Relief commission; Corporation Counsel Sexton; State Senators Richard J. Barr and Thomas J. Courtney, and Representatives Roger Little of Champaign and Michael L. Igoe.

$15,500,000 REVENUE

The legislative relief program which was outlined on Monday by a committee of state senators and representatives will fall far short of raising sufficient funds for poor relief in Cook county, it was discovered yesterday.

The total annual revenue that can be expected from a diversion of gasoline tax funds and a 1 per cent sales tax in Cook county, the two relief measures proposed by the committee on Monday, is about $15,500,000, according to statistics furnished by the Illinois emergency relief commission. This sum would pay the Cook county relief bill for a little more than three months. Moreover, the funds would not become available at once, but would be collected over the entire year.

Returns from Sales Tax.

The 1 per cent sales tax in Cook county would return a total of $13,128,850, according to the estimated total retail sales for 1932, computed from the 1929 census figures and brought up to date by the federal reserve index. Deducted from that figure would be $465,000, the amount the sales tax would produce on the retail sale of gasoline. The deduction is contemplated because of the heavy tax burden gasoline now bears.

Cook county now receives an allotment of one-third of the total taxes collected on gasoline sold within its borders. In 1930 that allotment, which is used for road building, amounted to $3,848,587, and in 1931, $4,250,337. The remainder of the gas tax money is retained by the state for highway building. Under the proposed bill for the diversion of these funds only the county allotment is considered.

The county's gas tax allotment, it was recalled yesterday, would also suffer a deduction of $1,500,000 a year to cover the amortization and interest charges on the $20,000,000 relief bond issue to be voted in the general election in November. This deduction would reduce the allotment, using last year's figure, to about $2,750,337.

Center of Controversy.

The proposed county sales tax bill which the legislative committee has agreed unanimously to support, continued to be the center of controversy yesterday. Corporation Counsel Sexton said that a bill, allowing the adoption of a sales tax by counties of up to 5 per cent, would be unconstitutional if the various counties adopted sales taxes of different percentages.

DeWitt Billman, legal advisor to Gov. Emmerson, on the other hand, said that he thought the bill would be declared constitutional. Elmer J. Schnackenberg, member of the house committee, said he believed the county sales tax bill would be held constitutional by the supreme court because "it appears to be the only sure way of raising the needed money in Illinois."

Favors County Sales Tax.

A Chicago merchant, who refused to be quoted, said yesterday that if a sales tax is necessary to raise relief funds he would prefer to see a county sales tax enacted rather than a general state sales tax. If the state legislators fix the base tax and legislate for its collection they will be swayed largely by downstate interests, he said; but if it is a county tax and the county board drafts the base and collection provisions merchants would be able to present arguments on the measure.

He said that Chicago merchants would prefer to see a sales tax on manufactured products rather than on retail sales because of the difficulty of collection. With the retail collee-

TAX FIXER PUT IN JAIL AFTER TWO YEAR DELAY

Records Show Granting of Many Continuances.

After nearly two years of court continuances Herman J. Goldberg, convicted tax fixer, was ordered to the county jail yesterday to start serving a three months' sentence. The order was issued by Judge James J. Kelly of the Criminal court who denied Goldberg's petition for a writ of habeas corpus and declared that "this case has been fooling around long enough."

Goldberg was sentenced to jail in June, 1931, by Judge Joseph Sabath, who found him and two other defendants guilty of conspiracy after ten continuances had delayed the trial for six months. Goldberg was also fined $1,000.

County Records Manipulated.

Evidence at the trial showed that Goldberg, a tax expert, had reduced taxes on some properties by manipulating county records through the connivance of county employes. The continuances of his case were granted chiefly by Judge Sabath and Judge Harry Fisher, according to the records made public by George Seif, clerk of the Criminal court. Judge Philip L. Sullivan, it was shown, acted twice in extending continuances during the absence of Judge Fisher.

"This is the first time I have ever heard of judges and apparently the state's attorney—from what the record shows—letting a defendant write his own ticket," said Judge Kelly yesterday in reviewing the Goldberg case. "I would say that they have been very kind to the defendant. I have never seen anything like it in my 35 years' experience as a lawyer and judge."

Prosecutor Defends Self.

Assistant State's Attorney Homer Dodge, who had charge of the prosecution of Goldberg, said that apparently many of the court entries, which show continuances "by agreement of the state's attorney," are not correct. He pointed out that both he and Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor, habeas corpus expert, were before Judge Kelly to demand that Goldberg be sent to jail at once. He said he had made the same demand several times previously before other judges.

Several times in recent months there have been rumors in the Criminal court that if Goldberg ever went to jail he "would tell plenty." After he went to jail yesterday Goldberg reported he had nothing to say at this time, but would wait a while to see whether his case is appealed.

Court records indicate that several times Goldberg was allowed to walk the streets for weeks at a time without any official court order permitting him to be out of jail. The sheriff's office had no explanation for not seizing Goldberg during these periods.

What the Record Shows.

The record discloses that Goldberg's tax fixing activities were discovered in 1930. He was indicted in December, 1930, and after ten continuances he was tried before Judge Sabath. On June 30, 1931, the jail sentence order was entered and a motion for a new trial was made and continued to Aug. 1. The record then shows the following entries:

Aug. 3—Continued by agreement to Aug. 17 by Judge Sabath.

Aug. 17—Continued by agreement to Aug. 19 by Judge Sabath.

Aug. 19—Continued by agreement to Aug. 22 by Judge Sabath.

Aug. 22—Motion for a new trial overruled by Judge Sabath and 60 days allowed to file a bill of exceptions. Motion for probation continued to October.

Oct. 5—Bill of exceptions and mittimus extended 30 days by Judge Fisher.

Nov. 2—Bill of exceptions and mittimus extended 90 days by Judge Fisher.

Feb. 16, 1932—Bill of exceptions and mittimus stayed to March 16 by Judge Fisher.

No court order is of record from March 16, 1932, until April 16 when Judge Sullivan extended the appeal time to April 29 with directions that the case be taken up by Judge Sabath. On April 29 Judge Sullivan extended the time to May 13 with the same directions.

May 13—Bill of exceptions and mittimus stayed to May 28 by Judge Sabath.

May 28—Bill of exceptions and mittimus stayed to June 1 by Judge Sabath.

June 1—Motion for probation overruled and mittimus stayed to June 6 by Judge Sabath.

June 6—Bill of exceptions and mittimus stayed 30 days by Judge Fisher.

Again a period of no court order appears. The next entry is the application for the writ of habeas corpus on Aug. 12. This was the matter decided yesterday by Judge Kelly.

SURFACE LINES TO PAY TAXES OF $1,913,069 TODAY

Court Enters Judgment for Personalty Items.

Circuit Judge Craig A. Hood yesterday entered judgment against the Chicago Railway, the Chicago City Railway and the Calumet and South Chicago Railway companies for $1,913,069 in delinquent 1930 personal property taxes. Attorneys for the companies said they would turn over checks for the total to County Treasurer McDonough this afternoon.

$87,000 in Penalties.

In the judgment are included $87,000 in penalties and $57 court costs. The companies paid $963,808 of their 1930 tax bill of $2,876,927 last June. Action to force payment of the remainder was brought by Special County Attorney Lee La Rochelle, who was appointed last June to collect delinquent personalty taxes. The judgment was entered after a hearing lasting eight days.

County Assessor J. L. Jacobs told representatives at a tax conference of labor and real estate leaders that the average man whose personal property tax is from $3 to $15 is usually public spirited and willing to pay. The assessor said he aims to get such persons in the habit of filing personal property schedules instead of waiting for his deputies to make assessments.

He asked representatives of the conference in the City club to cooperate in helping him to insure fairness in equalizing the tax. The assessor said the activities of tax fixers and racketeers are at an end, and that lawyers who are advising their clients not to pay real estate or personal property taxes will only work harm for their clients.

TWO MORE CITY JUDGES ACCEPT 48 DAY PAY CUT

Two more Municipal court judges last night announced they would accept the 48 days' pay cut imposed on all city employes. A third judge said he would refuse to take the cut. Twenty-one of the 36 judges have announced an acceptance of the pay cut, six have refused, and nine have failed to answer letters sent to them by Chief Justice Sonsteby six weeks ago inquiring if they would allow their salaries to be reduced.

"I'll take the reduction," announced Judge J. William Brooks last night. "I have six children and my expenses are heavy, but if others have to take a cut, I'll take one, too." Judge Leon Edelman was the other judge who authorized the chief justice to deduct 48 days' pay from his 1932 salary.

"I've taken one cut of 15 days' pay and I think that is sufficient," said Judge John H. Lyle.

The nine judges who have failed to answer the chief justice's letter are Altar M. Eberhardt, William R. Fetzer, Joseph A. Graber, Thomas A. Green, John F. Haas, William E. Hslander, John J. Lupa, John A. Sbarbaro, and Frederick W. Elliott.

Win Greater Success in Life?
Turn Your Ability Into Cash?
Become Independent in the Next 6 Years?

G. E. MARCHAND, who has put thousands on the road to greater success. He will give an actual demonstration on the stage, showing how ambitious men and women can become more successful in business and in life.

How to Win Friends—Money—Power—This New Short-cut Way

If you are not satisfied with your progress—if the future seems to hold little promise—if you want to give yourself and loved ones the good things of life—then come tonight and hear Mr. G. E. Marchand at Orchestra Hall.

Mr. Marchand discovered certain secrets that turned his own life from poverty to earnings of over a million dollars before he was 37.

He told his secret to a few friends. Their success was immediate. He told a few more. They, too, increased their incomes.

Mr. Marchand then decided to give a part of his time to helping earnest men and women win greater success. People thronged to hear him and were lifted from dull, underpaid jobs to high-salaried positions. He became known as "America's Famous Maker of Successful Men and Women."

Success Brought to You

Mr. Marchand will show you, with pictures, living models and demonstrations on the stage, how you can use his method to win personal advancement at once. No books. No correspondence. Mr. Marchand is not a lecturer, but a practical business man, who clearly shows how to increase sales and income—have 100% confidence in yourself and become independent in the next period of prosperity.

Increased Earnings at Once

Hundreds of men and women write telling of the marvelous results gained through Mr. Marchand's programs. "More than doubled my earnings," says Frank H. Copeland. "On January 1st I was promoted to branch manager," says C. H. Rivers. "Received three promotions with the Hudson Motor Car Company," writes Wm. Lovett. "Increased my income from $4,000 to $14,000 in one year," telegraphs I. R. Harris. "Last month I increased my pay check $97.32 over any previous month," writes J. E. Seitz. Letters like these are constantly pouring in.

Tonight Free

Do you want to earn more money? If you do, we challenge you to come to Mr. Marchand's program tonight. It has been the beginning of success for thousands of men and women.

But don't bother if you're a quitter! It takes fight to get ahead these days; and weak-kneed, spineless men have no chance of helping themselves. If you're a fighter—come tonight. All seats free.

IT IS SURPRISING HOW DELICIOUSLY DIFFERENT HILLS BROS COFFEE TASTES

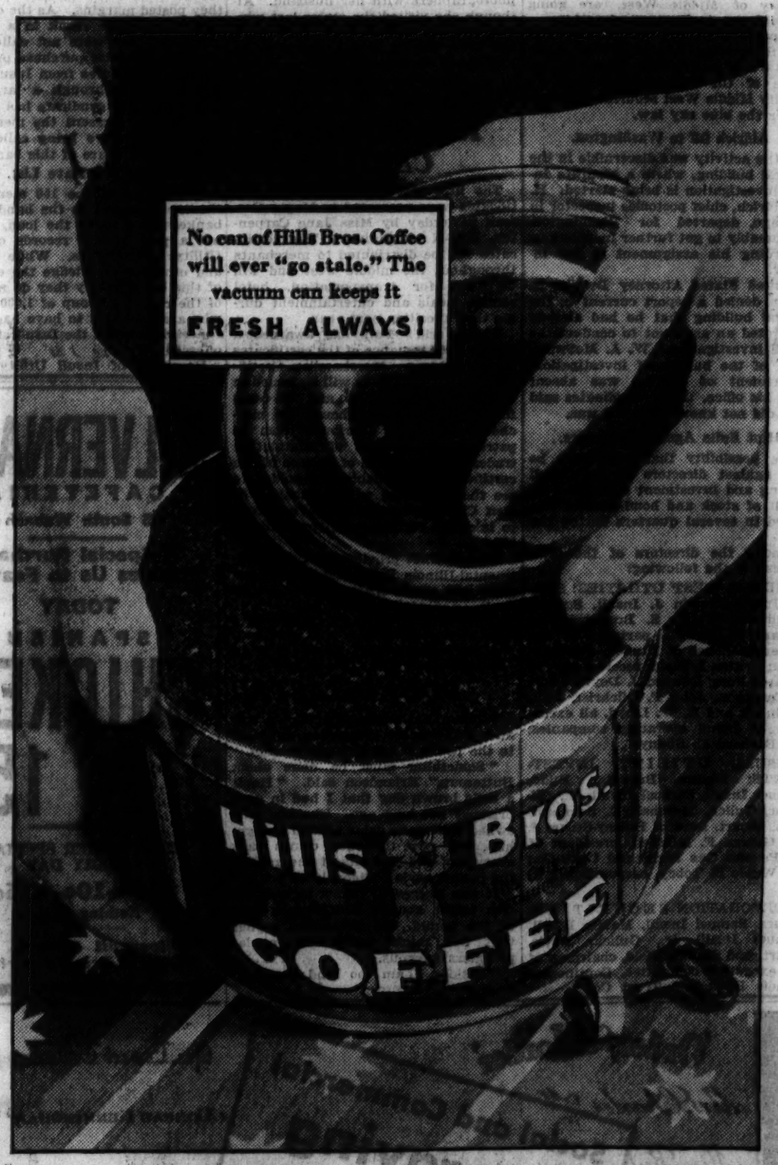
As the accuracy of the hour-glass depends upon an even, continuous flow . . .

a little at a time

. . . so the uniform flavor of Hills Bros. Coffee is produced by Controlled Roasting—the patented process that roasts evenly, continuously . . . "a little at a time."

Roasted as no other coffee is roasted . . . Hills Bros gives you the perfect flavor of the coffee-berries

Hills Bros' patented Controlled Roasting process roasts "a little at a time," instead of in bulk



You'll certainly get a pleasant surprise, when you taste Hills Bros. Coffee! It is different in aroma and flavor from any other. And when you drain the cup, you'll have a different sense of satisfaction! It's because Hills Bros. is roasted by a different process. Ordinarily, coffee is roasted in bulk. But Hills Bros. use their patented Controlled Roasting process. The coffee flows through the roasters in an even, continuous stream . . . a little at a time.

No berry is under-roasted nor over-roasted. Each one is an ideal example of perfect flavor-development! Bulk-roasting can't be so accurate as that. But Controlled Roasting is so accurate that this coffee never varies in flavor! Hills Bros. Coffee is packed in vacuum cans, and can't go stale. The vacuum process of packing coffee is the only method that fully preserves coffee freshness—the air is removed from the can and kept out. It was originated by Hills Bros. over thirty years ago. There is no magic about a vacuum can—it will not make poor coffee good, but it will keep good coffee fresh.

Bend your head toward a steaming cup of Hills Bros. Coffee . . . get a whiff of that flavorful fragrance. Now taste a "taste" that defies description! Order Hills Bros. by name, and look for the Arab trade-mark on the can.

FIGHT 40 MILLION FEDERAL LOAN TO LOS ANGELES

Ask Court to Enjoin R.F.C. from Advancing Funds.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Suit to prevent 40 million dollars of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds from being used for construction of an aqueduct from Boulder dam to Los Angeles was filed today in the District of Columbia Supreme court.

In a bill of complaint filed by Harry J. Gerrity, Washington attorney, three California citizens ask that the Reconstruction Finance corporation be enjoined from advancing the 40 million dollar loan recently authorized to be made to the metropolitan water district of southern California which includes Los Angeles, Long Beach, Pasadena, and ten other California cities.

The plaintiffs who oppose this transmission of further government funds to be added to the 165 million dollars required to complete Boulder dam, are all residents of the water district.

They are Ralph E. Burnham, Pasadena; Ross Grant, Los Angeles; and Albert Irving Smith, also of Los Angeles.

Seek 32 Millions More.

Through Attorney Gerrity they attack the legality of the decision by which the corporation proposes to purchase two $20,000,000 lots of the 220 million dollars worth of water district bonds.

Even as the suit to restrain the aqueduct loan was being entered, officials of the Los Angeles department of water and power were pressing corporation officials to grant their application for a further loan of 32 million dollars for the construction of a power line from Boulder dam to the coast.

That loan also had its opponents. Nor were these California loans the only ones to be met with opposition. The corporation was also faced with a protest against the proposed loan of 10 million dollars for a bridge across Chesapeake bay on the ground that this would mean the use of federal funds to finance a project to compete with going privately owned ferry lines.

In his complaint against the aqueduct loan Attorney Gerrity declared that the aqueduct would not be a "self-liquidating project" as required by the relief act under which the loan was authorized.

Californians Oppose Borrowing.

He revealed that many California citizens were opposed to the borrowing because they felt in the first place that the Los Angeles metropolitan area already has a water supply sufficient to meet its needs for the next 15 years. They also feared, the attorney's brief explained, that the project would entail a tremendous additional tax burden.

Moreover, Mr. Gerrity explained:

"It is questionable whether the Federal Reconstruction Finance corporation should participate in such a gigantic construction program affecting the taxpayers of southern California when the district water officials have been unable to float the authorized bond issue through ordinary banking channels."

Held Not Self-Liquidating.

The attorney's brief showed how the water district had first applied for 100 million dollars or more than the relief act allowed to be loaned to any one self-liquidation project.

It was shown that 7,253 residents of Long Beach have already notified the finance corporation that they will not be held liable for any portion of the loan, since they wish to withdraw from the water district in protest against the aqueduct project.

Instead of being self-liquidating Attorney Gerrity declared the aqueduct project will result in a deficit that must be met by taxation;

Instead of building a new water system, he asserted, Los Angeles could get along by carrying through its plan to amplify its present one.

With its self-liquidating loans thus under attack, the corporation was also under fire from Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania, who yesterday asked President Hoover to have Pennsylvania's ten million dollar relief loan application approved by the corporation.

Hoover Replies to Gov. Pinchot.

The President, replying to Mr Pinchot's telegram today, stated that he had no power to direct the board of the corporation to make specific loans or advances, and informed the governor that the board is a "non partisan body of eminent, patriotic, and sympathetic men," who are "giving earnest and full consideration to information supplied to them and endeavoring to extend every aid to distress and proved need within their authority."

Officials of the corporation likewise replying to Gov. Pinchot reiterated their earlier statements that they will grant the Pennsylvania request as soon as information they have requested of the state is made available. Gov. Pinchot asserted in his telegram to Mr. Hoover that the state had complied with all requirements of the corporation. This was denied at the corporation today.

FARMERS TO OPEN NEW MILK PLANT IN RACINE COUNTY

Four hundred dairy farmers in Racine county, Wisconsin, are participating in the purchase of a milk plant at Burlington, Wis., which opens today under farmer control. The 400 farmers are members of the Pure Milk association, bargaining agency for the 18,000 dairymen supplying the Chicago area.

The total output of the new Burlington plant will be about 40,000 pounds of milk daily, it was estimated yesterday by local officers. Pure Milk association members at Kansasville and Lyons have joined the Burlington farmers in underwriting the purchase of new machinery to handle their milk which is sold in Chicago under contract.

The Burlington plant is the twelfth farmer owned milk plant placed in operation in the Chicago milk region in the last 20 months. Others are located at Sharon, Orphardsville and Delavan in Wisconsin; Demont and Teagarden in Indiana; and St. Charles Wilmington, Burlington, Hampshire, Waterman and Hinckly, in Illinois.

4 JURORS CHOSEN TO TRY RONEY AS SLAYER OF LAKIN

Four jurors were selected yesterday in the Criminal court of Judge Rudolph F. Desort for the murder trial of Alex Roney, 51 years old, 3214 Diversey avenue, who shot and killed Louis Lakin, 18 years old, former athlete at Tuley High school.

Lakin was shot on Jan. 17 when he tried to enter the Dr. Herzl Community hall, 1335 North California avenue, where a dance was in progress.

The state contends that Roney, a watchman at the hall, shot Lakin without provocation when the youth neared the entrance to the building with a group of friends. The defense holds that Lakin and his friends attacked the watchman after being forced from the building's fire escape.

MAKER OF GUNS PROTESTS U. S. AS COMPETITOR

Uncle Sam Undersells by $27, He Declares.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES HERRICK.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—When a private business goes into the red its owner digs down into his own pocket for more money but when a government enterprise shows a deficit its bureau chief rushes to congress for cash, Representative Joseph B. Shannon [Dem., Mo.], chairman of the congressional committee investigation government competition with private business, today explained and complained, as he called his hearing to order.

And that is why, he lamented, Uncle Sam can undersell his civil competitors whether the commodity be rifles or varnish; military overcoats or bran biscuits.

"The sale price that the government places on its article isn't representative of the real cost. For a part of the real cost of manufacturing the article is paid by the taxpayer through government appropriation," Mr. Shannon maintained. A score of members of the National Association of Manufacturers, representing the association's committee on government competition with private industry, nodded their heads approvingly, as each waited to give his testimony.

Sporting Arms Group.

One of the most protesting of the voices of private industry raised at today's hearing was that of Mr. C. Stewart Comeaux, speaking for the sporting arms and ammunition institute. His group, he pointed out, doesn't think it's sporting of the United States government to sell sporting rifles to the civilian population at a price way beneath that which private industry is obliged to charge.

Government technicians, Mr. Comeaux explained, have modified the soldierly "Springfield" into a "Springfield sporter."

"And what," inquired Representative Edward E. Cox [Dem., Ga.], "would a soldier need of a sporting rifle?"

"Oh, to shoot moose, or deer," replied Mr. Comeaux, somewhat satirically.

Difference In Price.

The government sells this gun at $42.50, Mr. Comeaux reported, while the model most nearly like it sold by private trade retails for about $70.

But it isn't the undercutting feature of the transaction that is most distasteful to the sporting arms and ammunition institute. What the institute finds most disastrous in the way of competition, its representative declared, is the fact that the sale of these rifles is not limited to soldiers. "Last year," Mr. Comeaux read from a report in front of him, "the government sold 12,500 of these 'Springfield Sporters' and of that number 9,100 or about three-quarters of the total were sold to civilians, usually through the National Rifle association."

3 NAVY YARDS SLATED TO CLOSE REMAIN OPEN

Allot $10,000,000 for Ship Building.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Three yards and stations which the navy department offered to close last year as an economy move have been allotted funds for new construction work during the current fiscal year. This was disclosed today when the department announced the allotment of the $10,000,000 fund set up by the two billion dollar emergency relief and construction act for construction work on navy yards and docks.

The Boston navy yard, the largest shore station appearing on the list of surplus shore properties recommended for closing by the navy last year, was allotted $230,000. The naval training station at Newport, another place listed for curtailment as an economy move, received $125,000. Another shore station which the navy has suggested for closing on several occasions is the navy yard at Charleston, S. C. The allotments disclose that the navy now proposes to expend $55,000 at that point.

Congress Is Generous.

Although the yards listed above were recommended curtailed by the navy department in communications to the White House and to congress, both the house and senate went ahead and supplied appropriations to keep them going during the current fiscal year. In addition, congress appropriated 10 million for emergency yard and dock construction. Hearings held at the time paved the way for the allotments at the Boston and Charleston yards and the naval training station at Newport.

The $55,000 to be expended at Charleston is in addition to $65,000 spent there last year on a destroyer way. The $65,000 was spent to permit the Charleston yard to bid on a destroyer. But President Hoover suspended construction of 6 of the 11 destroyers for which funds were appropriated by congress and no new destroyer was allotted to the South Carolina yard.

May Lift Ban on Destroyer.

The $55,000 is to supply a marine railroad to aid in ship construction. Reports now are that President Hoover will lift his suspension order on a few of the destroyers to permit the allotment of one to the Charleston yard.

Among other stations where funds are to be expended is the naval training station at Great Lakes. The sum of $30,000 is to be expended there for improvement of the water front. Other allotments include $650,000 for the naval operating base at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, and $699,000 for improvement of the naval station at the same point. A total of $1,600,000 is to be spent on the construction of a naval hospital at Philadelphia.

NEW YORK MAYOR BATTLES TO SAVE CITY 80 MILLION

Must Retrench or Go Broke, McKee Warns.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—This city must cut its budget at least $80,000,000 or go bankrupt. That was the ultimatum given to officials and private citizens today by New York's shirt-sleeved, subway riding mayor who has developed a furrowed brow in the 19 days he has served.

"The $17,000,000 we borrowed recently will last us only until Oct. 1," said Mayor Joseph V. McKee. "We won't get any more unless we introduce a program of retrenchment, and that means retrenchment."

Regards Situation as Critical.

The Oct. 1 crisis was not a new ultimatum from the bankers, the mayor intimated, but was his interpretation of the stand advanced by the money lenders months ago. At that time the bankers asked for assurance that a program of economy would be effected.

"I'm going to see that they get that assurance," said the mayor.

The Scot who was catapulted into office by the resignation under fire of Mayor James J. Walker has been driving the budget makers and examiners overtime in order to make this city a good financial risk. The budget office has blazed with lights until midnight this week and the great stone statue of Civic Virtue is not the only "tough guy" in City Hall park these evenings.

Mayor McKee regards the situation as critical and has dropped politics, patronage and all other kindred matters until the budget is settled.

Hopes to Restore Confidence.

"There will be time after Oct. 1," said the mayor, "to take up the matters I have in mind for changes, consolidations and other minor savings. Right now, I've got a job here, a great big one; a job that challenges the best efforts of every one in the administration.

"Are we going to shut down our pay rolls and tell the policemen, firemen and teachers that we haven't any money to pay them?" asked the mayor. "Drastic action is necessary. If I can produce a budget with the saving of 80 to 100 million dollars, we'll be a good risk again. We're in the greatest bond market of all history and the confidence of the people of the United States who buy our bonds will be restored. When the investing public can say, 'Here is an institution worthy of confidence,' we will have done our job."

Mayor McKee insists that the budget which totaled almost 700 million dollars last year be completed in 1932 style before Oct. 10 and has instructed all department heads to keep employes at work nights if necessary to revise estimates and turn them over to Budget Director Charles L. Kohler before they go to the board of estimate.

Regrets Cutting Salaries.

The most painful part of the entire job, the mayor said, was to cut salaries and in some cases eliminate jobs. Mr. McKee recalled that his father worked for a living and there were seven children.

"If father had to lay off for a day," said the mayor, "it was just too bad for mother and us children."

The mayor said he believed the estimate board would fight on his side to bring the finances of the city to a point where credit would be offered freely.

Mr. McKee intimated he might abolish the city planning commission which was one of Mayor Walker's pet projects and which now is directed by the former mayor's personal appointees. Mayor McKee conferred with heads of the commission, which had a budget of $190,000 last year. After the meeting the mayor said most of the commission's work was duplication of work of the board of estimate's chief engineer.

Summary of Mayor's Record.

A thumbnail summary of the McKee accomplishments in 16 days reveals the following major economies:

Sept. 2—Moved to protect city's interests in subways. Sept. 6—Reduced own salary from $40,000 to $25,000; pruned salararies of all department heads; broke up city printing monopoly; began an unemployment census and borrowed 17 million dollars at ½ per cent lower interest rate.

Sept. 7—Sent Walker's $17,000 automobile to garage and moved to save million dollars by eliminating all city owned pleasure cars. Sept. 8—Put city purchasing on sound basis and jacked up fire, tenement house and building departments. Sept. 9—Announced goal of 80 to 100 million budget reduction and ended Bronx market scandal.

Sept. 10—Attacked slot machine gambling, called Dr. William Schroeder of the Walker ranks on the carpet in incinerator deal. Sept. 12—Started court action to determine legality of Nov. 8 mayoralty election in which Walker hoped to get his job back. Sept. 14—Started movement to cut taxicab control board's $126,000 pay roll. Sept. 16—Cut Bronx terminal market pay roll in half.

WALDORF-ASTORIA RECEIVER IS ASKED IN NEW YORK SUIT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—Appointment of a receiver for the Waldorf-Astoria hotel was asked in a motion filed in Supreme court today by Bernard Breslauer, a mortgage bondholder, alleging that the hotel and its furnishings are liable to be seized by the New York State Realty company for nonpayment of rent.

Mr. Breslauer brought the suit in behalf of himself and all other bondholders who may wish to join him to protect their holdings in an $11,000,000 bond issue. He declares the bondholders' interest will be foreclosed if the New York State Realty and Terminal company decides to take over the hotel.

Mr. Breslauer charged that there have been various defaults by the hotel in rent payments during the last year, and that it failed to pay interest on its bonds, which fell due Sept. 1, last. He declared the hotel has devised a plan to pay the bondholders their principal and interest, but he charged that the proposed plan "seriously modified" the hotel's obligation to pay interest and principal. The motion for the appointment of a receiver is scheduled to be argued on Sept. 26.

JIMMIE WALKER REACHES ITALY AND IS IGNORED

NAPLES, Italy, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Former Mayor James J. Walker of New York arrived here today on the steamer Conte Grande and encountered what for him was something new. The Neapolitan papers didn't print a line about him.

It was understood the authorities had decided Mr. Walker should be deal with discreetly, particularly in view of the fact that a presidential campaign is going on in the United States. The former mayor now is a private citizen, it was pointed out, and the authorities did not wish to duplicate the exceptional reception he received on his last visit to Italy.

Mr. Walker commented hotely today on reports that while in Italy he would meet Russell T. Sherwood, his missing financial agent.

"Didn't I testify twice under oath that I did not know where Sherwood was?" he said. "Do you think I would lay myself open to perjury charges like that? That's unreasonable, because if I had found him I would have promptly brought him back to New York to testify and that would have obviated any further trial."

CHIEF MEDICAL EXAMINER OF NEW YORK QUITS

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Dr. Charles Norris, for 14 years chief medical examiner of the city, resigned today in protest against orders from Mayor McKee to reduce his already small budget by an additional 20 per cent.

For years Dr. Norris has tried to get additional funds for his department into the city budget. He has been balked in almost every attempt. The last effort he made was to obtain additional automobiles for the assistant medical examiners under his charge, and he was unsuccessful. Faced with the recent order by the mayor, which deprived every department head of a personal car, in addition to the enforced budget reduction he was ordered to make, Dr. Norris submitted his resignation without explaining why he was terminating his service. The reasons came later from persons close to him.

Dr. Norris has handled many famous homicide cases, including those of Herman Rosenthal, Dot King, and Arnold Rothstein.

CERMAK ORDERS 400 PATROLMEN ADDED TO FORCE

Post New Eligibility List Next Week.

More than 400 additional policemen on the streets of Chicago by Dec. 1, in preparation for the increase in crime customary during the winter season, was the announced aim of Mayor Cermak yesterday.

The mayor asked the civil service commission to hasten the posting of the eligibility list for patrolmen. He pointed out that the city now has only 5,180 patrolmen, whereas in January, 1931, there were 5,568 men in uniform. Since Jan. 1 of this year the number of patrolmen has decreased from 5,345 to 5,160, he declared.

Too Many Generals.

"The number of captains, lieutenants and sergeants has also decreased," said the mayor. "But we're not replacing any of them. We need an army, not more officers. We've got too many generals now."

Police Commissioner Allman said the city council made a lump sum appropriation for 5,400 patrolmen this year. There is, therefore, enough money available to pay 240 new policemen and a total of 400 policemen may be put on the force through the transfer of funds in the police department to the salary fund, he said.

The civil service commissioners announced that the list of persons eligible for police jobs will be posted within a week. Those leading the list will be certified and sent to the police training school at the Fillmore station where Maj. John Bauder is in charge. The training period lasts two months and the fledgling policemen in brand new uniforms will be put into service on or about Dec. 1.

Shorter Training Period.

The training period will be shortened one month from the usual three months, Maj. Bauder said, in order to have the additional policemen working before winter sets in.

A change in the physical requirements for policemen automatically threw out a large number of the 17,000 applications submitted under a previous city administration. About 3,200 passed the more rigorous requirements set up by the new commission. The names of those who passed both the physical and written examinations are expected to be posted next week.

Mayor Cermak said he was also seeking a means whereby more automobiles can be given the police force. There are 127 district squad cars, 25 bureau squad cars and three accident prevention squad cars in service at present.

State Approves Contract for Chicago-Elgin Road

The state highway department yesterday approved a contract between the Cook county highway department and Allied Contractors, Inc., of Chicago for the construction of 4.82 miles of concrete on the Chicago-Elgin road, a continuation of Irving Park boulevard. Work is to start this fall. Four miles of Irving Park boulevard, west of Roselle, is now under construction. The new county highway parallels within two miles the forty foot Lake street highway. The contract price of this 4.82 mile section is $192,367.

THIRD MEMBER OF RAPE GANG GETS 15 YEARS

Clarence Haerle, 21 years old, 2922 Marmora avenue, one of a gang of three confessed rapists who preyed upon women of the northwest side, was sentenced to 15 years in the penitentiary yesterday by Chief Justice John Prystalski in Criminal court. Haerle, the son of a policeman, pleaded guilty to a charge of rape.

His accomplices were given two terms of one year to life each and additional sentences of 105 years yesterday by Judge Prystalski. They are Richard Kamrowski, 26 years old, 2820 North Marmora avenue, and Clarence James, 19 years old, 2249 North Mason avenue. All three men will face further charges today.

Haerle said that he was intoxicated and tried to blame his companions for the crime of which he was convicted.

"Haerle is worse than the others," Prosecutor Voyle Johnson said, "because his environment and education were better."

Two youths charged with the rape of two sisters, 13 and 15 years old, were held to the grand jury in bonds of $2,500 each by Municipal Judge J. William Brooks in the Boys' court yesterday. They are Edward Aplin Jr., 18 years old, 2307 South Union avenue, and John Harvey, 20 years old, 2704 Emerald avenue.

"Is your HUSBAND irritable?"

Copyright, 1932, Standard Brands Incorporated

ARE you afraid? You have every right to be . . . Your husband isn't just irritable. He's sick!

Doctors say that irritability frequently has a simple physical cause . . . Constipation. We aren't leading healthy lives—not enough exercise—too much heavy food—daily neglect of important body habits.

You know what happens. Our systems are weakened—and refuse to throw off their accumulated waste matter regularly.

Actually, the intestines have become stagnant. Poisons form—seep into the blood—circulate through the body, leading to headaches—upset stomach—unpleasant breath—a persistent "tired" feeling. That morning grouch.

What Fresh Yeast does

Eaten daily, Fleischmann's Yeast attacks and softens the clogging wastes in the intestines. At the same time it actually "tones" and strengthens the muscles that help to eliminate these residues.

Thus disturbing body poisons are gently carried away. Sound sleep returns. Appetite picks up. Back comes youthful energy—a healthy digestion—a smile!

You can get Fleischmann's Yeast—rich in vitamins B, G and D—at grocers, restaurants and soda fountains and directions are on the label. Why not get a supply today?

DOCTORS KNOW that ragged nerves and bad tempers often mean one thing . . . constipation! To correct this evil in a natural way they advise Fleischmann's Yeast.

Fleischmann's Yeast is a Health Food thousands eat—3 Cakes a Day!

DO THE FILIPINOS WANT FREEDOM? THEY'RE NOT SURE

They Cry for It, but Eye Added Responsibility.

BY PHILIP KINSLEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MANILA, P. I., Aug. 22.—[By Mail.]—Independence! The word brings a smile and a shrug in the Philippines, an attitude of resignation and weariness. It is the lifeblood of politics, the obsession of business, the dialectics of conversation. So many years, so much talk, and nothing done, the people say. A catastrophe to the Philippines and an economic blow to America, the traders say. God's work or the devil's work is in it, according to the point of view.

A subtle change has come over the discussion of this subject in the last two years. Until separation from the United States, involving the end of free trade, became imminent, the economic sacrifices and dangers were not widely appreciated. Now the seamy side of the gay coat of freedom has been exposed. Leaders are doubtful and hesitant in their private view, although for political reasons abandoning nothing. The propaganda of the last twenty years has borne fruit here and in congress. They will vote for independence although it hurts.

Let us get a picture of these islands, a far flung barrier reef against the coast of Asia, extending from Japanese to Australian possessions. Two million farms tilled by a peace loving, Christian people. Gold, coal, sugar, cocoanuts, rice, tobacco, rubber, untouched areas of mountain and upland, forests and harbors and fisheries. Nearly 10,000 little schoolhouses, with 1,316,126 children enrolled. Universities with 20,000 students, one institution 25 years older than Harvard. A whole people lifted toward the light.

Ships of the world sail to the doors of Manila, anchoring at the foot of the green Luneta. The inter-island ships pass up the river to the heart of the city, the wall of banks and commercial houses along Muelle de la Industria and the green and flowering Magallenes drive that skirts the old walled city. Manila aspires to new heights and colors. The people have put on shoes and wear white coats and trousers in European fashion instead of the old free flowing flowered shirt. They carry books and read papers. They swarm in government and business, reaching steadily out for more.

Modern and Medieval.

They speak book English haltingly. They stare at white men with brown and fathomless eyes. They ride in a multitude of cars, honking through the old, narrow Spanish streets or sailing along the bay front in the cool breeze. Here the dawn comes up like Kipling's thunder and the sunsets are of unearthly beauty. Friars in middle age costumes walk the battlements of their ancient churches in the evening. The Angelus rings out. Women, with babies and other burdens, in poor black dresses, bare feet in old slippers, enter the wide open gates to kneel on the cold stone before the cross.

Other cities, hot for trade and politics and growing. Iloilo, Cebu, Zamboanga, 48 provincial capitals, a mountain and pagan province where wild men still hide from civilization, a rich Mohammedan province now brought under the rule of the dominant Filipino. An efficient Malay soldiery. A Filipino scientific society. Testimony that in medicine, in science research, in law, in sailoring and engineering, and in many tested ways the Filipino mind discloses a capacity that would command respect anywhere. Social life and politics become self-evident maturities.

A Glimpse at the Top Crust.

Here is a little newspaper social chat which gives a glimpse of the top crust:

"Malacanan palace was a mass of gleaming lights set among rain drenched trees and shrubs on Saturday evening when the governor general and Mrs. Roosevelt entertained with a reception and ball in honor of the ninth Philippine legislature.

"Receiving the throngs of guests who poured into the ballroom from a seemingly endless line of cars that circled into the palace grounds were the following: The governor general and Mrs. Roosevelt, Mrs. Manuel L. Quezon, Senator Benigno S. Aquino, acting speaker and Mrs. Antonio de las Alas, and Mrs. Manuel Roxas.

"Mrs. Roosevelt was wearing a cloth of gold gown with a jeweled band about her clusters of soft little curls. Mrs. Quezon wore a metiza costume of an unusual blue green shade, embroidered in threads of silver, while Mrs. Roxas wore sea green."

Spanish rule was the culture ground of this flower for hundreds of years. Before the Americans came, however, the Filipino people could not aspire to higher office than presidente of a municipality, under the watchful eye of the friar. Now they sit at the long polished cabinet table in proud carved chairs, equals with the Americans. They dream of a great new capitol in Burnham park, with a Filipino president of their own republic.

But what of this independence? What of the spectress of a cheapened standard of living, like Java and India, unsold crops, economic penetration or racial absorption by China and Japan, internal dissension, closed markets? There are 700,000 farmers in one province who live by sugar. What will happen to them?

The Independence Creed.

These people are independent now and on the way to as much happiness and prosperity under American sovereignty as they would find under any system of government. But that is not the point.

"Illinois might be better off under a Chinese governor, but would the people stand for it?" asked a Filipino.

The Independence Congress in Manila in 1930, attended by 1561 delegates representing every section and class, said in its creed:

"No matter how lightly an alien control may rest on a people, it cannot, it will not, make that people happy. Differences in race, history and civilization render difficult, if not impossible, a common life under one flag between the American and Filipino people."

Filipino leaders agree privately that a separation is inevitable, but would like a ten year transition period to soften the economic blow. Freedom, autonomy without complete withdrawal of favorable trade relations and military protection, would probably suit them better than anything else, but this conflicts with the settled American conviction that there can be no responsibility without authority.

DANUBE PARLEY ASKS SURPLUS GRAIN SUBSIDY

Meeting Ends with Advice for Prosperity.

STRESA, Italy, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Danubian conference tonight approved in principle a draft convention recommending among other steps the creation of a grain subsidization fund of 75,000,000 gold francs [$15,000,000] to relieve distress in central and southern Europe.

After approving a report of the financial committee, and deciding to pass along that report together with one from an economic and agrarian committee to a commission of the European union for study at Geneva, the conference adjourned.

The financial committee in its final report recommended direct negotiation between debtors and creditors for settlement of short term debts, with special regard for the needs of the individual debtor nations, and provisional mitigation for long term credit.

Asks States to Donate.

This committee also referred to the creation of a fund for currency stabilization, recommending contributions from all states adhering to the draft convention. The convention itself was approved in principle, but Germany declared herself unable to contribute financial aid to the Danubian states.

The agrarian committee's recommendations advocated creation of the $15,000,000 fund to subsidize the exportable surplus of Danubian grain—wheat to be given a subsidy of two francs per quintal, and barley and maize, 1.50 francs per quintal.

Prefacing its report, the financial committee said the positions of the states of eastern and central Europe being "substantially different, it was decided merely to advance proposals of a general character applicable to all."

It was emphasized that a paramount necessity was the maintaining of balanced budgets.

FLYING FAMILY AND CREW OF FOUR REACH SCOTLAND BY SHIP

ABERDEEN, Scotland, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The flying Hutchinson family, who with their crew of four were rescued from the bleak Greenland coast after wrecking their transatlantic plane recently, landed at Eriboll, Scotland, today from the British steam trawler Lord Talbot, which rescued them. George Hutchinson, his wife and their two small daughters were all well, although the two girls appeared to be tired. The party was taken by motor to Lairg. They are en route back to New York.

EUROPE IS SKEPTICAL

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Sept. 20.—Every capital in central Europe tonight was skeptical of the results of the Stresa conference. Newspapers, reflecting government attitudes, were unanimously, if cynically, reminding themselves that the conference limited itself to "advice." They pointed out that what the Danube valley needs is not more advice, but prompt action, if an economic collapse is to be averted.

As a Vienna newspaper caustically commented tonight, "the advice from Stresa is not bad, but not new. Everybody knows what is the matter with central Europe and what to do. The trouble is that nobody is willing to start doing it."

Austrian Industrialists Protest.

Vienna feels that if the Stresa recommendations are ever carried out, they may solve the difficulties of the four agrarian states, Hungary, Rumania, Jugo-Slavia, and Bulgaria, the grain surpluses of which would be absorbed by the western industrial countries. But this leaves Austria, which is 65 per cent industrial, and Czechoslovakia, which is 50 per cent industrial, out in the cold.

Indeed, spokesmen for Austrian industry waited on the government tonight and complained bitterly against Austria signing the Stresa agreement, claiming that it sacrificed them to the agrarians. They complained that Stresa merely gives them the right to make preferential agreements, which they already possess.

'AIR BOOTLEGGER' SURRENDERS IN WARRANT PLOT

P. David Pinkussohn, alleged airplane bootlegger, surrendered yesterday at the Criminal Courts building for questioning concerning the forgery of Cook county tax anticipation warrants. John Ballwin and Thomas Nelson, former convicts, and John R. Steele, a former banker of Lakeville, Ind., charged with conspiracy after the fraudulent warrants were found in South Bend, Ind., named Pinkussohn as a co-conspirator.

Pinkussorn was surrendered by his attorney, Abraham Marovitz. He denied any part in the plot to circulate the forged warrants. A petition for a writ of habeas corpus was obtained by Attorney Marovitz, and Judge John Prystalski ordered that Pinkussohn be booked or released by 2 p. m. today.

WARNING to PROPERTY OWNERS

TODAY a letter came to my desk that deeply impressed me. It was written by a woman—the mother in a typical American family. Her little home had been saved from foreclosure by a coat of new paint, for which a part of their meager savings had been paid.

Those few gallons of fresh paint had so revived the appearance and enhanced the value of the property that the mortgagee had consented to renew the loan . . . and the little home was saved.

I could not help thinking of the thousands of homes and buildings that are shabby and unattractive today due to several years of neglected painting; of the millions of home owners who, because of reduced incomes and enforced economy, have been obliged to sacrifice painting for taxes, interest, assessments, to say nothing of food, clothing, heat and other essentials of comfort and health.

You have seen these paint-starved houses and buildings, as have I. They are everywhere about you. Perhaps your home is included.

Do you understand what they signify? Do you realize what will happen to wood or metal that is literally naked of paint if these houses and buildings face the attack of another season of rain, snow, ice, and frost?

Never in the history of our country has the situation been paralleled.

Property owners face an added burden of expense amounting to millions of dollars for repairs and replacements next spring.

And the crisis, in my opinion, will be reached this coming winter when paint of four, five, and even six years exposure to the weather will be unable to resist the elements—when badly weathered wood and metal will be easy prey for rot, rust and decay.

Today the big question facing thousands of property owners is plain. It is "paint or pay." Either you must invest a little this fall in new paint or you must take the risk of paying many times the cost of paint to repair the damage done by rot, rust and decay this winter.

Even at the sacrifice of other things, have your house or buildings completely repainted now. No investment you can make will pay better dividends. And nothing you can buy will make you and your family feel so uplifted and cheerful.

If you cannot arrange to do a complete repainting job now, at least give the badly weathered places a coat or two of protecting paint.

Look especially, to the window sills, thresholds, outdoor porches and steps; the joints of porch railings and palings; the bases of pillars; the edges of eaves; the roof; the gutters and down spouts. These are the vital spots where water lodges—where ice and frost settle—where rot and rust attack first.

A few dollars' worth of good paint, applied now, will protect these vital spots—will tide you over this crucial winter. And it will probably save you a much greater expense for repairs and replacements next spring and summer.

Under existing conditions, you may be tempted to buy a cheap paint because of its low price. I hope you will not make this costly mistake.

Even on sound lumber, inferior paint is a poor bargain. But on weathered wood, which is very porous, such paint is worse than useless. It gives you a false feeling of security and leaves you without protection.

Prices of well-known, established brands of paint are now the lowest in fifteen years. Enough good, dependable paint can be purchased for a few dollars to protect all the badly weathered surfaces on your building.

Again I repeat, do a complete paint job this fall if you can. But at least do the vital exposed places before it is "too late."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

TAXED BEYOND ENDURANCE.

The difficulties which the legislature is encountering in trying to find money for poor relief would be considerably lightened if Chicago were not already taxed beyond endurance.

The legislature is trying to find 36 million dollars to keep the unemployed of Illinois from hunger and cold this winter. The income taxes paid to the federal government from the Chicago district alone last year totaled 183 million dollars, which is more than five times the amount required for relief. The federal government, needless to say, takes a great deal more than that amount out of Chicago. Every package of cigarets sold in Chicago means a 6 cents tax on this community. Every gallon of gasoline adds another cent of federal taxation. Every check written takes another 2 cents of Chicago's wealth. There is no means of estimating what proportion of the total tariff revenue is paid by Chicago consumers, but it amounts to many million dollars.

Little of this money comes back to Chicago. Much of it is frittered away in maintaining shore stations for the navy which could be dispensed with without loss of security. More is spent in maintaining army posts which every soldier knows to be superfluous. The government blew the best part of half a billion dollars in a gigantic speculation in wheat and cotton. It is spending more than 150 million dollars in building an electric light plant and a reservoir for Los Angeles and has just added 40 million dollars in the form of a loan, so-called, for the construction of an aqueduct from the Colorado river. The money which Chicago might be spending on its poor is maintaining tailor shops for army officers and a dairy farm for the Annapolis cadets. It is being squandered in the dredging of streams which will never float a barge and in maintaining barges on streams where there is little traffic. Political postmasters get their share of Chicago's money. Under the circumstances it is not surprising that Chicago cannot easily meet its own problems of poor relief from its own resources. The government takes too much and leaves too little. Federal taxation takes at least two-thirds as much money out of Chicago as Chicago required to operate all its local governments at the peak of the spending era.

Nor is that the whole story. The state of Illinois spends 50 million dollars a year on building and maintaining roads. Of that sum approximately a half comes out of Chicago and perhaps as much as a twenty-fifth is spent in Chicago. The rest goes to other sections of the state, where much of it is spent in building private roads for country squires or in the service of loans made in previous years to build such roads. To say that 10 million dollars a year of Chicago's tax payments goes for these purposes is certainly not to exaggerate; if anything, 10 million is an understatement.

No community can stand such a drain upon its resources as Chicago has had to bear. Chicago in the past has always taken care of its own poor and unfortunate and would do so this winter if it could, but the tax exactions have been too severe. Neither Chicago, nor, indeed, civilization, can survive and function when weighted down with a tax burden as brutal as that extorted by the Plantagenet kings of England.

SALESMANSHIP.

We should be more impressed by the material on probation sent us by the state department of public welfare if we had been able to find in it any direct reference or discussion of the abuses which have appeared in the administration of the system. We are informed, for example, that what probation needs is "sympathetic judges, trained probation officers, more adequate appropriations, improved legislature, a more informed public, full or part time service in every county in the state, a realization on the part of taxing bodies that probation costs one-tenth as much as incarceration and is over 75 per cent successful in its results."

The material before us is, in fact, an example of high pressure salesmanship for a government bureau, its support and expansion. It seeks more money and more power. It shows no interest in the weaknesses developed or in measures to safeguard probation from perversion and abuse. We read that "the bandit, the murderer of today, was only a harmless kid who ran the streets yesterday" and much more about the expediency of prevention and salvage. But nothing about the protection of the public from the dangers to which sentimentalism and improper influence in the administration of the law expose the community. No one would gather from this official advertising that such dangers exist.

It is our opinion that it is a prime duty of the probation bureau to consider them and to propose practical means of avoiding or mitigating them. The literature before us shows no sense of this duty, but is concentrated upon selling itself to the public, like all government bureaus. An intelligent and disinterested devotion to the objects of probation, which every well disposed citizen approves, would show less concern for more appropriations and more concern for the safeguarding of the system from the abuses which discredit and defeat it.

FULL DISCLOSURE.

The widespread wreckage of the Insull utility collapse and such revelations as have thus far been made public of dubious methods in finance impose upon both the state's attorney and the district attorney the duty of searching investigation and energetic action wherever justified. It is also incumbent upon these officials and upon every one connected with proceedings growing out of the complicated predicament of the companies to give security holders all possible facilities to investigate freely and to sue responsible officers and directors in case of frauds or irregularities.

Only harm can come from efforts to cover up. Individuals who have lost their investment in these enterprises have a right to be informed or to make themselves acquainted with all the facts for such action as they may wish to take. The public has a right to know all the facts, that it may protect itself from recurrence of errors and wrongs exposed.

REPLY TO A CORRESPONDENT.

A contributor to the Voice of the People the other day said he could see no merit in such housing proposals as are now before the legislature. What good, he asks, can possibly come from the construction of more apartment buildings when every one knows that Chicago is already oversupplied with apartments?

There is some sense in that argument, but not much. There is an oversupply of apartments in the better residential areas of Chicago. There is an oversupply of apartments renting at $15 a room and upward. Perhaps 25 or 30 per cent of the population of Chicago can afford to live in the kind of apartments of which there is an oversupply. But throughout the building boom there was little or no construction intended to meet the requirements of the majority of the population of Chicago who cannot afford to pay as much as $60 a month for a four room flat. There is not now and there never has been in our time an oversupply of desirable quarters for families of small income. It is to fill that need that housing legislation is now desired.

Our correspondent overlooks the fact that the new housing for the most part will not be erected on vacant land, but on land now occupied by slum dwellings. The wrecking of existing structures will mean a temporary reduction in the supply of dwellings, and the new buildings, when erected, will not house many, if any, more persons than are now occupying the insanitary buildings to be replaced.

The writer of the letter made one other point. He said housing legislation is just another means of milking the taxpayers for the benefit, this time, of building labor, contractors, architects, etc. What he seems not to recognize is that the damage to the taxpayer, if any, has been done already. Congress voted more than a billion dollars to be invested by the Reconstruction Finance corporation in self-liquidating projects. That money is going to be spent somewhere. The corporation has already allotted 40 million dollars to Los Angeles to build an aqueduct. The money will be spent everywhere except in Illinois unless legislation is enacted permitting Illinois to use some of it for housing.

As a matter of fact, the earning record of large scale housing projects justifies the belief that investment in them will be repaid with a good deal less difficulty than if the money were sunk in toll bridges, aqueducts, and tunnels.

MICHIGAN AVENUE TRAFFIC.

The Chicago Motor club is trying to find out why a progressive traffic control system has not been installed on Michigan avenue. The Lincoln park board, which has jurisdiction north of the bridge, is favorable to the plan and so is the city, which has jurisdiction from Randolph street to the river. The south park board has discovered reasons for opposition.

Under the circumstances there is no reason to wait for the south park board to acquire an education. The Lincoln park board, working alone, can time the lights north of the bridge to permit an uninterrupted trip to the outer drive at North avenue. The technical problem on that stretch is almost exactly the same as the problem on La Salle street, where the solution is entirely satisfactory. Or the Lincoln park board and the city might cooperate in setting up a system to function north of Randolph street.

The solution of the traffic problem on La Salle street is so clear a demonstration of what can be done that there can be no excuse for failure to adopt the same method where it is even more urgently required.

Editorial of the Day

[Illinois State Journal.]

Manager Charlie Grimm of the Chicago Cubs attributes the success of his charges to the fact that he plays first base and lets other team members play their own positions. He does no "master minding," his managerial acts being confined to the selection of the pitcher for the day's game and occasional insertion of a pinch hitter. As a result of Grimm's policies the Cubs are leading the National league by eight games, have won ten in a row and 20 of 25 games played since Grimm took charge.

How would Manager Grimm's policies work out in government? Can the nation prosper when government continually is dabbling in business and in industry? Many thinking citizens believe that Uncle Sam already has his fingers in too many private pies. Gov. Roosevelt, the Democratic presidential nominee, deplores this situation and as a remedy offers even more government regulation and interference.

The national government is not a baseball team and few analogies may be drawn between the two, but the Chicago Cubs are playing heads up, enthusiastic baseball while our citizens are cross, bitter, and not pulling together. There are those who say that Manager Charlie Grimm is only lucky, but there can be no denial of the fact that he has been getting results.

PISH TUSH MY DEAR WATSON!

New York, Mr. Holmes, is complaining bitterly because dry agents in evening dress are raiding their most fashionable speakeasies. It is indeed foolish, Watson, for the upper classes in New York, when innocently sipping hootch at their evening parties to be deceived by dry sleuths merely because these stern officers of the law are immaculately clad in evening dress. Why, how come, Mister Holmes? In New York everybody who wears an evening dress suit is accepted at once as a member of the Four Hundred and a lineal descendant of both the haughty Vanderbilts and the noble Astors. Pish tush my dear Watson! Also what rot. A dry enforcement officer in full evening dress may be readily recognized as a minion of the law by the fact that he wears tan shoes and purple socks with yellow polka dots. But hold, Mister Holmes, you do not know New York. Such a one as you describe may truly be a dry enforcement sleuth, but he might also be a Brooklyn ward leader, a Bronx alderman, or a Big Butter and Egg Man from the West. Oh, run away, my dear Watson, New York is a silly place at best and, besides, I've got to solve three murders before tea. Good afternoon.

AS LITTLE CHILDREN.

As little children playing along the wide seashore,
Gathering pearly shells, turning them o'er and o'er,
Tiring of each in turn but to seek a brighter one—
So play we, children all, till life's play hour is done.

As little children playing along the wide seashore,
Building their houses of sand where the wild waters roar,
Then, when the waves devour, crying out to the heedless deep—
So play we, children all, and are left on the shore to weep.

As little children playing along the wide seashore,
Launching their fragile barks freighted with precious store,
Tracing their wayward course till the waves their treasures spend—
So play we, children all, and shall unto the end.

GREATEST EXCITEMENT known in Washington since the expulsion of the bonus marchers; the White House turtle has disappeared. It is a little turtle that has been prowling around in the bushes since the days of Theodore Roosevelt and has never been missing before. A search of the shrubbery around the White House revealed a Democratic campaign document, "Hoover Means Free Soup Kitchens," and it is thought the turtle got his wind up and fled to the Democratic camp for protection.

OUR PRIZE MEDAL TODAY for the meanest man goes to the goof who hasn't taken his vacation yet and who, now that everybody else has had their little trip, goes around braggarting and boasting about the pleasant days that lie before him. Oh, how we hate that man! May some big muskellunge or catfish or big mouth bass climb in his boat and grab the oars away from him and chase him overboard.

THE MIDNIGHT SYMPHONY.

The Midnight Symphony I'm thinking of is not yet written. I suggested it, a week or so ago, to one or two of the town's musicians; they were so struck with the idea that they immediately left town, on vacation, presumably to think it over. This gives me a chance to write the Midnight Symphony myself. But when it comes to real music I can point better than I can counterpoint. I'll still be satisfied to have written the program notes for the Midnight Symphony.

The idea is this: There is an old theory, with which scientists have often been tempted to toy, that sound waves never really die. That the melody actually lingers on. That with a delicate enough apparatus one could still recapture the singing Crusaders marching to the Holy City, and what not. With this theory in mind, it's comparatively simple to imagine what unheard music from grand concerts of its past twenty-eight years must still linger quietly in the soft corners of Orchestra hall.

And the equivalent of the desired receiving set exists. Musicians have better ears than most of us. I think if some one made the experiment of stealing into Orchestra hall alone and sitting in the darkness late some night and tuned his subconscious ear to the hall's symphonic silences he might well find real inspiration in the experience. And I don't mean a mere potpourri of remembered classics; though doubtless, in the resulting Midnight Symphony, grand echoes of Beethoven would soar through surrounding flutterings of the Fire Bird and Valkyrs' wings, and the organ voice of Cesar Franck would sing above pianissimo rustling of forgotten but undying applause.

There is a soft symphony there to be heard in the silent midnight, needing only a sympathetic hearer, I am sure.

SILENCE HAS CEASED TO SPEAK

I do believe that you and I, my dear,
Have grown old;
For we can sit composed when we are near,
And let our smiles grow cold.

If you move close to me I do not try
Your hand to seek;
Silence that once could make us laugh and cry
Has ceased to speak!

THIS CHANGING WORLD! The newspapers today reek with stories of college students appearing at the treasurer's office with chickens, apple butter, eggs, bull calves, yearling heifers, and all sorts of things like that and being received with cheers. WHO HAS AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENTS?

ABOUT one-third of the automobile drivers have all the accidents not due to pure chance. The other two-thirds escape all accidents properly chargeable to the driver. About one-fourteenth of the drivers have one-half the accidents of this kind. In the experience of one commercial concern, one-eighth of the drivers had all the accidents and seven-eighths had clean records.

Experiences such as these, with the great toll in property, life, and limb of automobile accidents and the great expense borne by employers, employés, and the state, caused Iowa State college to investigate the mentality of drivers. The methods used, and some of the conclusions, are told by Dr. A. R. Lauer in National Safety News.

Dr. Lauer devised a card on which the performance of drivers being investigated was scored. Driving tests, more complicated than those employed in states with drivers' license laws, were employed. On these the men were rated from A (excellent) to F (very bad). Drivers who had bad accident records were scored by these tests. They were given tests as to mental balance, mentality, personality, drug habits, other habits, and as to vision and hearing.

Of those who have an excessive number of accidents some have paranoia, others are paranoid, and still others have that type of personality akin to the paranoid, and commonly known as hot headed. Since the paranoids and hot heads cause so many accidents, the employment manager should insult the applicant and see how he takes it before he gives him the driver's seat. A paranoid driver is apt to get hot headed and hurt himself, or some other driver, or break up his or the other fellow's machine.

Very timid people make up a considerable part of those who have accidents. Users of drugs should not be allowed to drive. This includes alcoholics. Railroads have known for a long time that they could not trust a drinker with a locomotive. Of the two engines, under all the circumstances, the automobile engine is the more dangerous.

The insane should not be allowed to drive. Since no one is wholly insane and no one wholly sane, but all are in between, it is not easy to determine practically when a man has too much crazy in his mixture to make him an unsafe driver. Persons who are in early stage paresis are dangerous drivers, which is in accord with the experience of the railroads.

Two age groups are prone to accidents. One is the older man with a high blood pressure. The other is the youthful. Commercial concerns are advised to make age 22 the lower limit of employability of drivers. They are warned against certain mental types in which the mind never grows into the adult levels. This includes the morons, the feeble minded, and the adolescent minded. Mental rating is a factor. Those whose minds rate below 75 are prone to accidents for obvious reasons. That those whose rating is above 125 are also prone is not so obvious. The probable reason is that they do not fit into the job of drivers and their minds are elsewhere.

Loss of sleep, fatigue, chronic illness, unpleasant home life are also causes of accidents and, of course, lack of character and a tendency to criminality as shown by disregard of the rights of others.

Dr. Lauer says that if drivers be investigated along these lines 60 to 80 per cent of accidents would be prevented.

SCROFULA.

Mrs. J. L. D. writes: There is an old fashioned disease called scrofula which is a disease of the blood and is passed on from one generation to another, sometimes skipping a generation, then reappearing in the next one. It usually causes scrofulous tumors, which develop what was called consumption. Is this disease the same as what is now known as tuberculosis? What part of the body is most susceptible to tumors?

REPLY.

Scrofula is an old fashioned disease in more ways than one. It is very old and its history is enriched with much that is interesting because of other than medical considerations. That it was in existence and recognized in Bible times is certainly shown by statements found in holy writ. The earliest medical writings describe it with reasonable clearness. It is often on the face and other exposed parts. It is rather striking in appearance; it causes pain, and it destroys tissue. It spreads gradually and it lasts many years. Possessing these characteristics, there is little wonder that it came to be recognized early.

It was once a widely prevalent disorder under the name the king's evil, and the prevailing notion of that day was that the king could cure it by the laying on of hands. Our present day conception is much more prosaic. We think of it as a form of tuberculosis somewhat closely related to tuberculosis in the lungs and in other parts of the body, as is the case with all other discharging forms of tuberculosis. It is mildly contagious. It is curable by radiation, though X-rays and radium are not used against it now except in rare cases. The rule is that they do more harm than good. The radiation that benefits it is sunlight, with ultra-violet lamp radiation occupying second place.

EPILEPSY.

B. C. S. writes: Is Jacksonian epilepsy hereditary? What causes it other than a blow on the head? Would it be advisable for a woman with a mild case of it to have a child? It developed in the middle thirties.

REPLY.

Jacksonian epilepsy follows fractures of the skull, tumors, hemorrhages into the meninges, and chronic meningitis. It is not hereditary. The child of a parent with this disorder should not be epileptic.

DISTURBING NOISE.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—I am a tenant in a building where there is an electric refrigerator unit which controls all the refrigerators in the building. This machine is located in the basement, two stories below my bedroom window, and all day and night, off and on, there is a loud buzzing noise, caused by the machine. I find this noise very disturbing and am unable to sleep well on account of it. I have complained to both the landlord and the agent, but nothing has been done to remedy it. They claim it is necessary to keep the basement window open because the machine becomes very warm and has to be cooled by the air. 1. Is there anything I can do about this? Would it be sufficient ground for my moving and thereby breaking my lease? 2. Will you please give me what information you can on this matter? R. L. H.

1. If the machine was in operation when you rented the premises and the condition has not changed, then you would be bound by the inspection which you made or should have made. If it is a new installation and the condition makes the premises uninhabitable, then you would be entitled to move; but litigation seems probable enough, so that we advise you to talk the facts over with an attorney in advance.

1. Not on the bare facts stated.
2. We suggest that you look up the records in the office of the clerk of the court.
3. It seems probable that you are in some way mistaken as to the facts.

DEFECTIVE CHIMNEY.

Chicago, Sept. 15.—[Friend of the People.]—There is a two story building next to mine that has a defective chimney. During a recent storm several of the bricks fell and nearly broke my window and also endangered the lives of those who have to use the walk between the two houses. I have taken the matter up with the bank that has charge of this building, but so far nothing has been done. F. F.

An inspection was made of this building and notice was sent to the owner to put the chimney in good and safe condition.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

SEPT. 21, 1916.

NEW YORK.—Efforts to settle the street car strike made no progress. Rioting was renewed and resulted for the first time in fatal injuries to an onlooker. Louis Rodelli, 6 years old, sustained a fractured skull when a strike sympathizer threw a brick from a housetop. A mob of 500 strikers and sympathizers attacked "green cars" and fought the police a running battle from 86th street and Central Park West to 54th street and 8th avenue. The heads of a police captain and a woman of 62 were laid open by flying stones.

LONDON.—The crucial battle of the Balkans apparently is in full swing. Reports from all sources agree that the Austro-German-Bulgarian and Russo-Rumanian forces have joined in a great struggle in the Rumanian province of Dobrudja. The Russo-Rumanian armies, which have been driven back for some days, have been heavily reinforced and have taken up a stand in strong positions on a short line from Constanza on the Black sea to the Danube river. Not far north of this line is Bucharest, the capital of Rumania. The future of Rumania as a force in the war, according to military observers, depends largely on the holding of this line. The tide of battle on this front is in doubt. Berlin reports that the Russo-Rumanians are resisting stubbornly. Bucharest and Sofia claim successes for their respective arms, but mention no striking gains. Farther to the north, on the battle line marked by the Rumanian invasion of the Austrian province of Transylvania, Vienna reports the Russo-Rumanian forces have been driven back through one of the mountain passes. Vienna also claims a victory for the Austro-Germans southeast of Hoetzing and the recapture of a town previously taken by the Rumanians.

PARIS.—Powerful counter attacks by the Germans against the French in the neighborhood of Priez farm and Bouchavesnes, north of the Somme, were beaten back, according to the war office statement. The battle raged many hours along a three mile front, and the Germans succeeded in getting a temporary foothold in part of Bouchavesnes, but were dislodged with the bayonet.

ATHENS.—There is reason to believe that the Greek government has sent an ultimatum to Germany and Bulgaria, expiring the night of Sept. 20, demanding the immediate return of the soldiers taken prisoner at Kavala. The Greek note is said to be a firm demand that the Greek troops be brought to the Swiss frontier so that they may be conducted to Greece. The Greek government guarantees they will not be forced to serve with any enemy of Germany, and at the same time disavows entirely the action of Gen. Hadjapoulos, who, it is claimed, disregarded orders to transport his troops to another Greek port.

MIDDLEBURG, Va.—Raymond Belmont, whose millionaire father, August Belmont, refused to look with pleasure on his son's first marital voyage with Ethel Lorraine, was married here to Miss Carolyn B. Hulbert of Cincinnati.

CHICAGO.—Forty-eight votes separate Richard J. Barr of Joliet from the Republican nomination for attorney general, according to a combination of official and unofficial returns compiled by the Associated Press. Edward J. Brundage, who has the forty-eight vote plurality, claims the nomination by 3,000 to 5,500. The Barr forces claim the final official count will show their man victorious.

CHICAGO.—A "card index" of Chicago men and women whose supposed wealth and tendency toward the gay life made them good prospects was in the paraphernalia of the blackmail syndicate exposed by the secret service raid on the Tyson apartments in Grand boulevard on Sept. 16. The list in the hands of the sharpers contained at least twenty names, all of well to do people and some of social prominence. Checked against the names were the alleged secret facts in the lives of these "prospects" which made them vulnerable and suggested them as possible prey for the blackmailers.

RELIEF AND THE GOVERNMENT.

Chicago, Sept. 16.—The proposal submitted to the special session of the Illinois legislature by the Chicago relief committee for the appropriation of approximately 30 million dollars for relief this winter, in addition to the large sums already appropriated by the state and donated by private subscribers, may well cause us to pause and inquire again briefly into the functions of government.

At the outset we are faced with a distinct difference between theory and practice in the case of most citizens. On the one hand we find a general tendency to adhere to the theories advanced by the Manchester school of political philosophy which argued for free competition with the survival of the fittest and a laissez faire attitude of government toward such matters. The logical conclusion to be reached from these premises is to let every one starve who is unable to support himself. And most certainly the founders of this school would recoil in horror at the recent activities of our federal government in its multitudinous aids to business.

On the other hand if we lift the veil and look behind this clear cut picture of a competitive world we find in practice something bordering much nearer on the Marxian theories than is generally realized. In other words, we find our citizens conversing in terms of the Victorian age, but daily and hourly living far beyond it. Stuart Chase calls this disparity between theory and practice our "cultural lag."

Illustrations of this drift away from competition are all about us. The founders of the Manchester school would hardly recognize a supposedly free, competitive industry in which tariff walls hinder commerce; transportation systems are so bound by law that they cannot lower a rate, add a new mile, or abandon an unprofitable one without governmental consent; wages in certain industries can be fixed by law; zoning boards tell owners what use they may make of their real estate; workmen's compensation is allowed for injuries received while on duty without the employers' fault; old age insurance and pensions and other similar laws are in effect; the more recent federal government's experiments for the purpose of relieving the depression, such as the farm board, Reconstruction Finance corporation, home loan agency, and others, are being carried on, to say nothing of the large number of restrictions upon free competition imposed voluntarily by trade organizations, labor unions, and the like.

The plain fact is that changes are taking place all about us for various reasons, chiefly economic. New needs are arising which demand new methods to satisfy them. Ordinarily changes take place so slowly that we hardly realize it until they are upon us. A conflict of opinion usually ensues and the outcome depends upon the imperative need for the change. The conservative class, composed in each instance chiefly of those who will lose by the proposed change and so are Spencerians for the moment, looks upon the proponents of the change as radical, but in turn accepts the changes wrought by older generations.

Thus our industrial revolution transformed this country from an agricultural to an industrial nation. This change resulted in the grouping of people together in large units and made them absolutely dependent upon the industries employing them. This in turn necessitated the vast changes in our common and statute law applicable to the economic and social problems sketched in part above.

In times of depression unemployment is a direct result of our industrialization. We cannot tell the employé it is his fault if he is unemployed and he must look out for himself. That would not be the fact. The fact is, he is a helpless victim of circumstances. No doubt there will be certain malingerers who will not seek employment if they can survive on the dole handed out by the relief committee. No doubt also there will be some who will accept assistance which is not needed. But it is understood the relief committee is making thorough investigations in nearly every case. Assuming a worthy case of actual need, there can be little doubt that help should be given.

The only question is how far can we go. There is the rub. When we look about we find school teachers who have rendered valuable services over a long period of time unpaid. We find taxpayers struggling under tax burdens, municipalities sinking further in debt, and business at a standstill. It is conceivable since the failure of some of our leading citizens that any or all of us may require assistance. That, of course, is reductio ad absurdum, but shows there must be a limit somewhere. Real statecraft is necessary in this emergency to fix this limit. BENJAMIN WHAM.

MAD AT THE TELEPHONE CO.

Chicago, Sept. 13.—The Illinois Bell Telephone company, in the face of declining prices and wages, is maintaining the highest possible schedule for its services. In fact, telephone rates are about double what they were ten years ago.

Like all other labor saving devices, the telephone started by being a boon to humanity, but is ending in a monopoly, concerned chiefly in paying handsome dividends to its stock and bond holders, cutting the wages of its employés, discharging its employés, cutting down its overhead, in short, and maintaining the maximum in charges for service to its victims.

Another very profitable practice of the telephone company is in removing telephones from apartments the moment they are vacated, and then charging $3.50 for reinstalling them when the apartments are rented. But, if you don't like it, out comes the telephone, and be damned to you. Q. E. D.

PARTY REGULARITY.

Rockford, Ill., Sept. 12.—According to report, a number of Illinois Republican editors met in more or less solemn conclave and pledged support to the Republican ticket, state and national. Very good and proper. But among the state candidates is one who robbed the state treasury and ought to be behind prison bars. Why in heaven's name indorse him with the rest? This is a sample of the way the asinine primary law works on certain otherwise harmless citizens. But what party regular, with the intelligence of a jumping bean, does not see that he can be a good party man without indorsing every certified crook that may sneak in on the ticket?

H. M. HERRICK.

STREET CARS IN TRAFFIC.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—I have no objections whatsoever to the recent drive on motorists by Chief Allman. In fact, I think that it's a good idea. Traffic regulations not only apply to autoists but to any vehicle and this would include the surface line cars. In driving you will notice how the surface line cars hold up traffic by dragging along, and an autoist has no chance of passing because there are parked cars on the right and if one passes on the left it would be violating traffic regulations. Why not arrest motormen for tying up the traffic? Are they any better than the motorists or cab drivers? E. J.

G. A. R. PARADE AND ELECTION OF OFFICERS TODAY

Veterans Attend Services at Camp Butler.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Veterans of the Grand Army of the Republic, in their 66th annual encampment here, wound up three days of flag, tree, statuary, and table dedications and memorial services at the Lincoln shrines with which Springfield abounds with a memorial service at Camp Butler this afternoon. More than a third of the 2,000 union veterans here braved the rain to attend the services at the old prison camp that is now a national cemetery. Many Illinois soldiers who were mustered out at this camp, later to take up soldiers' land grants in the western states, returned again for the first time since '65.

Attorney General Oscar E. Carlstrom paid a tribute to he loyalty and patriotic ideals of the G. A. R. and told them the crisis faced by the country today calls for the same quality of citizenship they exemplified in '61. Samuel M. Wright, representing the Sons of Union Veterans, presided.

Warns Against Communism.

Today's program was comprised chiefly of sectional business meetings at which the officers of the various organizations affiliated with G. A. R. made their annual reports. After Mrs. Harriet Goetz, president, reviewed the year's work of the Daughters of Union Veterans checks for $500 to permanent G. A. R. fund and $300 to the southern memorial fund were presented. The latter is used for the care of the Union dead buried in the south.

The Rev. Frank C. Huston, commander-in-chief of the Sons of Union Veterans, urged his followers to combat the spread of communism and declared "there is no place in America for the 'Societies of the Godless.'"

"We have a duty not only to eliminate the fallacies of communism but to create such an ideal citizenship that these doctrines will find no place in the thinking of intelligent citizens," he said.

Commander in Chief Samuel P. Town of the G. A. R. faced a busy evening upon his return from the Camp Butler service, for there was his annual reception and ball and custom decreed a visit to the "fathers and daughters" reception, for comrades of the G. A. R. and their daughters, and to the reception for the commander in chief of the Sons of Union Veterans. But Commander Town was planning for an early retirement for tomorrow is the momentous day of the annual parade, the election of national officers and the camp fire meeting.

Nine Block Parade Today.

The nine block parade, in which every veteran will do his level best to march, will be "strictly military," and by orders of Commander Town no women or children will be permitted. There will be none but Union veterans, band and fife and drum corps units, and two companies of the Illinois National Guard.

Capt. William P. Wright of Chicago seems to be the favorite in the spirited but good natured race for commander in chief. Capt. Wright is 86 years old and a past commander of the Illinois department.

Mr. Castle visited the Century of Progress grounds after the luncheon.

Colleen Moore Sued for $100,000 for Auto Injury

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Colleen Moore, movie actress, was sued for $100,000 today by Mrs. Clara B. Decan, 63, who alleged that she was knocked down and seriously injured by Miss Moore's limousine last Aug. 27 in Hollywood. Mrs. Decan charged that the accident was caused by careless driving by the actress' chauffeur, K. Fujita, with Miss Moore in the car at the time. Fujita, a John Doe, Richard Doe, and Jane Doe also were named in the suit.

ROSSITTER TO SPEAK SEPT. 30.

George W. Rossitter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will address the Chicago chapter, National Association of Cost Accountants, on Thursday night, Sept. 30. His subject will be "Government Cost Reduction."

TRANSPORT BLDG. OF WORLD FAIR TO BE DEDICATED

The Travel and Transport building, one of the engineering achievements of the Century of Progress, will be dedicated today, it was announced yesterday. The dedication program at 4 p. m. will be open to the public and will be followed by a reception to transportation officials.

The dome of the building is 125 feet high and 310 feet in diameter at the base. Inside the dome is an unobstructed area 200 feet in diameter. This is the largest unobstructed area ever inclosed beneath a roof, according to engineers. The structure could easily house the dome of the capitol at Washington. The building illustrates the first application to architecture of the principle used in the suspension bridge. The roof is held in place by cables, suspended from twelve steel towers arranged in a circle. A remarkable echo has been the result of this unusual construction.

Charles Donnelly, president of the Northern Pacific railway, will deliver the dedication address.

AUTO THIEVES ESCAPE POLICE.

JUDGE KELLY'S CRIMINAL COURT SERVICE AT END

Judge James J. Kelly yesterday concluded eighteen months of service in the Criminal court and for the next year will hear divorce and other chancery cases. In departing from the Criminal court building he discussed the publicity and criticism attendant upon his granting of probation to more than 200 men and women who were found guilty of crimes or who pleaded guilty.

The judge had summoned Willard Edwards and James Gavin, TRIBUNE reporters, to his court because of a news item about his putting three confessed bandits, St. Clair McInerny, George Dilley, and Ralph Trimble, on probation. Following publication of the protest of Sergt. Timothy Dwyer of the detective bureau, who arrested the three robbers and who declared they did not deserve judicial clemency, Judge Kelly revoked his probation order and sent the three to the penitentiary.

Judge Kelly said he had been slandered and misrepresented in news articles about his probation orders but declared his conscience was clear. He expressed an unfavorable opinion of the Chicago crime commission which had criticised him and made public numerous complaints against his attitude toward offenders. To the reporters who had written of his court decisions the judge's parting words were: "Go and sin no more."

GIVE EVIDENCE FOR NEW BILLS AGAINST BAINS

The state yesterday started presentation of evidence to the grand jury in an effort to obtain new indictments against John Bain, his sons, Robert and John A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, officers of the defunct Bain banks. Witnesses yesterday gave testimony to support charges that deposits were received at the Chicago Lawn State bank and the West Englewood state bank after the officials knew them to be insolvent, Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber said.

The new indictments were sought after the state expressed dissatisfaction with the outcome of the trial in which Bain, his sons, and Fisher were tried on a conspiracy charge. Bain, the elder, was sentenced to one to five years in the penitentiary, while his sons were fined $1,000 each.

You Can Write Your Own Fashion Ticket at Field's

How do you want your neckline? Where do you want your waistline? What kind of sleeves do you like to wear? Paris gives you an amazing breadth of choice this season. Never has the modern woman won so complete a victory over old dame fashion. There are any number of ways of looking every inch the essence of fall 1932 and still not pouring yourself into a mould. Here are just a few examples from our Paris collection, which is being shown this week.

HOW DO YOU WANT YOUR NECKLINE?

High around your throat . . . to your collarbone or softly draped with an upward look? All are smart; all are represented in our collections.

HOW DO YOU LIKE YOUR SLEEVES?

Wide at the shoulders . . . puffed at the elbow . . . or none at all? All are smart, all are new, and all are represented in our collections.

WHERE DO YOU WANT YOUR WAISTLINE?

Around your ribs as Mainbocher showed them? High in front and low in back (a sort of double waistline) as Chanel, Ardanse and Lanvin did them? Or low as Patou did them? We have them all.

HOW WILL YOU HAVE YOUR SKIRTS?

With nicely distributed fullness from the waist down like this Paquin? Or slim and straight a la Bruyere? Here, also, you can take your choice.

Just a word about color. Paris leaves this also up to you as long as you go in for a lot. You will love the new reds, the new dark tones, the faint pastels, the coppery brown, the fuchsias as you find them in our collections.

Scott's Death, 100 Years Ago, Recalled Today

Three Books About Noted Author Reviewed.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Sir Walter Scott," by John Buchan. [Coward McCann.] Published today.

"The Laird of Abbotsford," by Dame Una Pope-Hennessy. Published Aug. 26.

"The Waverley Pageant," edited by Hugh Walpole. [Doubleday-Doran.] Published Sept. 14.

JUST one hundred years ago today Sir Walter Scott died in his beloved Abbotsford after one of the most spectacular literary careers in the whole history of the art. His social career had somewhat the same romance about it that characterized his literary career, except that it touched, pendulum-like, heights and depths while the even tenor of his literary success was always on the heights.

SIR WALTER SCOTT.

No man of his day had the popularity as a poet that Sir Walter Scott enjoyed. Few writers have ever gone from one literary form to another with the success which followed that laird of Abbotsford's shifting from epic poet to epic novelist. As a worker, in the plain everyday use of that word, few men in history have devoted themselves more assiduously to toil than did Sir Walter Scott.

Almost unparalleled prolific writing was only one of his varied activities. He was the official clerk of sessions in Edinburgh, and even during the most prolific of his literary years he spent six hours a day in court. He was sheriff of Selkirk, his native county, and professor of history at the Royal academy. And, in the great days of his life, host to thousands and patron of hundreds, an expenditure of human energy which is not usual in men of great creative fertility.

He has been called quixotic to the greatest degree because he refused to allow any man to lose one cent through association with him and chose, instead of the easy road of the bankruptcy court, years of ceaseless toil to wipe out his indebtedness. If he was not the first man to form himself into a stock company [in a manner of speaking] for the benefit of his creditors he is certainly the one literary example, that every child knows, of such devotion to his creditors that he threw his genius into their hands to reap whatever reward they might from his labors.

The story of the life of Sir Walter Scott is a pageant in itself. Both John Buchan and Dame Una Pope-Hennessy picture that pageant with colorful luster. John Buchan's picture includes not only the details of the life but a critical study of the books which made that life so oddly fascinating, for, like every true literary artist, writing was at once a passion and a keen satisfaction to Sir Walter Scott. It was, however, something of a private passion and satisfaction, one gathers from Mr. Buchan's pages. That is, the author was under no delusions about the importance of his work. He loved to write and he got immense satisfaction out of his writing, but he underrated rather than overrated his genius.

There is a story about the household of the popular author of "The Lady of the Lake." "In that household," says Mr. Buchan, "there was little talk of modern books and none at all of the father's work. Apart from the fact that he did not regard his own poetry as of supreme merit, Scott had the good sense to see that an atmosphere of domestic admiration is bad for both admired and admirer. James Ballantyne once asked Sophia [his daughter] what she thought of 'The Lady of the Lake' and her answer was: 'O, I have not read it. Papa says there's nothing so bad for young people as reading bad poetry.' Young Walter was dubbed the Lady of the Lake at the high school and, not having heard of the work, assumed he had been called a girl, and engaged in violent fisticuffs."

Mr. Buchan does not at all agree with Sir Walter Scott about Scott's importance as a writer. It is a fact that he stands with Shakespeare as the most widely reprinted author in the English language. Mr. Buchan does not find him unlike Shakespeare in many of his approaches to his themes and in their working out.

Mr. Buchan has written a serious, important critical biography of one of his greatest countrymen [Mr. Buchan is himself a Scotsman], one which at the same time gives the gist of that incomparable ten volume biography — Lockhart's life of his father-in-law—which stands as one of the great biographies of all literature, the spirit of Scott's own incomparable journals, and the judgment of modern critical standards on the man and his work.

"The Laird of Abbotsford" is a more intimate story of the man than of his work, a more emotional record of a highly romantic human being.

"The Waverley Pageant" is one of those volumes which always seem a little unfair and superfluous to me, but which the public always loves. Hugh Walpole has made a selection—filling 562 pages of what he considered the best passages from the novels of Sir Walter Scott. As such things go, it is an interesting piece of mosaic work, and, to those too lazy to read the novels in their entirety, it does give a taste of what Sir Walter Scott wrote on various intriguing subjects.

German-Americans Hold Celebration on Sunday

German-Americans will gather at the Chicago Stadium Sunday afternoon to honor the memories of George Washington, Goethe, Haydn and the first German pioneers to America. The program includes a male chorus of 1,000 voices and a female chorus of 150. Among other events will be the selection of a German queen from among 33 girl contestants and an historic pageant. Mayor Cermak and other public officials have been invited.

Sweaters from Paris

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—When the first chilly days of autumn come on, sweaters begin to have their big moments. As the good, old standbys that bridge the gap between summer and fall they are this year receiving their proper due. Never has Paris offered such a wide variety of sweater jackets from which to choose.

I have sketched for you today three of the newest types, from the sports house of Tao Tai. At the top of the sketch is the brief sweater that may be slipped on over a sleeveless blouse. It is knitted in alternating blue and white stripes, and is just Empire length. It is cut down in a U to the high waistline, this U being edged with a band of blue, which ends in ties at the center front. The short sleeves have knitted ruffles.

At the bottom of the sketch is a sweater that borrows its sleeves from the leg o' mutton era. It is closely knitted and its full length sleeves have huge black and white striped puffs which start, just above, and end just below, the elbows. This sweater is waist length, collarless, and buttons down the center front. It is held in at the waistline by vertical seams.

In the center of the drawing is a sweater which really makes a jacket in itself. It comes to the top of the hips and has long sleeves. It is closed by three cuff link buttons down the center front. This sweater jacket is in dark red and white stripes, and the scarf collar is made of twisted rolls in these colors, with ends that tie close at the throat.

You will note that these sweaters are all closely knitted in striped patterns, as are most of the smartest sweaters this fall.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Sept. 20.—One of the biggest Protestant churches in Christendom was created today in a historic ceremony in Royal Albert hall, uniting under one faith one million Methodists of Great Britain, realizing the great dream of Wesleyan evangelism.

Included among the notables on the platform of the mammoth hall were the Duke and Duchess of York, representing King George, the Anglican bishop of London, representatives of the nonconformist churches of England, the Salvation Army, and the Friends' society. Methodism throughout the world sent delegates, among them several bishops of the American Episcopal church.

The fight to bring the three factions into the union—the Wesleyan Methodists, Primitive Methodists, and United Methodists—has been carried on for 54 years. It was chiefly pushed by the Rev. J. Scott Lidgett, who realized his hope this afternoon when he opened John Wesley's worn Bible to read scripture after his election as chairman of the union.

Wesley himself is buried a few miles away, behind the little church which he opened more than 150 years ago.

The sect that he had fathered at present boasts 5,000 ministers in Britain, with 50,000 local preachers, 1,250,000 Sunday school pupils, and 25,000 churches. The total property of the union is estimated between 300 and 400 million dollars, represented in churches, schools, colleges, and missions.

Today's impressive ceremony inaugurates a jubilee lasting throughout the week, which concludes with a monster demonstration in Hyde park Saturday.

The Speakeasy Costume Wins Big Following

Outfits for 6 to 6 Wear Smart and Proper.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

OBLIGINGLY, knowingly and most discreetly the best dress designers are sending out some exceptionally clever ensembles that are called restaurant costumes, or quite frankly "speakeasy specials," depending upon the politics of the buyers. As you may surmise these are the fashionable get-togethers that you wear from 6 to 6, the few hours that are devoted to dining, dancing and dashing about the town with sightseeing swains and thrill hunting out-of-town visitors.

A double duty duet of gown and coat or jacket . . . these costumes have an enviable flair for both formality and informality that is positively breathtaking . . . you wear the simple, clinging, revealing gown without the jacket for the most frosty and formal events . . . you slip the intriguing short jacket over the deep V neck lines of the gown and you are garbed smartly but demurely and properly enough to impress any maiden aunt with a strong dislike of anything theatrical or eye-filling.

These gowns are, without any argument, the cleverest invention ever created for owner as well as onlooker.

Probably the first speakeasy models to go places will be the delightfully sinister black and white ensembles.

One perfect black bagheera combined with white bows for contrast will sweep in the smartest spots in town and stun the noisiest spectators into a deep coma. The gown is split to the waistline in back . . . the front neckline is high and square, outlined with a sparkling inch wide band of waffle square white pique.

Under this, as a distinctly new idea, the owner wears a matching white pique brasserie tied with two huge bows that slip through the back slit section and flutter engagingly as a double contrast. Not content with two big bows decorating the back, the long flowing sleeved cape is also tied in front under your chin with another bow of white pique . . . and the cape is also split in the back to show the two bows on the gown. Incredibly soft and sheer suedelike bagheera is simply perfect for the bias cut hip sections that are so necessary for the properly clinging evening gowns!

Dull silk crêpe in black and white combination fashions another restaurant costume . . . the white, thick, crinkled stuff forms the bodice top, using surplice lines and the 1932 crisscross band closing devices. The entire skirt is cut on the bias and nothing has been invented that can cling better and is more slenderizing than gowns made in this manner.

The matching hiplength jacket is made of black crêpe to match the skirt section of the dress . . . wide facings of white accent the front lapels, the right lapel is much wider and infinitely longer than the left side, for the right lapel winds and crosses and then winds around the neckline and so swathes the wearer that the two clever pieces achieve the effect of a most intricately designed one-piece gown.

Other ensemble ideas feature the cape combine. Perfectly simple, deceptively demure gowns, achieve that effect with capes that cover an otherwise formal and revealing décollatage. Some of the glittering new capes are fashioned of shining black and silver sequins and circular and alternate rows . . . others have white satin or crêpe silk capes that are reversible, enabling the gal who wears one to dance one night in black and white and the next in all black.

Although you have heard it before, it can be repeated, this is the year of years for the shopper to magically perform miracles with one good looking black dress and some tricky new capes and contrasting coats.

Novel Back Decolletage

Eyebrows Can Make or Mar Facial Beauty

Eccentric Shaping Too Often Seen.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

In one of the smart foreign fashion magazines I note an eyebrow cut and shaping on one of the wellknown and much photographed foreign beauties. The eyebrows remind you of that old adage about the devil finding work for idle hands. Those referred to surely look like nothing so much the Active One's own Mephistophelian pair. Only more so. They improved on the gentleman's wellknown devilish design.

Well, anything to be different and get your picture in the paper! Even to murdering a pair of perfect brows.

Let's pray that the fad won't turn out into an epidemic. It's all right for a lady to put a little color in her cheeks, to enlarge an eye, if she chooses, with makeup, to make the lips more cherry red if she has a mind to. These things are not interfering with line. It's when you go monkeying around with lines that you go off at the deep end.

Nature isn't a bad designer. At any rate, she molds a face after certain harmonic lines. She builds the eyes with a picture in mind of what kind of eyebrows go with them. The mouth has lines in proportion with the rest of the face. So, when you go reducing that eyebrow line to nil, extending it away beyond the eye proportion, you're doing something cubistic to your face. This might be all right if the rest of you went cubist. But you keep pretty much to form on the rest of your general makeup.

Now, when a woman begins making her eyebrows after the up-and-down pattern of a stockmarket chart, as were this famous beauty's to which I referred in the beginning, it's just time some one put the lady to work at something useful. "Crazy" is the only word you can give to freak eyebrows.

The skinning is going a bit too far, even though it is permitted to follow a normal enough line. The same thing applies to the denuded eyebrow line as applied to the very short skirt era. The illusion is gone. You can't realize what a nice, normal growth of eyebrow hair does to lend illusion to the eye until you strip the eye of it.

Lake Forest Academy to Mark 75 Years

Convocation Will Open Diamond Jubilee.

Celebration of the diamond jubilee of the Lake Forest academy will be opened with convocation at 2 o'clock this afternoon at the Reid hall chapel. Alumni, faculty and students will gather to observe the beginning of the 75th school year of the historic prep school. They will be greeted by Robert J. Thorn, president of the board of trustees; John Wayne Richards, starting his 20th year as headmaster, and the Rev. Herbert W. Prince, D. D., of Lake Forest. A number of the students who will attend the convocation are boys whose grandfathers, fathers and uncles have attended the academy.

The school was founded by a group of Chicago pioneers in 1857 in the midst of a forest which then stretched along the lake shore from Evanston to Waukegan. The academy's early board of trustees included B. W. Raymond, Dr. C. H. Quinlan, the Rev. Robert W. Patterson, William Bross, lieutenant governor of Illinois; Peter Page, C. B. Farwell, D. R. Holt, C. G. Wicker, and William Blair.

During the first school year the classes were held in the "old hotel," one of the first Lake Forest buildings of other than log construction. The first academy building, a two story frame structure, was ready for use in January of 1859.

Before this original building was destroyed by fire in 1879 and replaced by three new ones the following Chicagoans prepared for college within its walls: George Manierre, Russell M. Bradley, Charles H. Wacker, John Meeker High, Charles S. and George H. Holt, Charles H. Hulburd, Edward G. Shumway, Edson G. Keith, Chauncey G. Starkweather, Alfred L. Holt, Horatio O. Stone Jr., and Charles G. Wicker.

The late George Manierre, a member of the class of 1863, wrote in his "Reminiscences of Lake Forest Academy," published in 1918: "At first we studied by candle light and afterwards by kerosene lamps. We had to make our own fires, bring our own water from the well and cut our own wood, as no coal was used in those days at Lake Forest. With only the water in our pitchers for bathing purposes in winter we took a low neck wash and in summer bathed in the lake."

Among the well known Chicago residents who were students at the prep school from 1860 to 1880 were the following: William A. Bond, James M. Stryker, Dr. Lewis Linn McArthur, Robert W. Hamill, Thomas W. Magill, Frank B. Reed, Frederick T. Haskell, and John V., Francis C. and Arthur L. Farwell.

Junior League Bid Is Problem of Debutantes

BY JUDITH CASS.

ONE of the chief worries of every debutante's life—one might suppose that "debbies" had no worries, but they do—is whether she will be invited to be a provisional member of the Junior league and then if that worry is dispelled by receiving the coveted invitation she beings to worry about whether she will be able to fulfill the required eighty hours of work that must be done before she can be taken into full membership.

She must spend forty hours doing social service work and forty collecting money for the charities to which the league contributes. If she is in one of the children's plays the hours she spends in that count as part of the latter for and for the other forty she must do actual work in Hull house, Emerson house, the Visiting Nurses' association office, the Children's Memorial hospital or some one of the organizations which are on the league's list.

Some of the girls do Braille work and others have groups of handicapped children to whom they read, but all must spend the forty hours helping those less fortunate than themselves.

Must Attend Lectures Also

In addition to their "hours," which are among the chief topics of conversation among the debutantes for, as you may suppose, it is difficult for a popular girl to find time to do so much work during her first season "out," there are lectures by officials of various philanthropic organizations for the provisional members each winter and the girls must pass a test on these lectures before they are taken into active membership in the spring. To become a "P. M." a girl must be proposed by one and seconded by three members and then passed on by the board.

This year I understand it is going to be harder than ever before to "make" the Junior league and since there is more demand for volunteer service in the charities than ever before, the provisional members will have to work harder than heretofore.

An advisory board of some of the older members who are former officers of the league has been formed and those who are on that are Miss Helen Bournique, Mrs. Robert M. Curtis, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, Mrs. John R. Winterbotham Jr., and Mrs. Joseph M. Cudahy. Plans for the league's work at the Century of Progress are progressing splendidly but the girls are not ready to have much published about them yet so we will wait a bit to write anything about them other than to say that the league is to have charge of the children's activities and entertainment at the exposition. A stupendous job, but one that the league will handle in an efficient, capable manner, judging by past performances.

A meeting of the league has been called for Friday morning at the office in the Italian court on North Michigan avenue, which was reopened by the secretary, Miss Margaret Sinclair, two weeks ago yesterday, to make plans for the annual fall second hand clothes sale of which Miss Dorothey Dewes will be in charge.

Polly Perry's Wedding Date Announced.

The announcement of Miss Polly Perry's wedding day was made yesterday. She will be married on Oct. 27, Saturday, to Harold M. Kneedler and afterward the bride and her husband will sail for the Philippines where they are to live. It is expected the wedding ceremony will take place in the Astor street apartment of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. Newton Perry, though the plans are as yet unsettled. The marriage may be in St. Chrysostom's church.

Golf "Pow Wow" at Onwentsia.

Every Tuesday during the golf season is ladies' day at the Onwentsia club in Lake Forest, but yesterday was especially for the feminine devotees of the sport for it was the women's annual "Pow Wow."

About eighty were out for the affair, which was a mixture of serious and not so serious golf with prizes for ten events. Mrs. Donald B. Douglas won the low gross with a score of 97; Mrs. Mason Phelps had the least number of putts for 18 holes, having used her putter for 32 shots; Mrs. William L. Hodgkins won a prize for the lowest score on any 4 holes; Mrs. Kent Clow

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Neil is mystified by the peculiarities of Miss Bundy, who is broken in health and mentally disturbed. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, who with his wife, a common, illiterate couple, occupy the lodge, and hold a strange influence over Caroline. Neil meets Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, beautiful, but fiery tempered, who is Caroline's secretary. He moves to the Bundy estate in Somerset and Caroline puts him in charge of the library in the daytime, cautioning him to admit no one. She tells him her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Neil has a friend, Giles Gisborne, who is vicar of a nearby parish and lives with his sister, Rachel. Neil has lunch in Bath with Rachel and Tasha. He sees Tasha hold a secret meeting with a strange man and later sees her pay the stranger's bill in the tearoom. Neil is attracted to Tasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior.

INSTALLMENT IX.

THE RUIN OF AN ANCIENT ABBEY.

Late in the afternoon Neil saw Natasha crossing the lawn, clad in a green jersey, with her hair rippling in the wind like a blown cornfield. He had scarcely had a glimpse of her all day, and the desire to see how she fared after last night's contretemps proved too strong for him. Hastily locking up, he shouted to her to wait for him, which she did, in a patch of sunlight beyond the big cedar.

"I though of taking a look at the ruin," he said as he joined her. "Want to show me over it?"

"Certainly, if you like. Not that I can tell you much about it. Mr. Gisborne is the one for that sort of thing."

Except that she was a little pale, with a slight hint of stoicism in her expression, she looked none the worse for her recent distress. It occurred to him that she knew how to keep her feelings under cover, also that she would take it amiss if he mentioned what she wished to conceal.

All the way up the slope he was tinglingly aware of that quality in her which from the beginning had challenged his masculinity. Why, without making the slightest advance, she had more allure in her little finger than a hundred ordinary women put together! She was electric, vital. Perhaps it was this, together with the knowledge of her latent fierceness, which drew him. Never, at any time, had he responded to the milk-and-rose-leaves type.

On the brow of the hill they paused to look at the view. All about them, soft in the slanting light, rose the green Mendips, smoothed as by a giant hand. Here and there was the dark fold of a coombe, and in the distance a dim patch which the girl said was Glastonbury.

"That sticking out bit is the famous Tor. The Holy Grail is supposed to be buried somewhere near there, but that's only a myth, of course. You can't see the abbey. Anyhow, there's only a fragment of it left, like this old building."

They walked on to the crumbling walls, in and out of which grew thorn bushes and a huge mass of ivy with a twisted trunk, thick as a man's thigh. The matted tangle clung to the ancient bricks, sucking its life from their crevices. Overhung by it was the remnant of a crude arch.

"Here was the refectory. Those flat stones are part of the original floor. There was a crypt underneath, but it's quite filled up. Shouldn't wonder if there are tombs down there now. This is a priest's hole—and look, here's the well the lay brothers got their water from. It's terribly deep!"

Kneeling down beside a circlet of stone she dropped a pebble into the black shaft. Far below sounded a ghostly splash, coming apparently from the very bowels of the earth.

"It's a queer country, this," she went on. "All honeycombed with caves and springs. I'm told there are places where spray blows in your face and you can't see where it comes from. Makes you think of Alph, the sacred river, you know, and the caverns measureless to man."

He thrilled at the touch of her shoulder momentarily pressed against his. They remained for a bit gazing down into the well, then the girl moved away and stooping, began to examine the worn flags underfoot. The next instant she uttered a puzzled exclamation.

"At it again!" she remarked, frowning. "Do you see how some one's been loosening these stones? I've noticed it several times. I wonder if my aunt knows?"

"I should imagine a child is responsible," he answered, turning over one of the flags with his foot. "There's no sense in it, is there?".

"I don't know. Would a child carry a shooting stick? Because whoever it is has stuck one in all about here. See these marks?"

Before he could venture an opinion on the neatly drilled holes she pointed out to him, a shadow fell across the ground between them. Straightening up he beheld Miss Bundy just topping the rise, puffing like a steam engine, and wearing her usual air of deep absorption. She hugged in one arm the alligator skin bag from which she was never parted, while her right hand clutched a long steel contrivance with a spike at one end and a folded seat at the other. She had not yet noticed any one was near. Natasha touched Neil's arm and whispered, "Why—she's the one! It's her shooting stick. What can she be after?"

A few yards away the old lady halted suddenly and saw them. A dingy red overspread her features, her small, wrathful eyes darted from one face to the other with unaccountable suspicion.

"Are you two looking for anything special?" She demanded this in a voice choking with spleen.

So accusing was her manner that Neil for the moment was dumbfounded.

"No, only prowling about," he answered easily. "All this is most interesting. Your niece has been telling me about the blocked up crypt under here."

"O—so that's it!" Though evidently ashamed, Miss Bundy still seemed only partly appeased. "I wasn't aware that Natasha knew about the crypt—if there ever was one," she muttered, and to hide her confusion blew her nose with violence.

The handkerchief, dragged from her coat pocket, brought with it two objects which fell to the ground. Neil restored them to her—a long kitchen knife, and a yellow tape measure. She stuffed them out of sight hastily, meanwhile directing another glance at the retreating girl. When the latter was out of earshot she spoke again in a pouncing fashion.

"What have you done with my keys?" she said brusquely. "Are they in your pocket?"

"I'm so sorry!" he cried, producing the little bunch. "I've just come out, and didn't realize it was 6 o'clock."

She let the collection lie in the palm of her hand, but kept her eyes riveted to his face.

"Mr. Starkey," she said agitatedly. "I want to ask you something, and now is as good a time as any. Please think carefully before you reply." She hesitated, then went on with a mixture of embarrassment and eagerness. "Have you done as I told you about locking the study? Or, what is more important, have these keys at any moment during the day been out of your possession?"

He reassured her positively on both points. No, the keys had been in his pocket all the time, except while he was at work when they lay on the table under his eye.

"Sure you've not left them on your dressing table, or—or—"

"Quite sure. I've been just as careful as you told me to be."

She had hung on his words, and now a great sigh of relief escaped her.

"Thank God! Thank God!" she whispered. "In that case, everything is as it should be—only I had to make certain. . . . There, that is all. Continue with your walk. I have something I wish to do."

Thus dismissed, he left her standing motionless, with a spellbound gaze fixed on the horizon. Her little dull eyes were filled with rapt wonderment.

Natasha was loitering about on the path ahead. In answer to her questioning glance he told her what had just occurred.

"Thank goodness I did carry out her instructions," he finished with a rueful laugh. "As it was she made me feel unaccountably guilty. Forgive me for asking, but frankly, is your aunt usually like this?"

Instead of replying she demanded quickly. "What sort of instructions did she give you?"

"O, about locking the room up and not leaving the keys lying about."

"See her now!" And Natasha pointed back to the hill top.

The old lady was bustling in and out the ruin, bending low and prodding the earth with her stick. Once she got down on the ground and appeared to be taking measurements.

"It looks," he ventured with mock gravity, "as if she meant to dig for buried treasure. She brought a knife with her, I may tell you."

"A knife!" To his surprise she treated his suggestion quite seriously. "Maybe she does hope to find treasure. The Glebe house belonged to the abbey, you know, and the abbey was the richest in Europe."

Beauty Answers

ELEANOR: CORN STARCH AS face powder isn't harmful, but a face powder needs a little more "body" to stay on.

MOTHER: YES, ORANGE JUICE is recommended especially for the effect it has on teeth. Milk, too, is a builder of tooth health.

Beauty, Freed in Killing, May Enter Movies

Charlotte Nixon Is Given Test by Fox.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 20.—Charlotte Nixon-Nirdlinger, former Miss St. Louis who in May, 1931, won a ten minute acquittal in Nice, France, for the shooting of her wealthy Philadelphia husband, Fred Nirdlinger, is getting poised for a dive into the movies at the Fox studio.

The blonde and blue eyed young woman, who at the age of 27 has passed through higher ups and more tragic downs than most film heroines enact in their entire careers, was taking tests yesterday. There is a possibility she will go to India with a Fox cast to film a story which shares prominence with a man eating tiger.

The St. Louis beauty has placed her two children, Fred and Little Charlotte, with kind attendants in Pasadena, and if her film career gets a smooth start, she intends to change her name for screen purposes. It was officially changed by court order, together with the names of her children, Nirdlinger to Nixon in New York last year.

George Cukor, who directed Connie Bennett in "What Price Hollywood" and who is making the added and remade scenes for her newly completed "Rockabye," that another director did not want to do, has now been given the assignment to perform with the glitteringest of the Bennett girls again in "Always Wrong." This is an Adela Hyland original, whose screen adapters are Kubec Glasmon, the former Chicago pharmacist-dentist, and Charles Brackette.

Radio-RKO is going to make a film of Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women."

The dinner which Elissa Landi and her husband, John Cecil Lawrence, gave last Saturday night, was a farewell party, all right, but not a permanent farewell. Miss Landi and her mother, Countess Zenardi and her secretary are going to London to spend a short holiday, and then, back to Hollywood and more films. Lawrence is compelled by business affairs to take a plane for New York and a boat for London.

If Paramount decides to renew Tallulah Bankhead's option, it must pay her $6,000 a week, on terms of the original agreement. Paramount wants to reduce, rather than raise the salary. The actress, however, is sticking by the words on the paper. Paramount, which has not turned out any Bankhead films that rate, professionally, as successes, is on tender hooks because of reports that M G M, to whom it loaned the Alabama actress, has done her proud in "Tinfoil."

Radio studio is making Joel McCrea a full fledged star. The young man who was graduated from Pomona college, California, a few years ago, and who won the grudging consent of his father, secretary of the Los Angeles Gas and Electric corporation, to pursue his movie ambition "for just one year, to see if you will get anywhere," is now booked to make three special starring films each year, besides which he will take the feature rôles in some other films for which his employers already had him in mind. His is an interesting story of Hollywood success; he was but three days from the end of his father's trial year when cast for a lead in the Rex Beach story "Silver Horde," which started him on his rapid climb.

Krawiecs, Mr. and Mrs., Show New Paintings

BY ELEANOR JEWETT.

An exhibition of paintings by Harriet B. Krawiec and Walter Krawiec has opened in the Allerton House gallery. Mrs. Krawiec has long been noted for the brilliancy of her flower paintings and Walter Krawiec has built up an enviable reputation for his stirring pictures of circus and paddock life. Perhaps stirring is not the word. These paintings of horses and big tents, of red circus wagons or racing greens are too finely composed, too much the work of a craftsman, to permit an enthusiastic acclaim to be the summary of criticism. They do more than stir one's sense of beauty—they appease one's keen desire, in lean years, for finished work.

Mrs. Krawiec paints in a less vivid vein than her husband. Her compositions are well handled, however, and now and again, as in "Asters" and "Chrysanthemums," she achieves such a successful feeling of quality and charm that her painting becomes a lure to entrap the wandering attention.

If one had to choose, in lake manner, the most fascinating of Mr. Krawiec's pictures, possibly the little "An Old Fire Engine" would claim a place at the head of the list, closely followed by "Joe Hayes Coming Up with Sea Lions," "Clipping Horses" and "Red Wagon."

Across Michigan avenue and two blocks further south, in the studio gallery, Increase Robinson, director, Diana Court building, there is another new exhibit. It is made up of two one-man shows, one of water colors, etchings and sculpture by Herbert Rosengren, and the other of Mexican fiesta water colors by Morris Topchevsky. The Mexican water colors run true to form and are colorful and eventful.

Herbert Rosengren, one would say on the strength of his show, is a younger man and a painter who is still reaching after style. He has tried various manners, you will find them on the wall; which is his own is still in doubt. He may appear in another guise at your next meeting. Meanwhile he is Syrian and mystic in his etchings and sculpture and Frenchly modern in his Paris water colors, although Americanly modern in his American water colors.

The exhibit will continue to Oct. 1.

BY MARY MEADE.

Pop, popety pop! More salt . . . more butter . . . more heat. Tantalizing aromas that waft one back to childhood . . . to huge fireplace. . . chilly fall evenings . . . bursting apples . . . billows of bounding white snow—popcorn!

Perhaps, as some one has lamented, popcorn is not the favorite of the small boy on the streets that it used to be. But with the arrival of real fall weather, with fireplaces once more getting into action and cider and doughnuts calling for salty or mayhap sugary popcorn as the only fit companion for their goodness—out comes the popper and once more a barrage of bursting snowy balls beats at the popper lid, impatient to sun their sides in butter and salt, crown their goodness with corn sirup for brittles, balls, bricks, and molds, swim merrily forth in bowls of cold supper milk, or sail—three or four "pops" to a plate—atop steaming hot bowls of corn soup!

If you still cling to the good old time wire popper, from which we bat out the chaff before popping our corn over fire or burner, butter and salt must be added after the corn has been popped and piled into a kettle. With the newer popper models, however, butter and salt may be added during the popping proper and will thus do a better job of seasoning.

Now, about popcorn modus operandi—long for how-do-you-do it? If you feel that popcorn in one form or another will cut a real figure in the family eye this coming fall and winter, you may do well to buy the wherewithal on the ear and shell it as you need it. For actually, corn pops by reason of the moisture inside the kernels, which expand on heating. If we, therefore, keep our shelled corn where it may lose this moisture, we may have an abundance of "old maids" and rather disappointingly small "pops" when we are ready to toast it.

Often when we make candied popcorn balls or popcorn brittle, we think only in terms of sugar, sirup, popcorn, and perhaps vanilla. Delicious confections, however, may come out of the popcorn kettle if we experiment with a combination of corn and seedless raisins, corn and peanuts,, corn and shredded cocoanut, or corn and chocolate. With each of these a different flavoring, chosen to blend with the added ingredients, may be used and often delightful treats for grownups as well as children will evolve when tempting tints of vegetable coloring are added to peanut, raisin, cocoanut, or plain popcorn candies.

In cooking popcorn candy, by the way, it is well to use at least 25 per cent corn sirup to 75 per cent sugar, for while too great a proportion of sirup will make the candy tough, any less than 25 per cent is likely to give a grainy candy on standing.

Philadelphia, which still seems to be the beloved stamping ground of popcorns of every flavor and description, advises three flavors and colors. Chocolate gives its own taste sensation and color, vanilla extract is used to flavor white popcorn candy, and a tint of pink plus wintergreen make the third popcorn special.

The following—a popcorn molasses brittle with shredded cocoanut added for interesting texture and heightened deliciousness—is decidedly different and will hold its own in family favor with the best of the fudges and divinities.

PEANUT COCOANUT BRITTLE.

1½ cups corn sirup
1 1-3 cups water
1-3 cup molasses
1-3 cup butter
¾ tspn. salt
1 cup shredded cocoanut
½ tspn. baking soda

Mix the sugar, corn sirup, water, and molasses together and bring to a boil. Add the butter and continue cooking until the mixture has reached 300 degrees F., or the hard crack stage. At about 280 degrees add the heated cocoanut and the baking soda and salt. At 300 degrees remove from the stove and add about eight quarts of popped corn from which the unpopped kernels have been sifted. Work the corn with the hands until the sirup is well blended.

Dump out on a large marble slab or oiled table [not wood] and spread out in an open thin sheet. It will be necessary to work speedily to avoid stiffening of the sirup.

Aunts, Uncles Ask for Child Training Books

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Yesterday was grandparents' day. Today, aunts and uncles have theirs. The aunt of fiction is not fictitious, at all. She is usually an understanding and loving relative, wanting to help so much. Sometimes, too, because of an outside slant she can get on a situation, she is more able to handle it than the parents, who being on the firing line, so to speak, are surrounded by the smoke and noise of battle.

So here we are:

"I am not a mother, but a loving and interested aunt. I find that my nieces often ask me questions they do not want to ask their mother and that are difficult to answer. Will you, therefore, please send me your 'Sex Education' booklet? I'd like some help, too, for my other sister who has a year old baby. She loves her child and tries hard for obedience, but somehow fails."

"I have a little nephew of 2 years who has already presented problems, both to the parents and myself. These call for more knowledge on the subject than we have to enable us to deal with him thoughtfully, lovingly and beneficially. Will you, therefore, please send me . . ."

"My sister is having some difficulty with her little girl on the matter of lying. I want to help her all I can. Will you please give me some reading references on the subject?"

"Please send me just anything and everything that will help in the rearing of three live wires. As their nearest relatives we have taken these children into our home since their mother's death. They are pretty, bright, happy and loving youngsters and with the proper handling I can see the making of worthwhile future citizens of them." This from an uncle.

"Will you please send me some reading for a 13 year old boy? His father does not know how to approach the subjects which are taking concrete form in his mind. His mother has died and I, his aunt, am trying to help as well as I can."

We would do well to spread out the glory we accord to parents, and let it shine on the many others, especially aunts, who have meant so much in delight and comfort to so many nieces and nephews.

First Air Tourney for Women Only to Be Held October 2

The first air meet for women only will be held on Sunday, Oct. 2, at Ashburn Flying field, 85th street and Cicero avenue, under the auspices of the Chicago Girls' Flying club. Plans for the meet will be completed at a meeting next Sunday afternoon at the Air Associates hangar at Chicago airport, Miss Helen Colton, treasurer of the club, said.

The tentative program includes aerobatics, speed dashes, balloon busting and paper splitting, bomb strafing, a spot landing contest, and a handicap race. The feature event of the afternoon will be a "presidential race" in which three planes, supposedly piloted by President Hoover, Gov. Roosevelt, and Andy Gump will participate. The meet is to start at 2 p. m.

The girls' club has twelve members, seven of whom hold pilots' licenses. Miss Jane Willis is the president.

had the least number of putts on the first nine, 2 on each hole; Mrs. T. Philip Swift had a score of 12 for the total of the second, fifth and eighth holes, thereby winning herself a prize and she won another by tying with Mrs. Hodgkins for the choice score on any four holes; Mrs. Daniel L. Winter had low net, 85; Mrs. Paul McBride had the least number of putts on the second nine, 18; Mrs. Edison Dick had low net for the first nine, 41; and Mrs. Barrett Scudder also was a winner for the choice of any four holes with a score of 15. In between the golf games the women enjoyed a buffet luncheon and although the weather wasn't what the women had hoped it would be, it didn't rain enough to really interfere with the golf.

The men's powwow at Onwentsia will be held next Saturday.

Aline Macy Is Engaged

An engagement being announced in the east today of interest here because the young man's family lived in Evanston for a number of years is that of Miss Aline Wise Macy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Josiah Macy of Morristown, N. J., to Hovey C. Clark of New York, son of the late Judge and Mrs. Thomas C. Clark of Evanston.

Miss Macy on her mother's side is a descendant of Col. John Wise who emigrated to Virginia from England and settled in Accomac in 1617, and of the Adams family of Massachusetts.

On her father's side she is a descendant of Thomas May, who, with his family, spent the first experimental winter of 1659 on the island of Nantucket. Miss Macy is a niece of the Duchess de Richelieu.

Mr. Clark's father, at the time of his death, was presiding justice of the appellate branch of the Superior court in Chicago. Miss Macy attended the Foxcroft school and made her debut in 1930. Mr. Clark was graduated from Williams in 1925 and from the Harvard law school in 1928. No date has been set for the wedding.

Leaves for Dobbs Ferry.

Miss Elizabeth Dewes, Mrs. Edwin P. Dewes' youngest daughter, has left for her first year at Dobbs Ferry and Miss Grace Dewes will leave Oct. 1 for her senior year at Bryn Mawr. Miss Dorothy Dewes, who made her debut last year, will be at home this winter. The family returned recently from having spent the summer at Nantucket.

Mrs. Charles L. Hutchinson plans to keep open her Lake Geneva residence until about the first of November.

Mrs. Oliver Dennett Grover has returned to her studio apartment in the Italian Court from a stay at the artists' camp at Oregon, Ill. and a motor trip to Detroit.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Shaw have returned from having spent the summer in Santa Barbara and Mrs. Shaw's son, Thomas Tyler, is at home from a summer abroad.

Mrs. William A. Gilchrist of 1430 Lake Shore drive has returned from having spent the summer abroad.

Parties for Miss Durbin

Philip Le Fevre Elting was a dinner host last night at a party for Miss Elinor Durbin and S. Prentice Porter, who are to be married next Tuesday. Tomorrow night Miss Mary Adeline Porter, Mr. Porter's sister, is to entertain at dinner and the theater for Miss Durbin and on Saturday night Mrs. Henry Homes Porter, the prospective bridegroom's mother, will give a dinner at the Shore Acres club for her son's bride-to-be.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Harrington are giving the bridal dinner tonight at the Knollwood club for their daughter, Sophia, who is to be married tomorrow afternoon to Jacob Bischof.

Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman is arriving in town today from having spent the summer with her son, Joseph G. Coleman Jr., in Montecito. Mrs. Coleman will be at the Ambassador East for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. William J. Chalmers returned yesterday to their apartment at 1100 Lake Shore drive from their summer residence at Watch Hill, R. I.

Black Satin Crepe Frock Has Slenderizing Lines

WOMAN'S AND MISS' DRESS.

Many smart women are wearing coatlike dresses this season, and this model is particularly attractive. The wrapped arrangement of the front is slimming and modish. The original in black satin crêpe had its tricky rever collar that ends in a scarf tie of the reverse side of the crêpe, which appears again in the vest, novel cuffs, and buttons.

The pattern, 3,422, comes in sizes 16 and 18 years and 36, 38, 40, and 42 inches bust measure. Size 36 requires 4 yards of 39 inch material with ⅛ yard of 39 inch contrasting.

Theater Group to Abolish Double Feature Programs

Double feature programs in the independent motion picture theaters in Chicago will be abolished Oct. 2 and only single feature pictures will be shown thereafter. Officials of the Allied Theaters of Illinois made this announcement last night from headquarters at 910 South Michigan avenue.

A decision has not yet been reached by the motion picture theater owners not affiliated with the Allied group regarding the discontinuance of the showing of two feature pictures at each program. The practice has been criticised as making programs too long.

Independent exhibitors who are members of the Motion Picture Owners of America and the Allied States Association of Motion Picture Exhibitors, meeting at the Congress hotel, announced a campaign against the recently announced "exclusive selling" plan of producers. This plan, according to Al Steffes, president of the Allied organization, would limit the showing of the best pictures to the theaters charging the highest admission—the so-called first run theaters.

M. E. Education Leaders Map Sunday School Plan

Leaders of religious education in the Methodist Episcopal church throughout the country began a ten day conference yesterday at Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston. The conference will be led by Dr. F. C. Eiselen, head of the board of education of the denomination. The conference will build a program of teaching for Methodist Sunday schools for the next four years. Dr. George A. Coe, formerly of Columbia university; Dr. H. F. Rall of Garrett, and James Mullenbach, formerly arbitrator for the clothing trades, will be the principal leaders of discussions.

Sophisticated Chap Likes the Demure Maiden

Peter Arno Voices Opinion About Modern Gals.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

When one of the most sophisticated young men of our current times announces in a publicly printed interview that what man yearns for is "a sheltered, lovely, flowerlike creature who would be very difficult to win," it's time the moderns practising their woman's right to pursue sat down to do a little pondering.

A pursuing female never was and plainly never will be a man's ideal of what is due him from romance.

Here's Peter Arno, the hardest boiled of caricaturists, the artist who has committed devastating assaults on the emotion known as romantic love in his drawings, crying out for the girl who is hard to win. The "man-chasing, pseudo-sophisticated, economically independent girl" he blames particularly for romance's present sickly state of being.

"The only time love is any fun for a man," he openly confides, "is when the conditions have been made difficult for him. Then he prizes his privileges—so long as they remain difficult."

It's the dishonesty of the hard boiled pose of women that saddens Arno and his fifty million male compatriots. They're not fooling the men. They see the "heart" under all this silly mask of sophistication.

What our men appear to want more than they want anything else from you, girls, is that the mask be dropped and you be romantic in the good old fashioned way. It's rumored that it is the men, not women at all who are behind the latest fashion move to get back to Victorian complexions and figures. And this a plot to ease women back into the picture of which male dreams of them are made.

Well, if that's the scheme, why not beat the gentlemen to it? If it's romance they're craving, being pursued, being difficult to attain, why not start practising the rules? Certainly the other system hasn't done much for women, so there can be little to lose reviving such old lures as can be suitably adapted to modern conditions, among them chiefly letting the man believe he is doing the pursuing—whether he is doing it or not.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Henry Rogers Winthrop, president of the Piping Rock club at Locust Valley, L. I., will entertain a number of friends at an informal dinner party at the club on Saturday evening in honor of secretary of the treasury, Ogden L. Mills of Woodbury, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. James Blanchard Clews will give a dinner party on Monday evening in honor of Mrs. McK. Twombly at La Lanterne, their country home at Bronxville, L. I.

Mr. and Mrs. Anton G. Hodenpyl, who have been spending the summer at Hill House, their country home at Locust Valley, L. I., will leave about Nov. 3 for Cocoanut Grove, Fla., where they will spend the winter months at their home.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Mrs. Hoover went this afternoon to see the polo games in West Potomac park. She was accompanied by Mrs. Butler, her secretary, and Mrs. Stark McMullin.

Vice President Curtis left this evening for Chicago to spend a night with his son, Kingsbury Curtis, and will then go to Kentucky and Tennessee to make speeches.

Mrs. Frank C. Letts of Chicago and Washington, who returned to Washington last week from her summer place on Chesapeake bay, left yesterday for Chicago to remain for some weeks.

Old Northwestern U. Coast Guard Station Is Opened as Club

The old United States coast guard station on the Evanston campus of Northwestern university was opened yesterday as a union building for men and women students. The atmosphere of the station has been retained in the remodeling work. The grill has been built to represent a ship's cabin, and a private dining room has been constructed as a pilot house. The station was built in 1871 and was manned by a life saving crew composed of Northwestern seniors. The building is being operated by the men's union, and contains rooms for meetings of student organizations.

British Notables Are Guests at Joan MacDonald Wedding

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Dr. Joan MacDonald, second daughter of Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, was married this afternoon in the little Congregational church in the village of Wendover, to Dr. Alastair Mackinnon, a fellow physician whom she met while both were doing hospital work.

Despite the long list of distinguished guests, some of whom stood in the aisles of the tiny building, the service was the plainest of any wedding of that importance that England has had. The word "obey" was left out of the ceremony and the pair listened to a blunt lecture in broad Scotch brogue on their responsibilities by the Rev. Hector MacLean who had read the service.

All the guests wore sprigs of white heather in their buttonholes. School children who had been given a holiday in honor of the event cheered and waved flags from both sides of the village street, which was festooned with messages of good luck.

THEE

Those doubtful folk who feared Chicago had no appetite for satire heard some of the heartiest laughter and loudest applause of their lives. . . . Here was the vaunted sense of American humor at its most, turned on the National political flap-doodle, and the American people greeting it with gales of laughter.
—Ashton Stevens, Herald-Examiner.

I

The pace with which Mr. Kaufman sent his many actors through the ridiculous burlesques of political conference, rallies, stump speeches and election nights was as brassily invigorating as a military band, and its music and scenery both were invigorating. Chicago can stand "Of Thee I Sing," and stand it a long time.
—Lloyd Lewis, Daily News.

Here is a musical comedy which makes them stand up and applaud for more instead of trying to beat the final curtain to the front door. Good actors, good lookers, good dancers, good music, good lyrics and good fun, make perfect surcease from the serious. You'll want to sing a hallelujah to the combination of Gershwins, Kaufman, and Ryskind from whom flows such a blessing as "Of Thee I Sing."
—P. W. McQuigg, American.

What matter if you are a gaunt and hungry school teacher; what matter if your bank book became a scrap of paper under the June moon; what matter if Maine went Democratic? You owe everybody, anyhow, so why not start paying yourself first—for you certainly owe it to yourself to see and hear "Of Thee I Sing."
—C. J. Bullitt, Post.

Stocking Run
If she hadn't destroyed ELASTICITY—her stockings would wear
OF COURSE, if you catch your stocking on something sharp you're bound to get a run.
But when runs just pop without apparent cause, it means you've washed your stockings the wrong way. Using harsh soap—or rubbing with cake soap has destroyed elasticity.
Elasticity is the important quality that makes stockings wear. Lux saves this precious quality. It keeps the fine silk threads elastic—alive.
You can pull and stretch them—the threads give but do not break. Runs don't start.
MAKE IT A RULE to use only Lux to wash silk stockings. Its mild suds protect the color, too, and keep the lovely "new" look. Of course, you'll Lux your stockings after every wearing. It takes just about 2 minutes. Washed always in Lux, your stockings wear twice as long. A girl just can't afford to neglect these easy economies in these days!
LUX
Beauty Care for Hands right in the dishpan... use Lux for dishes, too.
The LUX way to make stockings last twice as long
Wash this 2-minute way:
1. One teaspoon of Lux for each pair of stockings.
2. Add lukewarm water to Lux, squeeze suds through stockings, rinse well.
Don't use too warm water—this fades color. With Lux you use lukewarm water. No hot water needed.
Don't rub with cake soap. It destroys the elasticity of the silk. With Lux there's no rubbing.
Avoid ordinary soaps—cakes, powders, chips. These often contain harmful alkali which weakens threads, fades color. Lux has no harmful alkali. Anything safe in water is safe in Lux.

BUSINESS MEN ASSAILED FOR LINK TO RACKETS

U. S. Industry Imperiled, Says Hostetter.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Business men, politicians, and labor leaders were assailed today by Gordon L. Hostetter, director of the Chicago Employers' association, as allies of the professional criminal in the development of a "new and repulsive phase of American life, a menace to American business—racketeering."

Speaking before the national conference on government, in session here, Mr. Hostetter asserted that the racket, originally thought of as a temporary form of graft or extortion, has grown through alliances of business groups, union heads, politicians, and criminals until it annually costs the nation an "incalculable sum."

Costs Chicago 145 Millions.

In Chicago alone, said Mr. Hostetter, racketeering costs more than 145 million dollars a year. Add to this the amount spent by the city to deal with racketeering, he said, and the total cost of Chicago's rackets equals the annual cost of the municipal government.

Declaring that perhaps the most insidious feature of the racket is its cloak of respectability, Mr. Hostetter asserted that "racketeering is an inside job and a native American product, for which business itself is too greatly responsible."

"The true racket," he said, "is comprised of four elements—the business man or business group, the leader or leaders of organized labor, the criminal underworld, and the politician."

Starts with Monopoly Plot.

"The business man," according to Mr. Hostetter, "seeks to create and maintain for himself and a favored few a monopoly in his particular field of service or trade. He seeks, through the pressure that can be brought by politicians in the misapplication or thwarting of the law, and through the withdrawal of labor by union leaders, to embarrass his competitors to the point where they will either recognize and abide by racket rules or quit the field of competition.

"The leader of organized labor," continued the Chicagoan, "seeks first a monopoly of control over the workmen engaged in a given trade. This insures to his treasury the dues of all the men of that trade. Moreover, it enables him to manipulate his man forces to the advantage of his co-conspirators, the business man or the politician or both, and the discomfiture and disadvantage of business men who dare to assert independence of the racket.

Politician Blocks Law.

"The politician, by paralyzing the hands of the law, is looking to campaign contributions, organization work, and votes at election time and frequently also to participation in the profits of the conspiracy.

"The criminal underworld finds lucrative work to bomb, to commit arson, to slug, maim, and kill; to terrorize an entire community into staying away from the polls at election time and to fraudulent voting and terroristic practices at the polls.

"In short, this 'collusive agreement' racket may be described as a combination of business, labor unionism, politics, and the criminal underworld that is running the whole gamut of crime, the purpose of which is exploitation of commerce and the public through circumventing the right to work and to do business."

Criminal Gets Control.

In the last two years, Mr. Hostetter stated, racketeering has undergone a change for the worse.

"Whereas several years ago organizations of business men and organized labor were principally responsible, with the criminal acting merely as a tool or an agent, the criminal is now gaining the ascendancy," he asserted.

"What is more alarming, organized criminality is directing its efforts toward the control of business and labor as a means of perpetuating itself—when, as, if, and possibly regardless of whether its peculiar field of activity is destroyed by repeal or modification of the 18th amendment. Open declarations of this intention have been made by some of the country's most notorious criminals and sufficient evidence is present to indicate the success of their programs."

RUSSIAN POLICE EXPEL CANADIAN WOMAN WRITER

MOSCOW, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Rhea Clyman, a Toronto, Canada, correspondent here for the London Daily Express and the Toronto Mail and Empire was ordered expelled from Soviet Russia today on a charge of writing false news about the country. The order followed recently publication by the Daily Express and newspapers in Canada of a series of articles she wrote after a trip to the timber regions in northern Russia, purporting to reveal methods employed by the secret police at a prison camp near Kem.

These articles and several others she had written in recent months were quoted at length today in the newspaper Izvestia, which attacked her in a half page editorial as a "provocateur from the bourgeois camp."

Miss Clyman, who is 28, is now at Tiflis, where she received the order of expulsion over the signature of Yagoda, vice chairman of the gay pay ou, or secret police. She was directed to leave the country within 24 hours. She has been in Russia four years. At present she is accompanying Alva Christensen and Mary L. De Give, two Atlanta, Ga., girls, on a motor tour of southern Russia. The American girls are not affected.

20,000 GALS. ALKY SMUGGLED INTO CANADA; 3 HELD

MONTREAL, Que., Sept. 20.—Disguised as oil, 20,000 gallons of alcohol, product of an illicit still at Newark, N. J., were smuggled into Montreal, evading customs duties totaling $300,000.

Today J. A. Constantin, president, and Eugene Constantin, vice president of the Albany Oil and Gas company, Ltd., Montreal, and L. Lapierre, customs broker's employe, were arrested and charged with "conspiracy to defraud his majesty." On pleading "not guilty" they were liberated on $10,000 bail each.

The still in Newark from which the alcohol came was seized by United States prohibition officers as a result of information given them by the Canadian customs.

CUBS DEFY EXPERTS AND HARD LUCK TO WIN

RUTH ASSURES CUBS HE'LL BE IN WORLD SERIES

Figures on Bunting Into Bleachers.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, N. Y., Sept. 20.—Babe Ruth, the man who at a ripe old age as ball players go, still is the mainspring of the Yankees, will positively fill his impending world series engagement with the Cubs. That much is assured, but how well he'll fill it in behalf of his team mates is something else again.

The Babe, after almost two weeks of idleness, during which he was nursed through a reported appendicitis attack, is coming back for some active work tomorrow when the Yankees

INJURIES AND INVESTIGATIONS INTENSIFY TASK

Grimm Appointment Starts Comeback.

Three out of 67 baseball experts who participated in a nation-wide consensus last March picked the Cubs to win the National league pennant this season. Last night each one of the 67 was said to be claiming he was one of the three wise men.

But the fact remains that very few persons—whether experts or those who pay to get in—thought the Cubs would finish better than third. Five of the voting experts picked them to finish second; 41 said they would finish third, 15 picked them for fourth. One professional guesser placed them as low as sixth.

The triumph of the Chicagoans is Just Try to Keep Him Out of Impending Series.

(This is the seventh of a series of sketches of Cub players who will oppose the New York Yankees in the world series.)

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

When it comes to a matter of world series records, Hazen Kiki Cuyler, who patrols right field for the Cubs, has one all his own. But he didn't earn it. It was wished on him, so there is no mention of it in his scrapbook.

The record that Cuyler would like to have remain a secret is that he was in a world series and yet didn't play. He was a zero in every department. But they did reserve a spot for him on the bench, and if there was any desire on his part for the last laugh he had it. The team—Pittsburgh's Pirates—for which he was serving only as a bench warmer was thumped soundly by the Yankees in four straight games in 1927.

There have been many ball players who happened to be on world series teams and didn't have a chance to appear in the so-called classic, but Cuyler is the only star who ever was interned in that fashion.

Runs Afoul the Club Lawmaker.

Ki was one of the ranking members of the Pirate squad that year, but in the course of the weaving of the pennant he ran afoul the club lawmakers. It might have been Manager Donie Bush. Or it might have been the late Barney Dreyfus, owner of the team. Neither ever would admit what happened and Cuyler always classed it an unsolved mystery.

The Cuyler affair almost divided Pittsburgh into club and anti-club factions. The newspapers took up the case and made such heated defense for the player that the owner, who always resented intrusion into his baseball affairs, dispatched emissaries to the editors. But Dreyfuss either supported Bush or himself issued the no-play order.

When the series opened in Pittsburgh one large canvas sign, "We Want Cuyler," was hoisted over the heads of the spectators in the open faced left field pavilion. Thousands of voices in unisom boomed out the same demand. Cuyler was cheered lustily whenever he moved in the pre-game practice. But both Dreyfuss and Bush were deaf to the demands.

What caused all this unhappiness for a player who, so far as is known, always went about his business to the best of his ability?

One story was that Cuyler had dropped a remark reflecting on Bush's managerial ability. On the way to the training camp he was supposed to have mentioned in an offhand way that Bush was just a busher. Some of the nice boys who are members of every club kindly passed on the information to the manager. Bush, being more or less vindictive, may have remembered this for use the first time any difficulty arose with his star outfielder and hitter.

Upset by Little Things; Worries About Injuries.

The difficulty arose all right. Bush wanted Cuyler to bat second, which was just what Cuyler didn't want to do. He's a poor bunter and knows it. Good bunting is one requisite for work in the second notch. Bush didn't think much of Cuyler's argument. And then there was a time when Cuyler went into second standing up for the purpose, he says, of trying to break up a double play. Bush thought he should have slid. After that Bush had no use for his star and Dreyfuss felt the same way. So in November of 1927 Cuyler was sent to the Cubs for Earl [Sparky] Adams and Floyd Scott.

Any one knowing Cuyler could easily realize that a little unpleasantness such as the above would be a severe tax on his nature, which tends toward friendship. He is easily upset by little things. A few years ago he bumped his hand against the grandstand in a spring exhibition game at Kansas City. He was almost half the season forgetting the mishap and his work suffered. This season when he returned after a six weeks layoff as the result of a fractured bone in his foot he was timid about making his first start. He's still worried about it. That's why he's many points away from his normal hitting gait.

Keeping Mob Off Field Is a Break for Ki

When the seating capacity of Wrigley field began to be taxed yesterday groundkeepers inquired of President Veeck if he wanted the ropes put up for the overflow on the field. "No customers on the field today," said Mr. Veeck. And that settled that.

Had the overflow been on the field, much of the glamour would have been taken from Kiki Cuyler's performance, though he would have won the game. His triple would have been reduced to a double and English would have had to stop at third under the rules.

The Pirates continue the only team in the league which has beaten the Cubs in the season series. They have won 11 to 9 for the Cubs. And now they are welcome to the record.

Charley Grimm did some of his famed clowning for the photographers after the victory, the first relaxation of the kind he's enjoyed since becoming manager. Charley may bring his banjo out to the clubhouse today, though he hasn't toted it around with the team since Joe McCarthy was manager.

After the game Grimm formally announced that Bush would pitch the world series opener. The announcement heretofore has been one of those, "just between you and me" secrets that everybody knew.

Both Sheffield and Waveland avenues were completely blocked off from vehicular traffic, but the cops had little difficulty diverting the flow of automobiles.

Stephenson enjoyed all the gifts the fans gave him, but seemed at a loss to know what to do with the huge basket of flowers which dressed up the presentation.

The fans showed amazing fortitude in the way they took the rain to witness the perfectly useless second game. They must have thought that maybe Charley Grimm would rush across the field with the pennant and climb the flagpole with it.

Manager Grimm offered to shake hands with Manager Gibson before the game. But George, though Charley's friend, would have none of it.

They say that the Pirates and the Cubs are going to play at Wrigley field today and tomorrow.

GRIMM'S SUCCESS SETS RECORD FOR MODERN PILOTS

When the Cubs clinched the National league pennant yesterday, Charlie Grimm became the first manager in modern baseball to take charge of a major league team in August and lead it to the flag.

The Cubs were trailing Pittsburgh in second place on Aug. 2 when Manager Rogers Hornsby was dismissed and Grimm named his successor. The Cubs took the lead on Aug. 11 and held it to the finish.

Unless they win their five remaining games, contests that won't mean anything as far as the pennant is concerned, the Cubs may have the lowest winning percentage of any National league champion. The lowest to date was .578 by St. Louis in 1926, the year the Cardinals defeated the Yankees in four games to three in the world series. Chicago also holds all winning percentage records, the highest being established in 1880 at .798.

Bookie Offers $7,000 to $5,000 on Yankees to Win

After the announcement that the Cubs had beaten Pittsburgh and clinched the National league pennant, Frankie Moore of Cincinnati offered to bet $7,000 against $5,000 at Lincoln Fields yesterday that the Yankees would beat the Cubs in the world series. He also offered to wager any part of the $7,000 at the same odds.

Moore is the bookmaker who brought suit against Rogers Hornsby a few years ago in an effort to collect alleged unpaid race bet debts. It was the first big world series wager offered in Chicago.

Ticket Sales Boom as Cubs Clinch Crown

Clinching of the National league pennant by the Cubs yesterday had an instantaneous effect on the ticket demand for the world series games in Chicago.

Though announcement of the ticket sale was not made until the Cubs virtually were certain of winning the pennant, many skeptics apparently held out until they were absolutely certain their money would not be tied up to no avail. Many stopped at the Cub offices after the first game yesterday and placed their orders for tickets for the three games to be played at Wrigley field Oct. 1, 2 and 3, in the event the series goes to five games or more. A big rush is expected today.

The allotments are being prepared for mailing by registered mail and the tickets will be dispatched Monday morning. Several days later checks will be returned to applicants whose orders were placed too late to be filled.

IT'S SEVENTH FLAG FOR CUBS; CHICAGO'S 11TH

The Cubs' clinching of the pennant yesterday marked the seventh time since 1901, the beginning of the modern baseball era, that they have won the National league championship, and the eleventh time a league title has come to Chicago. The White Sox were American league champions four times. Each has won two world series. The years in which league titles were won and the results of the world series follow:

CUBS.
1906—Lost to White Sox, 4 games to 2.
1907—Defeated Detroit, 4 games to none after a 13 inning tie in the opener.
1908—Defeated Detroit, 4 games to 1.
1910—Lost to Philadelphia, 4 games to 1.
1918—Lost to Boston, 4 games to 2.
1929—Lost to Philadelphia, 4 games to 1.

SOX.
1901—No world series.
1906—Defeated Cubs, 4 games to 2.
1917—Defeated New York, 4 games to 2.

MAYOR AND CITY COUNCIL TO GREET VICTORIOUS CUBS

The cheers of the 38,000 who hailed the Cubs' pennant victory yesterday will not be the only testimonial to their prowess in taking the National league flag. They will be accorded additional recognition of a civic nature tomorrow morning, when Mayor Cermak and the city council will praise them officially.

The entire Cub squad will assemble at Wrigley field at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning for an automobile parade which will wend therefrom to the city hall. Manager Charley Grimm will head the line of march, which will carry the Bruins down Sheridan road to Lake Shore drive, to Michigan boulevard, to Washington street and thence to the city hall. A number of motorist fans already have signified their intention of trailing along.

POLICE CALLED AS 15,000 CUB FANS FIGHT FOR SEATS

Eight police squads and 12 extra policemen were rushed to the entrances of Wrigley field yesterday to handle the overflow crowd which attempted to gain entrance after every seat had been filled.

Policemen estimated the number who tried to get even standing room, at 15,000. The pass gate on the Clark street side near Addison street was the especial target of a crowd of several hundred who stormed the gate. Order was restored after the arrival of the police reinforcements.

FIRST YANKEE FAN TAKES HIS PLACE IN LINE

New York, Sept. 20.—[Special.]—No one is going to beat William Cunningham, former Kansas City railroad fireman, to first place in line for bleacher seats for the coming world series opener at Yankee stadium. Cunningham began his wait last night and this afternoon he was still at the gate, waiting for the first game which will be played on Sept. 28.

TRAGEDY BRINGS SEWELL INTO MAJOR LEAGUES

But His Own Merit Keeps Him There.

[This is the seventh of a series of sketches of New York Yankee players who will oppose the Cubs in the world series.]

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Sept. 20.—Would you mind turning over to the little gripping dramas of the want ads while I commit a bit of a piece about Joey Sewell, the Yankees' third baseman for the world series? I am sure this biography, his coming up from college to the world series of 1920, his long continuous service record, his gentlemanly disposition and all are as well known to the customers as the words of "Sweet Adeline," but it is an old custom of ours on the sport side of the papers to get breathless over the old familiar facts of the players' careers just before world series time. Habit is a cable, and so forth.

Well, so, there was a tough little shortstop named Ray Chapman working for the Cleveland Indians in the summer of 1920 when they were winning a pennant under Tris Speaker. He came from the small arms country down around Herrin, Ill., and the notion of backing away from danger was repugnant to him.

Death of Ray Chapman Brings Sewell Out of Minor Leagues.

After he was hit in the head and killed in a game between the Yankees and the Indians at the Polo grounds, which was then the home of the Yankees, Carl Mays, the pitcher who hit him, was very sorry it happened and took his oath that he didn't go for to do it on purpose.

But the Indians found themselves with no shortstop and a world series coming on. So they bought Sewell from the New Orleans club, where he was playing his first season of pay ball after a college career at the University of Alabama.

There is a major league rule which doesn't let a ball player take part in a world series who joined his club after the first of September, but in this case the Brooklyn club felt that the Clevelands had had enough hard luck and waived the point, permitting Sewell to play.

Sewell was eager, agile and appealing, and many handsome pieces were written about him out in the wind and weather, but the fact is that the boy either had a bad case of the jumps or just wasn't a major leaguer yet. He hit just a little over his weight, kicked half a dozen chances in the field and, altogether, got by more on sympathy than performance.

But he was only 21 and, being baseball minded, naturally regarded the world series as an awesome thing, so the pressure was not quite fair to him.

The next season, however, he became a major leaguer, and the statisticians began to notice how seldom he struck out. He fell under .300 only twice in ten years with the Indians, one of those times with an average of .299, and it was almost impossible to make him reach for a bad ball. So, when his service with the Indians ended after the 1930 season his record showed an average of only nine strikeouts a year, including two years in which he struck out only four times.

Indians Make Him a Present of Himself as Reward for Virtue.

Along in there, too, he began to notice that he hadn't missed a ball game with the Indians for a long, long spell and began to think of going after Everett Scott's record of 1,307 successive games without an absence from duty. But the flu put him down at last in the spring of 1930 and his streak ended at 1,102 games.

Then, this year, Lou Gehrig came along to pass him even in this respect, Lou having played 1,188 consecutive games, or some such figure, with the Yankees.

The Indians decided to let Sewell go after the 1930 season and, as a reward for having been so gentlemanly and all, they made him a present of himself under the ten year rule. That means they gave him his unconditional release. Still being a valuable property, Joey received half a dozen offers of employment from other clubs within 24 hours, and a few days later sold himself to the Yankees for a cash price, plus wages.

FORWARD PASSES BALANCE TEAM'S ATTACKINGPOWER

Lateral Plays Are Not Yet Fully Developed.

[This is the twelfth of a series of articles on football. Address all questions to the football editor, sports department, Chicago Tribune.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The forward pass is the complement of the running play in all gridiron attacks. The pass, in the 26 years it has been in use, has been developed until, in some instances, a team which is outclassed in line play will defeat its opponent by its air play.

The lateral pass has not been developed to its greatest extent. The regulations governing the lateral pass have been changed in recent seasons to encourage its use. The lateral pass ordinarily is used to get a player free before he reaches the line of scrimmage, while the forward pass, by itself, may gain long distances.

Only One Pass.

The principal restrictions on the use of the forward pass are:

1. Only ONE forward pass may be made during each scrimmage by the team in possession of the ball. The team which did not put the ball into play cannot make a forward pass. If it does the penalty is loss of 15 yards from the spot of the foul. This play is seldom seen. The only possibility is an attempted lateral pass which unintentionally is thrown slightly forward.

This occurred during the Northwestern-Purdue football game at Soldiers' field last fall. Fred Hecker of Purdue, attempted a lateral pass [Northwestern had put the ball into play by a forward pass which Hecker had intercepted] which was a forward pass by several feet. The ball was called back and Purdue was penalized 15 yards.

Five Yards Back.

The legal forward pass may be thrown at any angle toward the opponents' goal line.

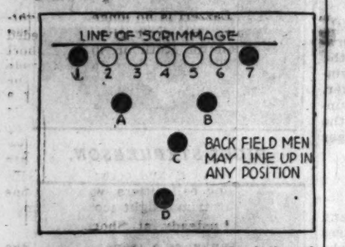
2. The forward passer must be at least FIVE yards behind the line of scrimmage when he throws the ball. He does not have to be five yards back when he gets the ball from the center or a team mate.

3. Who may catch a forward pass? Any of the 11 opponents on the defense may catch [intercept] a forward pass.

The two end men on the scrimmage line of the team putting the ball into play, and the other players who are at least one yard back of the scrimmage line when the bal lis put into play, are eligible to catch a forward pass.

Five Are Eligible.

A diagram of the team in possession of the ball showing which players are eligible to receive a forward pass, follows:



Seven players [at least] of the offensive team must be on the line of scrimmage when the ball is put in play. The end men [Nos. 1 and 7] are eligible on this play to receive a pass, no matter what position they customarily play in the line. The other players [all at least one yard back of the line] are eligible. Obviously one of these men [A, B, C, or D] must throw the pass unless you figure out a freak play. So we arrive at a number of five players who are eligible.

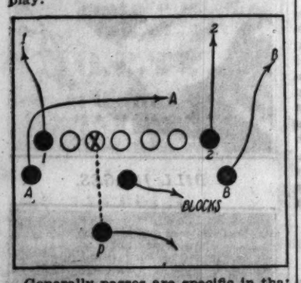
At least one of these back field men [A, B, C, D] at the discretion of the coach, will guard the passer to prevent the defense from tackling him before the receivers get into open territory.

Generally THREE players, but never more than FOUR, are used in a forward pass play.

Deception Paramount.

Other restrictions on catching a forward pass by these men will be discussed tomorrow. Consider now one of the favorite principles of getting a receiver into open territory.

Change of direction is common. A sudden change of direction and pace is effective in getting ahead of the defensive player assigned to cover the receiver. From the double wing attack lineup the following is a standard play:



Generally passes are specific in that they must be thrown to the designated receiver, or they are optional in that they may be thrown to any receiver who is open. In this play the ends, No. 1 and No. 2, are sent out with the purpose of decoying the defending backs out of territory into which player A will be sent. The back B also goes wide for the same reason.

Homer Beats Chattanooga in Dixie Series Opener, 1-0

BEAUMONT, Tex., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Beaumont of the Texas league won the first game of the Dixie series today, beating Chattanooga of the Southern association, 1 to 0. The lone run was Henry Greenberg's home run in the seventh inning.

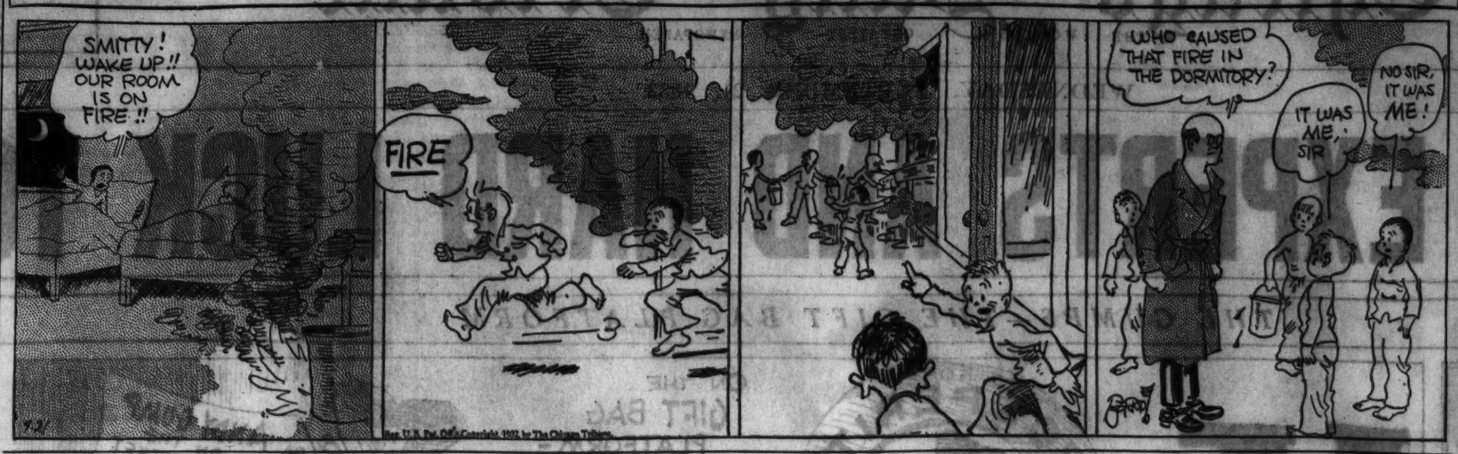
SMITTY—"UNITED WE STAND——"



Gophers Shift My Ubl to Second Team

Minneapolis, Minn., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Coach Bernie Bierman today took his first steps to add speed to the Minnesota backfield. My Ubl, a veteran, was sent to the second squad, being replaced by Erwin Burg of Milwaukee. The latter was tried at quarter in scrimmage, while Capt. Hass was moved to right half and Lund switched over to left.

PURDUE SEEKS RESERVES.

Lafayette, Ind., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Purdue's coaching staff started scanning the Boilermaker squad this afternoon for reserve material.

As he sent the candidates through a lengthy dummy scrimmage Coach Noble Kizer kept shifting men from one position to another in an effort to find additional material.

PURPLE PLAYS FROSH.

Northwestern's football team will make its first public appearance of the season Saturday afternoon at Dyche stadium in a game against the freshmen. The contest will be played to raise funds to send the university band to the Michigan and Illinois games. An admission fee of 25 cents will be charged.

NO REST AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The University of Michigan regulars and most of the reserves were sent through another scrimmage on South Ferry field this afternoon.

John Regeczi, full back, and Cecil Cantrill, guard, went on the list of minor casuals today.

ILLINI CONTINUE SEARCH.

Champaign, Ill., Sept. 20.—[Special]—Coach Bob Zuppke of Illinois continued his search for centers, tackles and quarter backs today. Jack Beynon and Frank Froschauer are calling signals with Walster, last year's quarter, at full back and Bob Horsley, another quarter in 1931, at end. Dave Cook, last year's sophomore back, is showing considerable improvement over his first season.

BADGERS FUMBLE.

Madison, Wis., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The Badgers' scrimmage today was marked by fumbles by back field men on both first and second teams. Coach Clarence W. Spears sent several to the side lines for failing to play as expected.

HOOSIERS DRILL INSIDE.

Bloomington, Ind., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The Indiana backs drilled indoors today as rain soaked the practice fields.

At full back, Edmonds and Jones looked good, while Burton, a sophomore, shows possibilities.

MAROONS IGNORE RAIN.

Just how much better Chicago's Maroons are this year than last year is something nobody can say. Coach Stagg is apparently in earnest about Monmouth, champions of the Little Nineteen, which opens the college season at the Midway this Saturday. Despite a drizzle, Stagg yesterday sent the squad through the heaviest workout thus far, including two hours of scrimmage.

IRISH OPEN SCRIMMAGE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—The Notre Dame shock troops scrimmaged today against a team of reserves, the first scrimmage of the season in the Irish camp.

Emmett Murphy, Nick Lukats, Steve Banas, and John [Red] Tobin were in the back field that plowed up and down Cartier field in the mud and a steady drizzle. Joe Sheeketski alternated with Tobin at right half back.

Stuhley Faces McCauley in Outdoor Final

The final outdoor boxing show in Chicago this summer will be presented by Grant Kromenaker tonight at Northwest stadium, 4848 Irving Park boulevard, with Young Stuhley of Kewanee, Ill., and Dick McCauley, formerly of Houston, Tex., in the ten round windup.

Stuhley will defend his claim to the state middleweight championship, which he won when he defeated Ray Trambile recently, against McCauley. The Kewanee boxer has won all but two of his 60 professional bouts, 18 of the victories being scored in Chicago. He lost to Dick Evans at Los Angeles and was beaten by Kid Leonard at Davenport, Ia.

McCauley made his local debut when he beat Patsy Pollock Aug. 26. He has had 32 matches and has won them all. Dick now resides on the north side.

Johnny Baima, Lawndale middleweight, and Freddy Langford meet in the six round semi-final. Both whipped Bill Hall in their latest encounters. Another six round bout and two at four rounds round out the card.

DE PAUL HOLDS NIGHT PRACTICE FOR ST. VIATOR

De Paul university football squad held night practice last night at Loyola stadium in preparation for the St. Viator game Friday evening. The night drill was ordered by coaches to accustom players' eyes to lighting conditions.

Three men will be out of the opening contest with injuries. Dick Finn, end, has suffered a broken hand; Vin Flood, quarter back, has a bruised shoulder, and John Pionke, tackle, reports a sprained back muscle.

Irish to Play Northwestern in 1934, 1935

Northwestern and Notre Dame athletic authorities yesterday reached an agreement to extend the football series of the two schools through 1934 and 1935, the 1934 game to be played at Evanston and the 1935 game to be played at Notre Dame. Announcement of the agreement was made yesterday by K. L. Wilson, Northwestern athletic director.

The present series between the two schools ends next year with the game at Evanston. Originally the 1933 game was to be played at Notre Dame but due to the fact that the Century of Progress officials asked to have the game played at Evanston the change was made by the athletic authorities of both schools.

The additional two years of annual competition between Northwestern and Notre Dame will run the present series into a total of seven years. The series started in 1929. Previous to this series the teams played in 1924, 1925, and 1926.

HOWLEY SIGNS WITH TORONTO, RED FANS READ

Cincinnati, O., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Enquirer says Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, has accepted an offer to pilot the Toronto club of the International league.

Sidney Weil, president of the Reds club, denied tonight that Howley's departure had been definitely decided upon, but said he would have something to say tomorrow.

The Enquirer quotes Weil as saying he intends to take his time selecting a successor to Howley, but will have one chosen by December. Rumors have named Donie Bush, of the Minneapolis American association club, as Howley's successor, the paper says.

Howley came here three years ago from the St. Louis Browns. He signed a three year contract at $20,000 a year, which expires with the closing of the season next Sunday.

Walking—Mile in 6:35.8, G. N. Goulding.

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—When Gar Wood, at an early hour today, drove his motorboat Miss America X. over the waters of Lake St. Clair at Algonac at the official speed of 124.91 miles an hour, he brought back to the United States from Great Britain the world speed record.

The performance was made in two dashes, one up river and the other down river over a nautical mile straightaway, and added 5.16 miles an hour to the former record of 119.75 miles an hour established early last July by Kaye Don in Miss England III.

Miss America broke the record with her 6,400 horsepower motors under restraint. She was not opened up wide and the record was made in a drizzling rain.

On her first run north against the current her time was 33.32 seconds. The time she had to beat was 34.43 seconds, the rules requiring that she exceed Miss England's time at least by a half nautical mile an hour.

Miss America's first mile was done in 124.41 statute miles an hour. The trap on the electrical clock snapped as she flashed by on the return run. Again her time was called out.

"Time, 33:05 seconds," was the shout. This, translated into statute miles an hour, was 125.43, her fastest run, but almost a mile slower than she was clocked Monday when she made a practice run of 126.09.

THEY'RE MILDER
THEY TASTE BETTER

YOU would be astonished too, if you could see this machine that turns out 750 Chesterfields a minute . . . and every one as near perfect as cigarettes can be made.

But please bear this in mind. It is what happens before the tobacco goes into this machine that matters most. Rolling and packaging are important, but not nearly as important as the selection, blending and treatment of the tobacco.

That's why we keep telling you about the tobaccos used in Chesterfields. They're fine, mild, and pure tobaccos. We tell you about ageing and curing the tobaccos . . . about blending and cross-blending them . . . because they are things that count.

Chesterfields are milder. They taste better. Prove it for yourself . . . Just try a package.

Cuyler's Triple Drives In Deciding Runs; Lose Second, 5 to 0.

liam Veeck and Hornsby had a quarrel. That night Mr. Veeck went on record as the only man in America who firmly believed the Cubs would win the pennant.

Between July 23 and Aug. 2 the Pirates went on a winning rampage so that when the Cubs lost in Brooklyn on Aug. 2 they were six games behind the Pirates. That night the Cub president fired Hornsby, installed Grimm as manager and again announced that the Cubs, though six games in arrears, would do just what they did yesterday, clinch the pennant.

Team Goes to Work.

Grimm didn't even change the lineup or have the uniforms cleaned. But the Cubs went right to work and the Pirates, startled no end, went into a tail spin.

On Aug. 11 the Cubs went to Pittsburgh for a single game. They were a half game out of first place. They beat the Pirates and went into first place by a half game, never to be dislodged.

In their Wrigley field stand the last half of August the Cubs won 18 out of 20 games and in one frenzied spectacle after another. Not more than two or three games in the whole series remotely resembled a placid contest.

Then the final rounding out the season, with the Pirates hanging on tenaciously until the trimming they took yesterday.

Get 2 to 0 Lead.

But getting back to the details of that glorious clincher:

The Cubs got off to a 2 to 0 lead in the first three innings. Billy Herman singled, stole second, and scored on a single by Riggs Stephenson, who was feeling pretty happy because it was "Stephenson day" along with everything else.

In the third inning the heroic Mr. Cuyler made his first bid for the spotlight when he doubled and later scored on a passed ball through Earl Grace.

Two runs seemed a great many before the Pirates got under way in the fourth. In that session the second placers got very busy and very rough at the same time, to the point where fisticuffs threatened for a time. But the session ended with the score 2 all.

The fifth, sixth, and the first half of the seven innings saw a lot of nice defensive play and no scoring.

But the Cub seventh. Was that somethin'? Jurges, who was pretty sore about being robbed of a triple in the second inning, started the great riot by lining a single into left. Bush bunted without trying to deceive any one and Suhr was right on the play. Gus picked up the ball and had plenty of time to force Jurges at second, but Gus' aim was bad. He made a wide throw to second and Jurges and Bush were safe.

Cuyler Cleans Bases.

Herman also bunted, his effort going toward third. The runners advanced as Traynor threw him out. Woody English, who had been having a pretty miserable time, what with two strikeouts and a fly to Comorosky, was next up. He was given an intentional pass, filling the bases.

Swetonic remembered Cuyler's double in the third. He pitched cautiously, but the count mounted to three wide ones and two good ones. Swetonic had no choice. He had to get the next one over or force in the run that would have put the Cubs in front, 3 to 2.

Ki knew what to expect. He walloped the next pitch. The ball went on a line well into left field, then shot to the foul line corner. Comorosky, in desperate pursuit, was not able to get the ball before Jurges, Bush, and English had run across the plate. Stephenson and Moore couldn't get Ki home, but no one worried about that. Everybody knew right then the old bunting was in the locker.

Regulars Out of Second.

One look at the box score will tell you all you need to know about the second game. Manager Grimm was so happy that he went much further than his previously announced rest program. He made all the replacements he had promised. Then he relieved Herman in the second inning with Bob Smith after Herman had preserved his record of being in every game since joining the Cubs. And Johnny Moore, also slated for continuous service, was relieved by Rollie Hemsley.

The first half of the first inning was a rather nervous session, though none of the three Pirates who got on base reached third. L. Waner walked on five pitches, but P. Waner, instead of sending his brother to third as per his famous custom, tapped to Herman, who tagged Lloyd and got the ball to Grimm in time for a double play. Comorosky doubled to the corner of the stand in left center and Traynor walked on four pitches. Suhr sent an easy grounder to Herman for the third out.

Herman led off the Cubs' half of the inning with his 200th hit of the season, a single to left, and forthwith stole second. English ran the count to three balls and two strikes, fouled three, and then fanned. Cuyler flied to P. Waner, but Stephenson singled to left, scoring Herman. Moore flied to Cuyler.

Pick Piet Off Second.

Piet led off the Pirates' second with a line single to left center. Vaughan grounded to Herman, who, in his eagerness to launch a double play, juggled the ball, but recovered in time to get Vaughan at first. Piet got too brave in his lead off second and Bush nipped him off the bag with a throw to Jurges. Herman threw out Grace.

The Cubs' second inning witnessed one of the best catches of the season. Hartnett singled to right with one down and then Jurges smashed what appeared to be a certain triple to left. Comorosky, however, went against the wall after a hard run and pulled down the drive with one hand. Bush singled to right and Hartnett stopped at second. Herman forced Hartnett at third, Traynor unassisted.

With one out in the third L. Waner bounced a single over Bush's head, but P. Waner lined to Stephenson and Herman threw out Comorosky.

The score became 2 to 0 in favor of the Cubs in the latter half of the third. After English had fanned for the second time Cuyler doubled to left center and went to third while Stephenson was grounding out to Suhr. Grace let one of Swetonic's pitches get between his shin guards for a passed ball, Cuyler scoring. Moore popped to Suhr for the third out.

Then came the interesting fourth inning. It started calmly enough, with Herman throwing out Traynor for the first out. Suhr lined a single to right and Piet walked. Vaughan followed with a high fly which fell for a single among Cuyler, Herman and Grimm in short right. Suhr broke for the plate and it appeared to many that Herman's throw beat Gus to the plate, a view that was not shared by Umpire Klem, who ruled that the Pirates had scored their first run. Piet stopped at second on the play.

Hartnett Gets Revenge.

Grace dropped a single in short right center. Piet legged it for home and flattened Hartnett as he came into the plate to tie the score. Vaughan reached third and Grace second while all this was going on. Swetonic slammed at grounder at Jurges, whose throw to Hartnett gave Gabby not only a chance to tag Vaughan, but an opportunity to knock him down as well. This brought exchanges of challenges among Hartnett, Vaughan and Bush until Umpire Klem advised them it was no way for gentlemen to talk. When play was resumed, L. Waner obligingly flied to Cuyler.

Manager Grimm led off the Cubs' half of the fourth with a double to right. Hartnett fanned. Jurges grounded to Traynor, who fumbled, Grimm reaching third and Jurges first. Bush then hit into a double play, Suhr to Vaughan to Suhr.

Stephenson Robbed of Hit.

The Cubs might have resumed the lead in the fifth but for a handsome bit of work by Suhr. Cuyler walked with two down. Stephenson then shot a grounder just inside the right foul line which was labeled for a double until Suhr dived and speared the ball over the bag. He fell on first base with the ball to retire the side.

The Pirates went out in order in their half of the seventh to set the stage for Cuyler's big act. Jurges started the Cubs' half with a single to left. Bush bunted to Suhr, whose throw to second was wide. The runners moved up on Herman's sacrifice, and English was walked intentionally to establish a force status at all stations. Up came Cuyler. Ki ran the count to three balls and two strikes Swetonic had to put the next one over, and when he did Ki smacked that triple to left, scoring Jurges, Bush, and English. Swetonic threw out Stephenson and Moore popped to Vaughan.

The Pirates went out in order in the ninth. Vaughan was easy for Herman, and Grimm, but Stephenson had to make a great running catch in left center to retire Grace and Herman had to turn in a sparkling play on Pinch Batter Dugas for the final act of the pennant clinching business.

"GREAT," GRIMM'S FIRST GREETING TO CHAMPIONS

It was a happy crowd of Cubs that frolicked about the clubhouse at Wrigley field yesterday with the pennant and a world series chance against the New York Yankees tucked away. Billy Herman won the race to the clubhouse, but nothing much was said until Manager Grimm poked his head through the door. He was pounced on immediately by his happy mates.

"Great, great, great, boys," he choked, with tears in his eyes. That's all he could say.

President William Veeck joined the crowd, shook hands with each player, and then turned to Grimm: "Thanks, manager. But we knew we could do it."

Not a word was mentioned about the world series or the Yankees. Grimm dismissed most of his tired regulars for the second game of the double header and there was a big rush toward the ice cream stand.

"I'm glad that job's over," Grimm reflected as he took his shower. "We've played pretty hard and can stand some rest."

Cubs' Stock Jumps 85 Points When They Win Pennant

Although the stock market rose yesterday there was nothing in the day's trading to compare with the sensational rise of stock in the Chicago National League Ball club. Cubs' stock showed a net gain for the day of 85 points, opening at 265 bid and closing at 350. And there were no shares available at that figure. Five shares were to be had at 400.

Four weeks ago shares of stock in the Cubs were quoted at from 200 to 210. Before yesterday's game the bid was 265 and when the Cubs scored their first run in the first inning the bid leaped to 300. In the seventh when Kiki Cuyler hit a triple with the bases filled, the offer went to 350 and stayed there.

Low for the stock this year was 125 early in the season, when the experts gave the club little chance of finishing above third place. In 1929, the year the Cubs won their last pennant, high was 550. Sixty per cent of the stock in the club is owned by the Wrigley family. Only about 10 per cent is on the market.

CUBS REJOICE IN CLUBHOUSE AFTER CLINCHING PENNANT

The Pirates were just defeated, 5 to 2, and the National league championship of 1932 had been settled. Now you see the jubilant Cubs gathered in the clubhouse, happy over their achievement and exchanging pleasantries. Kiki Cuyler, who drove in the three deciding runs with a triple, and Guy Bush, whose pitching held Pittsburgh in check, were two of the noisiest celebrants, but they had to work hard to surpass their teammates, especially Gabby Hartnett. Pictured above are: (1) Bob Smith, (2) Jakie May, (3) Johnny Moore, (4) Rollie Hemsley, (5) William Veeck, president; (6) Gabby Hartnett, (7) Guy Bush, (8) Billy Herman, (9) Charley Grimm, (10) Charley O'Leary, (11) Red Corriden, (12) Kiki Cuyler, (13) Riggs Stephenson, (14) Stanley Hack, (15) Leroy Herrmann, (16) Andy Lotshaw, (17) Marvin Gudat, (18), Woody English. Cubs' Triumph Defies Experts and Bad Luck made all the more surprising by the fact that they won despite distractions that not even the sourest prophets had considered in the preparation of their appraisals.

Never before was a team beset with more irritating experiences apart from the playing of baseball. Some of these led to the dismissal, on Aug. 2, of its manager, Rogers Hornsby. Another incident involved the shooting of one of its players. A third was an attack by a Chicago afternoon paper in the form of a "Mammoth gambling exposé" at the most critical time in the case. For weeks and weeks the life of a Cub was just one thing after another, ranging from blackmail to $2,000 touches.

The early Cub optimists, of whom President Veeck is the only one positively identified, based all of their hopes on the power of the pitching staff [as augmented by Burleigh Grimes, who has won 6 and lost 10] and, as in the case of Mr. Veeck, on the "balance" of the club.

Others said the Cubs were punchless. No powerful hitters. Their pitching was only so-so. Root and Malone might have a good year. Bush would not be able to carry the burden alone. Warneke? O, yes, the rookie who pitched a few games last year. Grimes, obtained in a trade for Hack Wilson last winter, would help some.

Thus the Cubs started the season; considered good, but not rated a threat.

Rogers Hornsby, whom the late William Wrigley Jr. had designated as "the smartest manager and the greatest player I ever have seen," guided the Cubs to the lead early in the season.

Hornsby Is Dismissed.

Pittsburgh then put on a spurt and by July 3 had taken the lead. The Cubs drifted about until they finished a home stay on July 20 in second place, two games behind the Pirates. They managed to hold this position, but the gap widened to four and one-half games when the Pirates won two games at Pittsburgh and split a double header with the Cubs here on July 24.

On the night of Aug. 2 in Philadelphia William Veeck, president of the club, announced the dismissal of Hornsby. The one time batting champion of the National league had not been handling the team to the satisfaction of the front office, Veeck said. Veeck thought the Cubs were of pennant winning class and should have been in the lead.

Charley Grimm, a veteran of 16 years of big league play, was named to succeed Hornsby. The team immediately started winning on the road, where it was supposed to be notoriously weak. In eight days Grimm and the Cubs had cut down the Pirates' four and one-half game lead to half a game. Trailing by this margin, the Cubs were scheduled against the Pirates in a single game on Aug. 11.

When the team arrived in Pittsburgh for this game, on which the league leadership hinged, they were met by Commissioner K. M. Landis, who had come into town heralded by Chicago afternoon newspaper reports as being there to investigate horse race betting among the Cubs.

Cubs Were Not Betting.

The Cubs, as proved later, were entirely innocent of all gambling charges and were ignorant of the commissioner's mission. As they started for the park the storm of suspicion and gossip broke around them. Guy Bush, in particular, was to be questioned.

Charley Grimm gets his reward. Immediately after the Cubs had beaten the Pirates, Manager Charley rushed off to embrace Mrs. Grimm. She'll probably get her reward when those world series checks are passed out.

Guy, it was said, owed $38,000 in gambling debts and, with Hornsby, had been seen with "blondes" who were said to have been agents for a north side bookmaker.

In the heat of the pennant fight the Cubs played the Pirates to a standstill until Warneke, the team's ace pitcher, came into difficulties in the late innings. In a dramatic display of confidence in his club, and the accused players in particular, Grimm passed over every other pitcher on his team and called for Bush to save the game for Warneke. Bush delivered and the Cubs went into first place by half a game, just nine days after Grimm had taken command. They never again were headed and succeeded in building up their advantage steadily, until yesterday's first game against the Pirates found them clinching the title with a seven game lead.

Landis asked no questions, made no statements and otherwise intensified the expose matter by maintaining a strict and secretive silence. Back in first place, the Cubs moved on to St. Louis like champions. Landis again turned up unexpectedly, held an all morning investigation at his hotel, then hurried away leaving only a voluminous transcript of testimony taken from Hornsby, Woody English, Bush, Coach Charlie O'Leary and Pat Malone.

Landis Refuses Exoneration.

Other than revealing that the Cubs had not gambled, the quiz brought forth nothing except the revelation that Hornsby had borrowed approximately $11,000 from members of the team, nearly half of which was still outstanding. The players testified that arrangements had been made with Veeck to pay them out of the salary Hornsby had coming on his unfinished player contract.

The success of this one time "hopeless" team, Manager Grimm said yesterday, is due to its will to win, its sincerity and the sterling character of all its members. Technically, however, the success may be attributed more to the sensational performance of Lon Warneke, a raw rookie only a year ago, who came on to win 22 games in his first year as a regular, and the remarkable work of the entire pitching staff.

Aside from the pitching, the excellent work of Johnny Moore in the outfield, and the fielding of Jurges in the early part of the year, until he was shot by an admirer in an affair of the heart, were the principal reasons for the team's early showing. Later Mark Koenig, an American league cast off, supplied the team with the punch it needed. Koenig's fielding and hitting have been sensational, especially in the pinches.

Since Grimm assumed command on Aug. 3 the Cubs have won 36 out of 51 games, or seven out of every ten for an average of .706.

RUTH FIGURES ON BUNTING HOMERS AT WRIGLEY FIELD

Assures Cubs He's Ready for World Series.

play out their schedule at Philadelphia.

"Feeling fine," declared the Babe, as he took a couple of dozen practice shots at the right field bleacher, but what he said had nothing to do with the pair of legs which after 18 seasons of big league campaigning are not carrying him around as well as they once did.

No Longer Agile.

The noted Babe, who, in his prime, was a great fielder, although this feature was generally overlooked because attention was concentrated on his hitting, is no longer in that class. This season he has just been staggering around the outfield, getting the fly balls that could be reached without undue exertion and calmly passing up anything that involved diving or low reaching.

The Babe can no longer come in for short flies unless they are high. He has trouble moving over to get anything hit between his left and the right field line. But for some strange reason he still shows a trace of being a young man when it is a matter of going toward right center.

It was his apparent weakness in the field that made some of the boys traveling with the Yanks suspect that Ruth's appendicitis attack was just a myth and that the real reason for his layoff was to give his legs a chance to rest up after the wear and tear they suffered from April to the end of August.

Still Can Pound Ball.

But Mr. Ruth still can hit. He knows it and so does everybody else except the Cubs, who still must run the risk of learning about it. Despite his infirmities the 38 year old campaigner turned loose 40 home runs, drove in 133 tallies, and averaged .348 this season.

The Babe has no intention of letting himself be worried by what he has been told about the Cubs having a great pitching staff. Just bring 'em on is his attitude.

As for hitting homers in Wrigley field, the Babe will do nothing but that if he makes good on his word. He's been in the place only once, but he wasn't impressed by the distance from plate to fence.

"Why, I could bunt homers into that right field bleacher," was the Ruth declaration. The Babe didn't know his own right field, where he plants a number of his specialties, is shorter than the Chicago park.

The ageing of Ruth isn't the only one Yank adherents must think about when they begin to weigh the chances of their pets against such an aggressive, high spirited combination as the Cubs.

Tony Lazzeri is no longer a sprightly fellow. He can't give the needed protection for Ruth on flies to short right. He doesn't roam to either side as he once did. And he is among the worst when put into the middle of a possible double play. Tony still hits 'em, though, and that's another thing for the Cubs to think about. And besides Tony and the Babe there are Dickey, Gehrig, and occasionally Sewell, all long ball hitters, who with one swing can trim a light scoring team.

Unsteady at Shortstop.

The Yanks, as a team, are just like Ruth—they're not what they used to be. Their shortstopping, whether Lary or Crosetti is there, is unsteady. Combs, who never could throw, now has the added difficulty of dashing in for short flies to center. Sewell is an old man discarded by the Indians and picked up by the Yanks for third base work. The Yanks could hardly have succeeded without him. There is nothing wrong with Gehrig at first; nothing wrong with the dashing Chapman in left field, and Dickey can hold his own with any catcher.

Manager Joe McCarthy is being charged with foxy tactics because he refused to declare himself on his opening day pitcher against Guy Bush. McCarthy never was a manager who resorted to such silly, mysterious ways of maneuvering. McCarthy really doesn't know what his choice will be, except that it will be either Charley Ruffing or Vernon Gomez, undoubtedly the former. Ruffing is invariably effective and not inclined to flights. Gomez has compiled a great record, but for the last few weeks has been hammered like a selling plater.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A new jockey star is beginning to shine and cause racegoers at Lincoln Fields to blink their eyes these days.

His name is Monte Parke. He comes from the big potato country of Idaho and he isn't much bigger than some of those Idaho baking spuds.

Parke has been home on only four winners, but he's been a jockey for just a week. He looks like a good sized June bug sitting in a saddle when he parades past the stands on one of those big horses racing at Lincoln Fields.

He gave a fine demonstration of horsemanship when he won the fourth race yesterday on Polygeny, a 2 year old daughter of Polymelian, which races for L. C. Young of Kentucky.

Forces Favorite to Run.

Polygeny was the favorite, but she couldn't win this race with an ordinary boy in the saddle. Parke went to work on her at the head of the stretch, picked a careful path, and drove her up from fourth place into a contending position.

An instant later Polygeny showed signs of not wanting to catch up with the leaders. Parke slapped her again and then started hand riding her. She picked up the leaders, Polyphote and Terry's Lass, in a jiffy and went on out in front. She was drawing away and was a length and a half in front when the finish came.

Comes from Jockey Family.

Parke comes from a jockey family. His oldest brother, Burley Parke, was once a famous football player. His brother, Ivan Parke, was America's leading rider for two seasons. That was a half dozen years ago.

Now Burley trains most of the horses which young Monte rides and the jockey teacher has been Ivan. Monte weighs only 87 pounds.

The daily double paid $212.92.

STATUE OF LEIF TOO FIERCE FOR MODERN VIKINGS

Controversy Breaks Out Over Memorial.

The south park board will meet this afternoon to decide upon a site for the $250,000 monument to Leif Ericson in Grant park. A tract about 200 feet north of the Field Museum of Natural History was granted for this purpose in December of 1930, but the action was rescinded because it conflicted with the museum landscaping plan.

Yesterday a controversy broke over the clay model of Ericson's head in the studio of Oskar J. W. Hansen, the sculptor, at 10 West Elm street. Representatives of Norwegian groups charged that the helmeted head of the Viking explorer, acclaimed as the discoverer of America in the 10th century, looks like that of a ferocious monster.

Sculptor Defends His Art.

Hansen defended his art by saying that pictured reproductions of the statue do not do it justice. "Pictures make the statue look like a man-eater," he said. "That is because the bits of mica in the clay cause hundreds of mirrored reflections in a photograph and bring weird effects. When you look at a statue of heroic size from a few feet away the effect is naturally grotesque."

There is no likeness extant of Ericson, according to Hansen, but bodies of ancient Vikings, wearing helmets and armor, have been dug up and are in the Danish royal museum. Details of their habiliment have been faithfully followed in his statue, the sculptor said.

Hansen produced a letter from the state art advisory board to the south park commissioners, signed by Lorado Taft, noted sculptor; John W. Norton, painter; Edwin Clark and Charles Morgan, architects, and Herrick Hammond, state architect. The group was "impressed with the originality of the scheme and the dramatic power of the composition," the letter said.

A Gigantic Statue.

The head of the statue is 6 feet in height from the crown of the helmet to the base of the neck. The statue will be cast in bronze and will stand between two granite obelisks each 100 feet tall. The Norwegian National league started the project in 1927, but other organizations have subsequently joined in obtaining subscriptions in all parts of the country.

Hansen said that he would appear today before President Edward J. Kelly and Commissioners Michael Igoe, Ben S. Lindheimer, and Philip S. Graver of the park board.

JURY CENSURES PARK BOARD IN DEATH OF CHILD

A coroner's jury, considering the death of 9 year old Geraldine Welk, 4463 Woodlawn avenue, who was struck and killed by a South Shore electric train at 47th street on Aug. 26, yesterday criticized the south park board for failure to promote the building of a viaduct under the Illinois Central tracks at that point.

The jury, composed of business men in the Hyde Park district, stated that it found "the actions of the south park board in its efforts to stop the city going forward with the viaduct peculiar," and advised the state's attorney to present the entire matter to the grand jury for complete investigation.

Among those who testified were Michael L. Igoe and Edward J. Kelly of the park board; Corporation Counsel William H. Sexton, City Controller M. S. Szymczak, and Ald. Bert Cronson [4th]. The coroner's jury found the girl's death was due to accident.

EX-DRY AGENT IS INDICTED ON BRIBE CHARGE

Boston, Mass., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Joseph H. Fredericks of Springfield, a former prohibition agent, was indicted today by a federal grand jury which returned 65 indictments against as many persons in western Massachusetts for alleged violation of the liquor laws. The indictment against Fredericks charged that on three occasions he had given gratuities to William R. Simpson, a department of justice agent, to influence his activities and to omit his investigation of liquor cases in Holyoke. It is said that on Aug. 2 Fredericks gave Simpson $200 at Longmeadow, the following day gave him $100 at Hampden and on Sept. 2 gave him $50 at Chicopee.

DR. M'KIM, WHO SUED ALFRED G. VANDERBILT FOR LOVE BALM, DIES

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 20.—[Special.]—Dr. Smith Hollins McKim, 59, prominent Baltimorean, died today of an illness he contracted in Europe several months ago. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Mary Leonora McKim, formerly Mrs. Lucian E. Ladd of New York, two sisters and a brother.

Dr. McKim previously was the husband of Mrs. Margaret Amory, who was Miss Margaret Emerson, the daughter of the late Isaac E. Emerson. They were married in Baltimore, Dec. 30, 1902, separated in 1909 and divorced in Reno the following year.

Later Mrs. Amory married Alfred G. Vanderbilt, and Dr. McKim entered suit against Mr. Vanderbilt and Capt. Isaac E. Emerson for alienation of affections. The proceedings were settled out of court and it was reported Dr. McKim received a large settlement.

FRANK BILLINGS, NOTED PHYSICIAN, IS DEAD AT 78

in Vienna, London, and Paris. He was one of the first Chicago physicians to own a microscope and the first in the midwest who was able to stain and identify the tubercle bacillus.

On his last birthday, April 2, Dr. Billings recalled how in his early days as a physician here the death rate from germ diseases was high and how physicians were skeptical of the new fangled methods of diagnosis.

"In those days Chicago was full of yellow flags, the warning sign of smallpox cases," he said. "The smallpox hospital was too small for all the sick. Four out of ten women in childbirth died of what we called childbed fever."

Bacteria "Foolishness."

In 1889, after he had returned from Europe with the equipment to cultivate bacteria, Dr. Billings attended a convention of the American Medical association and asked that he be allowed to show the doctors how bacteria looked through his microscope. The chairman reluctantly consented, but apologized to the delegates for taking up their time "with such foolishness."

A review of his career shows that he was a demonstrator of anatomy from 1881 to 1886 at Northwestern and professor of medicine there from 1891 to 1898. In the latter year he transferred to Rush Medical college, and in 1900 became dean of the faculty, a post he held for 25 years.

He was a lecturer and professor of medicine at the University of Chicago from 1901 to 1924. He was president of the state board of charities from 1906 to 1912.

Medical Corps Officer.

The interest of Dr. Billings in military affairs was marked. He was an officer of the medical reserve corps from 1908 to 1917. In the latter year he went to Russia as chairman of the American Red Cross mission. Accompanying him were Harold Swift and Dr. Wilbur Post.

On his return he became aid to the governor of Illinois in organizing advisory medical boards for the army draft. Early in 1918 he joined the A. E. F. and later was attached to the office of the surgeon general of the army, leaving the service only in June, 1919. He was awarded the D. S. C., while France gave him the Cross of the Legion of Honor and Belgium the Cross of the Order of Leopold II. He finally achieved the rank of brigadier general in the reserve corps.

Leads Medical Association Twice.

Dr. Billings for many years was physician in chief to the Presbyterian hospital. He was the founder, former president and governor of the Institute of Medicine in Chicago. Twice he was elected president of the American Medical association, the only man ever to be elected more than once.

He was a member of the Chicago, University, Saddle and Cycle, Glen View and City clubs and the Chicago Athletic Association.

Although he had retired officially about five years ago, Dr. Billings was frequently asked by his old patients to prescribe for them and it was said he always granted such requests.

Among the prominent business men of a generation ago whom Dr. Billings treated were Marshall Field, George Pullman and the members of the McCormick family. An interesting story was told of a criticism made of his tardiness by Mr. Pullman, who had summoned him early one morning. When he failed to arrive at the Pullman mansion until 3 p. m. the car magnate spoke sharply about it.

"Patients west of State street are just as important to me as patients east of State street," retorted the doctor.

Profession Marching Ahead.

It was Dr. Billings' belief that the medical profession was marching ahead with great strides. Five years ago he told graduates of the University of Chicago that he expected still greater progress in the future and that a world free of plagues might some day be expected.

Dr. Billings is survived by his brother, his daughter and the two grandsons. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Fourth Presbyterian church. Burial will be private and the family has requested that there be no flowers.

PICKETS INDUCE MINERS TO QUIT JOBS IN LINCOLN

Troops Still Patrol the Taylorville Streets.

Springfield, Ill., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Another Illinois mining community—Lincoln—today saw an invasion of strikers as pickets appeared at the Brewerton mine and dissuaded 100 workers to desert the mine in protest to the $5 wage scale.

Whether the Brewerton miners would continue on a strike was not determined, but Lincoln miners said in view of the fact union men there voted overwhelmingly in favor of the $5 scale, many of the men might return to work.

At Taylorville in Christian county National Guardsmen continued to tramp the streets and to prevent citizens from congregating, but their commanding officer said there were no hints of likely disturbance.

Meeting under a heavy police guard, 200 miners at Peoria, members of the United Mine Workers of America, today formed a new union to replace local No. 5383, the charter of which had been revoked.

The miners announced they will work under the new $5 a day basic wage scale and adopted a resolution asking city and county authorities to provide them with protection to and from the Bell and Zoller mine No. 6.

The Progressive union announced signing of a contract with the Hillsboro Coal company for 300 men to return to work under the $6.10 scale Friday.

FAMILY OF SLAIN SERGEANT FIGHTS PROBATE OF WILL

The parents of Sergt. Frank Cunningham, shot and fatally wounded by a robber on July 15, sought to prevent the admission to probate yesterday of a will leaving his estate to his fiancée, Miss Frances Fisher, 4857 Wolfram street.

Miss Fisher asked Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to Probate Judge Henry Horner to admit the will. She values the estate at only $1,500. The policeman's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Cunningham, 17 North Pine street, however, declared the estate was worth $15,000 and charged that Cunningham was under the influence of opiates given him to deaden pain when he signed the will.

Miss Grace Lanphear, a nurse, 6735 Indiana avenue, testified that Miss Fisher wrote out the will and that Sergt. Cunningham signed it. She said the policeman was not under the influence of sedatives. The hearing was continued to Sept. 24.

Gen. Creel, Who Fought Indians with Custer, Dies

San Diego, Cal., Sept. 20.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Heber M. Creel, 81, who fought with Custer and Sherman in Indian campaigns, is dead at his home here. For 44 years after he retired from the army in 1883, he was federal agriculture inspector and Indian agent in North Dakota, living at Devil's Lake, which he founded. In accordance with his wishes, the body will be cremented and the ashes taken to Devils Lake to be spread over the military reservation there.

Rolf Plaut, 33, Broker, Dies Suddenly in Hotel

Rolf Plaut, 33 years old, investment broker, died suddenly of heart disease in his apartment in the Lake Shore Drive hotel yesterday. Mr. Plaut, who was president of Rolf Plaut & Co., investment bankers at 307 North Michigan avenue, had notified his business associates that he would not go to the office because he was not feeling well.

Question 4 Children in Maywood Delinquency Case

An investigation involving several elementary school children of Maywood was turned over to the juvenile authorities yesterday by village officials. The inquiry revolves about a 15 year old girl and three boys. Police Chief Richard H. Bailey said. He and Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Markham questioned the boys and the girl.

Mrs. McLaughlin Wants Refuge Made Tax Exempt

Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin appeared before the Lake county board of review in Waukegan yesterday and requested that her "Orphans of the Storm" refuge for dogs, west of Deerfield, be exempt from taxation. Hitherto the oraganization has paid about $150 annually. Mrs. McLaughlin explained that the refuge was incorporated not for profit and was supported by donations and that it sheltered about 180 otherwise friendless dogs. The board took the matter under advisement.

REPORT MARIAN NIXON, FILM STAR, QUARRELS WITH CHICAGO MATE

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Examiner said tonight that all was not well in the household of Marian Nixon, film actress, and her husband, Edward Hillman Jr., former Chicagoan and polo player, and that Miss Nixon had left their Beverly Hills home to live in a hotel.

Friends of the couple and Fox Film studio officials said there have been many rumors about the separation the newspaper stated, but that Miss Nixon insisted there was "nothing to it." An effort to question Miss Nixon and Hillman was unsuccessful.

Miss Nixon, former wife of Joe Benjamin, a pugilist, was married to Hillman, son of a Chicago merchant, in August, 1929. Friends said the reported disagreement between them dated from the time the actress returned to work in films after an absence of several years.

TWO MEN KILLED AS AUTOMOBILE HITS ABUTMENT

Two men were killed early this morning when their automobile crashed into an abutment of the Grand Trunk railroad underpass at 49th street and Ashland avenue. One of the men carried cards bearing the name of Charles Ragsdale of 503 North State street. There was nothing to indicate the identity of the second man. The car license was issued to Joseph E. Thomason of 7823 South Wood street, but police were unable to learn if Thomason was one of the victims.

Rita Samp, 6 years old, of 1355 Wolfram street, was fatally injured yesterday afternoon when she walked into the side of a moving automobile truck while on her way home from school. The accident occurred in front of 2197 Southport avenue.

With several playmates, Rita had just left St. Alphonsus parochial school, Southport and Lincoln avenues, and was crossing the street a short distance away when she walked into the truck. Frank Stitchberry, 32 years old, of 3211 Flournoy street, the driver, took her to the Alexian Brothers hospital, but she died en route.

Carl Fassum, 54 years old, 5322 Nelson street, a carpenter, was fatally injured last night when he was struck by an automobile while crossing Barry avenue at Central avenue. He died a short time later at the Belmont hospital, where he was taken by Arthur Black, 657 North Pine street, who happened by at the time of the accident. Paul Urban, 1826 North Talman avenue, driver of the automobile which killed Fassum, was held by the police.

Lee Smith, 9 years old, of 741 Briar place, died yesterday in the John B. Murphy Memorial hospital of injuries which he received on Monday when he was run down in front of his home by an automobile driven by Sven Carlson, 66 years old, of 614 Briar place.

These deaths increased the Cook county motor toll for the year to 825.

Mrs. Elizabeth Semenic, 64 years old, of 2348 Blue Island avenue, died in Mercy hospital, Gary, yesterday. She was struck by an automobile on the Dunes relief highway near Gary on Sept. 6.

Keeps Age a Secret Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde, brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat, "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

M. J. FLANIGAN, 62, DIES; 50 YEARS WITH RAILROAD

Martin J. Flanigan, who rose from water boy to manager of the safety department of the Milwaukee railroad, died in the Washington Boulevard hospital yesterday after a lengthy illness. He was 62 years old, and had been employed by the road for 50 years.

Mr. Flanigan was born at Louisa, Ia. At the age of 13 he started work for the Miwaukee road as a water boy. He studied telegraphy, and at 15 qualified as an operator. In 1895 he was appointed train dispatcher at Marion, Ia., and in 1908 was promoted to chief train dispatcher at Aberdeen, S. D. Other promotions followed at Dubuque, Ia., and Montevideo, Minn., and in 1929 he was named manager of the safety department with headquarters in Chicago.

Surviving Mr. Flanigan are his widow and two sons, all residing at 1531 Lunt avenue. His body will lie in the chapel at 2346 Madison street until tonight when it will taken to Aberdeen, S. D., for the funeral.

MARK CRAWFORD, OLD TIME PRINTER SECRETARY, DEAD

Mark L. Crawford, secretary of the Old Time Printers' association, and one of the directors of the Chicago World's Fair of 1893, died early yesterday at the Ravenswood hospital after an illness of several weeks. He was 83 years old.

Mr. Crawford came to Chicago in 1878. He was employed on the Chicago Times as a compositor, was editor of the Switchmen's Journal, and was elected president of the Chicago Trades and Labor assembly in 1885. Other positions he held were superintendent of the house of correction, bank examiner in the Chicago district, and head of the division of conciliation, department of labor, 1914 to 1918. For the past ten years he had been secretary of the Old Time Printers' association.

The burial will be in Pierceton, Ind., where Mr. Crawford's mother is buried.

Shot as "Unloaded Gun" Falls and Is Discharged

The victim of an "unloaded gun," John G. Albertus, 35 years old, of Marengo, was in a grave condition yesterday in the Harvard hospital at Harvard, in McHenry county. Albertus was shot in the abdomen on Monday when a revolver in the hands of Fred Hall, 34 years old, was accidentally discharged. Hall told Sheriff Lester Edinger he believed that the weapon was unloaded.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—Excellent demand made United States government bonds a feature of strength today. Prices of some issues rose to new highs for the year. The advance included Liberty and Treasury as well as short term certificates and notes.

The buying bulge in this section of the market was attributed to inordinate ease in money, indicated by a further 100 million increase in federal reserve member banks' reserves in the last week. At the same time dealers cited as other factors the use of currency circulation privilege and possible purchase of discount bonds by the British government for debt payments to the United States late this year.

Premiums on Some Issues.

A premium of 25-32 bid, a new high since allotment of the issue, was reached by the new issue of Treasury 3¼ per cent notes, dated Sept. 15. Liberty first 4¼s improved in consequence of the buying movement, as did Liberty fourth 4¼s, which were especially active.

In contrast with the keen interest displayed in the United States government list the domestic corporation list was apathetic. A sprinkling of gains appeared in speculative railroad bonds and the high grade list remained steady. Public utility bonds showed signs of recuperation, with issues of International Telephone rising sharply.

Gains in rail bonds were sharpest in issues such as B. & O. 4½s, issues of Missouri Pacific, Nickel Plate, Southern Pacific, and others.

I. T. & T. Bonds Gain.

Bonds of I. T. & T. rallied up to 6 points, while American and Foreign Power 6s scored a parallel upswing. Among power and light utilities gains included Columbia Gas and Electric 5s, Laclede Gas Light 5½s, and others.

The drift of foreign bond prices generally was upward, with Argentines most prominently strong, owing to the recent optimistic declaration of Finance Minister Hueyo. Other South Americans followed suit, though gains were in most instances restricted to a point or less.

Can't Get a New Loan.

"To the Editor: We own a bungalow on Bennett avenue, bought in 1927 for $11,000. First mortgage, $5,500, is due Nov. 15. Second mortgage, $200, is also due on that date. All taxes and interest paid to date. I am unable to secure a new loan and will have only about $250 cash when the mortgages and interest come due. Please tell me what to do.—D. A. T."

We suggest you make every effort to secure an extension on the present first mortgage, offering to pay a small commission. Try to secure an extension for one year, at least, and offer to pay your first mortgage interest in monthly payments, if possible. Try to arrange with the first mortgage holder to pay off the second mortgage. Although money for refinancing is scarce today, we believe within twelve months this situation will change due to the Federal Home Loan bank system.

A Mortgage Problem.

"To the Editor: We hold a mortgage on a home in one of the western suburbs. The mortgage is past due and the owner wants to sign a quit claim deed turning the property over to us. There are two years' taxes due on this property. Could the owner be forced to pay the taxes due before turning over the property? Could he be forced to pay taxes after the quit claim deed is signed? I will appreciate an early reply.—L. D."

From the facts given we assume the party mentioned plans to give a quit claim deed and you will assume all indebtedness. We recommend that you have a tax search to be sure your property has not been sold for taxes as well as checking all payments on special assessments. You must also guard against mechanics' liens. Be sure there is no repair work that remains unpaid. The service of a lawyer is advised.

Regarding the Home Loan Bank.

Our attention has been called to several companies claiming to represent and offering loans applications of the Home Loan bank. We are in touch with the Federal Home Loan bank board and will be advised when the local home loan bank in Evanston is ready to issue applications and make loans. The majority of the loans handled by this system will be made through building and loan associations.

DRY GOODS.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Cotton goods were steadier today, with sales a little better in the gray goods division. Ready to wear and general apparel cutters are more active and are taking in goods freely. Silks were firm. Wool dress goods met better call. Rayon fabric sales were more active and burlaps firmer.

RUBBER.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Rubber futures closed quiet and steady. September, 3.28c; December, 3.44@3.50c; January, 3.50c; March, 3.64c. Smoked ribbed spot closed at 3.40c.

BRANCH BANKS CHIEF TOPIC FOR A. B. A. MEETING

Expect Lively Tilts at Los Angeles.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Branch banking is expected to be the subject of chief interest at the American Bankers association's annual convention in Los Angeles the first week in October.

The program of the convention, having been arranged by men of much convention experience, has been carefully designed to prevent friction between groups with opposing ideas, but the feeling for and against branch banking is likely to precipitate lively discussion in spite of these precautions.

Charles F. Zimmerman, Pennsylvania banker and champion of the unit bank group, will journey westward to continue the battle against branch banking. He has already taken exception to the recommendation of the committee on banking of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce that "a national bank should be permitted, subject to carefully devised administrative regulations but unlimited by restrictions of state law, to establish statewide branches."

Bank Paper's Comment.

The Chicago Banker, commenting on the attitude of easterners opposed to the enlargement of the branch banking movement, says:

"Most Pennsylvania bankers believe that the present leadership in the federal reserve board is in alignment with the chamber of commerce, all set for a grand rush to leave something or other on the doorstep of the unit banker some December morning."

Meanwhile, bankers who favor statewide branch banking have remained silent. Most of them believe that the bank failures of the last year or two have been a more convincing argument for branch banking than anything they might say in its favor.

There are also a large number of bankers who are not particularly interested one way or the other. They are not opposed to the state-wide branch banking idea, neither are they sufficiently moved to work actively toward that goal. Many of the big metropolitan banks belong to the latter group.

Demand for Change.

There is, however, a general belief among bankers throughout the country that the events of the last two years cannot help but produce a public demand for some change in the nation's banking system.

It will not be long, they are convinced, before that demand will make itself felt. It will probably appear in the form of a new Glass bill to be introduced when congress meets in December.

When congress adjourned the twice-revised Glass bill was pending. It provided, among other things, that national banks might have statewide branches even in states that prohibited state banks from having branches.

Bankers Oppose Plan.

There was much opposition to the Glass bill among bankers. Rudolf Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust company of New Orleans and chairman of the economic policy committee of the American Bankers' association, fought the bill. So did Robert V. Fleming of the Riggs National bank in Washington, D. C., and chairman of the federal legislation committee of the American Bankers' association.

Since then, however, it is understood that Senator Carter Glass, sponsor of the bill, has agreed to some modifications. Furthermore, many bankers who opposed a change on general principles have become reconciled to the idea.

There is also a definite belief in banking circles that the trend in the future will be toward the establishing of a unified national banking system more definitely under the control of the federal reserve system.

On Oct. 4, Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills will address the convention. Gov. M. S. Conner of Mississippi will talk on the relation of taxation to public welfare, Wednesday, Oct. 5, and Paul Shoup, vice chairman of the board of the Southern Pacific, will speak Thursday, Oct. 6, on "Overtaxation."

Stone & Webster Group Reduces Bank Borrowings

Stone & Webster, Inc., paid off all its own bank loans during the first eight months of this year, while its principal subsidiary, engineers Public Service company, reduced its own and subsidiaries' loans by $3,720,000 during the same period, it was announced yesterday. Other Stone & Webster, Inc., subsidiaries cut loans by $600,000, making total reductions of $6,220,000 by the group so far this year.

Mystery Man Gets Kreuger Secret Books

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—Warren E. Wheeler, secretary of Jordahl & Co., formerly acting for the American Kreuger & Toll interests, testified today before Federal Referee Henry K. Davis. He said that, on instructions from Anders Jordahl, head of the company, he had turned over to a "Mr. Lewis" two days ago the company books he had been ordered to produce at the bankruptcy hearing.

Under questioning by Donald Duncan, associate counsel with Gordon Auchincloss American trustee in bankruptcy for Kreuger & Toll, Wheeler admitted that he had been served last Thursday with a subpoena requiring him to appear before the referee today with certain books of the Jordahl company. The following day, he testified, he went to Canada. There "just across the border," he saw Jordahl "at an inn."

Mysterious "Mr. Lewis."

The witness testified that Jordahl had instructed him to deliver the books to a "Mr. Lewis" who Wheeler said, he never had seen before. When "Mr. Lewis" called at the company's offices on Sunday he was identified only by the fact that he mentioned the purpose of his call. Mr. Wheeler said he did not know the man's address and had not seen him since then.

The books, including ledgers, cash book, check book, journal, and correspondence files of the company, had been wrapped by a stenographer and were loaded into an automobile by "Mr. Lewis," the witness said. No receipt was given for the books, Wheeler told Jacob K. Javits, counsel for petitioning creditors.

Wheeler said he had no personal dealings with the late Ivar Kreuger; that he had seen him on each of Kreuger's trips to New York, but had only exchanged pleasantries. He had never seen the books of account of the various subsidiaries, since A. E. Hoffman, Kreuger's secretary, had ordered that none of the books be kept in America, Wheeler testified.

Runs Four Subsidiaries.

Jordahl & Co. had four subsidiaries, the witness said. They were the Rence Machine company, the Stille-Scanlon company, the Stille Slicing Machine company, and the Dahland Realty company.

At a hearing before Federal Referee in Bankruptcy Oscar W. Ehrhorn earlier in the day, it was pointed out that holders of bonds and debetures of the International Match corporation should file claims before Oct. 19 to insure participation in dividends.

PAPER CONTAINER INDUSTRY SAID TO DEFY SLUMP

Adaptation of paperboard boxes and containers to many new purposes has kept the general production of that industry at pre-depression levels. That was asserted yesterday in the Congress hotel by Henry D. Schmidt, president of the Paperboard Industries association.

Features which recommend these products, including fiber shipping containers, paperboard cartons, and boxboard are lightness, economy of manufacture, neatness and the ability to seal paperboard coverings against tampering while in transit, Mr. Schmidt explained.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Cuba, Sept. 20.—Cuban exports for the first six months of 1932 totaled $39,077,210, decreasing $16,911,153 over the same period of 1931. Exports to the United States were $28,658,506, decreasing $11,701,225 over the same period of 1931. Exports for the first six months of 1932 to the western hemisphere aside from the United States amounted to $2,295,324; to the United Kingdom, $5,040,536; to France, $619,407; to Holland, $432,961; to Germany, $331,016; to Spain, $211,912; to other European countries, $887,988; to Africa, $140,905; to Asia, $300,260; to Oceania, $149,385.

First Italian State Bank to Pay 10 Per Cent Soon

A dividend of 10 per cent, amounting to $86,171, to depositors of the defunct First Italian State bank was ordered yesterday by Circuit Judge Joseph Burke. The order was prepared by the receiver, Chester A. Willoughby. This payment also will settle in full all claims of $2 or less. It is the first dividend that has been ordered since the bank closed Sept. 9, 1931.

WESTERN RAIL LINES ASK FREIGHT RATES ON THE BASIS OF 1931

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—Railroads in western trunk line territory today appealed to the interstate commerce commission to permit restoration of freight rates that were in effect prior to Dec. 3, 1931, as a means of improving their financial condition.

If the old rates were in effect this year, according to the carriers, it would mean an increase in gross revenue of $5,460,023.

The railroads seek reopening of the trunk line rate structure investigation in which the commission ordered a revision of rates that became effective Dec. 3, 1931. They reviewed their efforts in the last half dozen years to obtain from the commission a rate structure they contend will permit them to live.

The assertion is made by the carriers that it was never their intention to "break even" or suffer an actual decline in revenue but that the aim was "definitely to bring about a marked improvement in their income."

CRUDE OUTPUT INCREASES FOR WEEK OF SEPT. 17

New York, Sept. 20.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 23,900 barrels in the week ended Sept. 17, totaling 2,191,600 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production east of California increased 26,400 barrels to 1,685,400.

Refineries representing 93.6 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 57.0 per cent of their capacity, reported daily avarage runs of crude oil to stills as 2,058,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 93.6 per cent of total, operated at 56.3 per cent of capacity, was 2,031,000 barrels.

Daily average cracked gasoline by refineries representing 95.4 per cent of total charging capacity was 444,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week by refineries representing 95.4 per cent of total was 441,600.

Imports of crude and refined oils at principal United States ports totaled 639,000 barrels, against 660,000 barrels.

ATLAS EXTENDS TIME FOR NOTES OF PICK BARTH

New York, Sept. 20.—Atlas corporation has extended to Oct. 1 its offer dated Sept. 7 to acquire the 6 per cent three year collateral trust notes due Jan. 1, 1938, and the 6 per cent five year notes due Jan. 1, 1935, of Pick Barth Holding corporation in exchange for its shares.

Under the terms of its offer Atlas corporation will not be obligated to accept any of the notes deposited unless at least two-thirds of the aggregate outstanding principal amount of each of the two issues shall have been deposited before Oct. 1, 1932, but may, at its option, accept all deposited notes. The original offer expired today.

Sugar Trade Struggles for Scanty Profit

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

What of sugar? Here is one of the most essential of our commodities, but one which, under existing conditions, finds a large part of its producers unable to exploit it with profit. Prices this year have touched the lowest points in history. There have been the same efforts by economists to solve the sugar problem as there have been to work out a wheat solution.

The world is looking to advances in commodity prices to bring it out of the depression, and in an endeavor to try to find what may be expected from sugar authorities on this subject were interviewed.

Still Anybody's Guess.

"It's anybody's guess," remarked Hoyt C. Bonner, western manager for Lamborn & Co., Inc., one of the largest sugar houses in the country, as he discussed the future. "However, natural forces, coupled with efforts by leaders in the industry to bring some order out of the present situation, may bring some improvement."

Mr. Bonner discussed the pool formed in Cuba early in the summer to set aside 700,000 tons of raw sugar until Jan. 1, 1933, with the understanding that it was not to be sold until it reached 1.50 cents a pound. This, he said, should have had a stabilizing influence. However, Jan. 1 is approaching and sugar has not reached the price set, and there is now some talk of extending the operation of the pool until July 1.

Surplus Overhangs Market.

Here again as in the case of wheat and cotton is a great surplus hanging over the market, threatening prices.

The momentary difficulty in the sugar situation, along with many other of the world's ills, appears to be a result of the war. However, sugar through the centuries has been subject to ups and downs. That in each instance the industry has been able to make a comeback gives the hope that the present problems will be solved, if not through man made cures at least through the workings of the law of supply and demand.

Prior to the war refined sugar in this country was selling at 6 or 7 cents a pound, which brought a fair return to the producers. In Europe the conference of Brussels, signed in March, 1902, had brought about fairly stable conditions after some years of price wars, resulting in losses to producers.

A large part of the sugar used in Europe was derived from beets, Germany being the greatest sugar producing country in the world. In this country we used both beet and cane sugar.

Seek Supply from Tropics.

With the war, farmers in Europe either were forced to turn their beet fields over to wheat or were compelled to give them up altogether. Farmers in this country found it more profitable to grow wheat than sugar beets. The consequence was that the great nations turned to the tropics for their sugar supply.

High prices resulting from that scarcity naturally stimulated sugar cane production in the tropics, Cuba becoming the world's greatest sugar producer.

In 1913-'14 Cuba's crop was 2,597,000 tons. By the end of 1917-'18 the crop was 3,446,000 tons and in 1919 it was close to 4,000,000 tons. In 1929 Cuba produced its greatest crop, 5,156,000 tons, as a result of improved methods largely developed during the war.

Then, with the war at an end, the nations confronted with soaring prices as a result of the end of war restrictions, once again turned to their own sources for their sugar. The growing of beet sugar was resumed and colonial sugar was brought in again.

But there remained in the tropical producing areas, Cuba, Porto Rico, Hawaii, the Philippines, Java, India, and elsewhere sugar capacity far in excess of the demand. Consequently there followed a period of competition which resulted in prices falling below cost of production. Sugar producers in all parts of the world were threatened with ruin.

Chadbourne Offers Plan.

In 1930 Thomas L. Chadbourne of New York and a group of Cubans went to Europe to try to end the impasse existing in the sugar industry and meetings abroad resulted in the adoption of the Chadbourne plan in May, 1931. The plan fixed the amount of sugar that could be exported for a 5 year period by its signatories and imposed other restrictions.

World production of sugar for the year ending Aug. 31, 1931, was 28,931,000 long tons. Consumption for the period was 27,125,000 tons. And there is a world surplus of 4,000,000 tons accumulated during the last 4 years.

Sugar imported into this country from Cuba pays a duty of 2 cents a pound. Sugar grown in the American possessions is admitted duty free. Despite the duty giving them a 2 cent margin sugar producers in this country and our possessions, both cane and beet, have been finding it increasingly difficult to make a profit.

In dropping to around .57 cents a pound, exclusive of the tariff of 2 cents, sugar last May reached its low.

Prices started to advance early in June, reaching their maximum around Sept. 1. Later there was a reaction and sugar delivered in New York is now quoted at around 1.15 cents a pound.

DR. SELIGMAN TURNS SUGAR "TRUST" SUIT INTO ECONOMICS TALK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—Federal Judge Julian W. Mack's courtroom was turned into a class room in economics today. Dr. Edwin R. A. Seligman, professor emeritus of political economy at Columbia university and a relative of the banking family, took the witness stand in the government's suit to dissolve the Sugar institute. He testified that he approved the principles of the institute's code of ethics as fostering "true" competition.

Prof. Seligman was called as a witness for the institute as the trial which has continued intermittently since early in February drew near its close. The code of ethics which he approved in principle forms one of the bases of the government's case in the suit to dissolve the institute for alleged violation of the Sherman anti-trust law.

Under questioning by John C. Higgins of Sullivan and Cromwell, attorneys for the institute, Prof. Seligman discussed the nature of "true" or "economic" competition of a beneficent nature, as distinguished from "pseudo competition."

Prof. Seligman likened pseudo competition to a mere brutal demonstration of rivalry, citing a "fight between two tigers for a water buffalo" as an instance.

CHIEF OF FRISCO FIGHTS SUIT FOR RECEIVERSHIP

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 20.—(AP)—J. M. Kurn, president of the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway company, for which receivership was asked yesterday by stockholders, said today counsel for the road advised him "there is no merit in any of the suits" asking receivership.

Another suit asking receivership was filed recently by two holders of prior lien bonds.

"We are advised," Kurn said, "that there is no merit in any of the suits which have been instituted against the company by holders of small amounts of securities apparently seeking to obtain some special advantage for themselves by embarrassing the company in carrying out the readjustment plan."

Makers of Trailers Meet Here, Form Trade Group

A group of trailer manufacturers from various parts of the country met yesterday at the Stevens hotel to form a permanent organization. Harvey C. Fuehauf of Detroit presided. The group hopes for uniform state laws regulating trucks and trailers. What now is legal in one state may cause a driver's arrest in another.

Seek Conversion of Conde Nast Note Issue

Condé Nast Publications, Inc., has requested holders of its three year sinking 6 per cent notes, due on Dec. 15, to exchange them for first mortgage 6½ per cent gold bonds of the corporation and cash. The basis of the exchange is $1,000 of bonds and $100 in cash for each $1,000 in notes of the company.

Hear Cuban Group Delays Release of Sugar Stocks

Private wire advices from Havana state that the date for the release of the 700,000 tons of segregated sugar has been extended to June 30, 1933, from Jan. 1 by the Cuban Sugar institute.

RESERVE BOARD TELLS GAINS IN WORLD FINANCE

Gold Reserves Up; U. S. Hoarding Less.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 20.—(AP)—A decided improvement in the world gold situation, an increase in the metal held in the United States, and a decrease in federal reserve bank credit during August were reported today in the monthly review of the federal reserve board.

The board also said there had been a decrease in hoarding and an improvement in banking conditions in the United States. Only 85 banks, with deposits of $34,780,000, suspended in August. The suspensions compared with 131 in July, which involved deposits of $49,877,000 and 153 in August last year, with deposits of $180,028,000.

Monetary Gold Increases.

"The recent inflow of gold from abroad, which began at the middle of June, resulted in an increase in the country's stock of monetary gold, between June 15 and Aug. 31 of about $175,000,000," the board said. "This increase brought the gold stock to $4,086,000,000.

"This is about the same level as of the second half of 1928 and the first quarter of 1929 before either the recent financial crisis or the prevailing business depression had begun to show itself."

The board said, as compared with the middle of 1928, the central gold reserves of the principal countries of the world outside of the United States had increased about $1,800,000,000, or 30 per cent, because of a large output of the world's gold mines and the release of gold from private holdings in Australia, China, India, and Russia.

Reserve Credit Declines.

The board said the volume of reserve bank credit outstanding has declined during the recent weeks from the high level of July chiefly in consequence of the gold inflow and the return of currency from circulation. Funds received by member banks from these sources, and from an increase in currency issued by the treasury to national banks under the home loan bank law, enabled member banks to reduce their borrowings from reserve banks to the lowest level of the current year and at the same time increase their reserves by about $100,000,000. The member bank reserve balances, amounting to $2,146,000,000 on Aug. 31 were consequently the highest of the last three months and were more than $300,000,000 in excess of legal requirements.

"The return of about $35,000,000 of currency from circulation between July 6 and Aug. 31 was the first substantial movement in this direction since last March," the board said. "It represented a post holiday return of $40,000,000 between July 6 and July 20 which was somewhat less than seasonal in amount and a further return of $45,000,000 between July 20 and Aug. 31, a period which has usually been characterized in recent years by a substantial increase in currency.

Says Hoarding Decreases.

"The figures indicate, therefore, that there was during this period a substantial release from hoards, apparently in reflection of the recent subsidence of banking disturbances and the increasing activity of the security and commodity markets."

The board said under the home loan bank law there had been an increase of $53,000,000 in the net volume of treasury currency outstanding because of notes issued to national banks. The increase, however, did not result in an increase in money in circulation, but did provide issuing national banks with funds that could be used to reduce borrowings at federal reserve banks, displacing an equal amount of federal reserve currency.

The board said that during Aug. 20 suspended banks with deposits of $32,270,000 had reopened for business, as compared with 24 banks with deposits of $69,981,000 in July. Since Jan. 1, 213 suspended banks with deposits of $208,150,000 have reopened for business.

STANDARD OIL HAS 40 YEAR CUBAN PACT IF IT PAYS UP DEBT

New York, Sept. 20.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey said today that it had under consideration a proposal by the Cuban government to grant it a 40 year monopoly on the sale of petroleum products in exchange for immediate payment of the republic's foreign and internal indebtedness, estimated to total $200,000,000.

The proposal, the Standard Oil company said, came through its Cuban subsidiary, the Standard Oil Company of Cuba, which until two years ago was known as the West India Oil company.

Announcement of the offer followed introduction in the Cuban senate of a bill which would grant exclusive rights for the sale of petroleum products in Cuba for a period of 40 years to an unnamed company in return for immediate payment of the entire Cuban debt.

The measure as proposed provides that other oil companies operating in Cuba would sell their plants at auction, and specified a strict supervision of gasoline prices.

The Standard Oil company said it understood this latter provision would maintain the price of gasoline at a level three cents above the current price in the United States.

The Standard Oil company also said it understood that the Sinclair Oil company and the Shell Oil company, its two largest competitors in Cuba, had received similar offers from the Cuban government.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Sept. 20.—The stock market closed higher today on a flurry of buying near the close. The chief gains were among the recognized leaders such as American Can, United States Steel, Allied Chemical and Dye, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas and the like, all of which finished with net gains of 1 to 2 points. Case Threshing Machine bounded up 4 points.

Up to the last thirty minutes trading was at a snail's pace with price changes slight. The number of shares turned over in the entire five hours totaled 1,250,000, which made it one of the dullest sessions of the year.

The bulls attributed the buying to the improved tone of the wheat and cotton markets. Wheat was up and cotton firm.

Carload Gains Help Rails.

Continued "seasonal" gains in carloadings were supposed to be helping the railroad issues. Some commentators are professing surprise that the carriers have not responded more vigorously to the kind things said in their behalf by Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, but the street generally realizes that the gap between the prices of common railroad stocks and earnings still is wide.

Optimistic statements made by the head of the Missouri-Kansas Texas during the day caused some buying in the shares of that line, bringing a net advance of nearly 2 points. Union Pacific, New York Central, Southern Pacific and Illinois Central were other rails to attract attention.

Buying in Utilities.

Predictions that the weekly figures on electric power output, due tomorrow, will provide another bright spot in the industrial news influenced some buying in Peoples Gas, Public Service, Consolidated Gas, and Standard Gas.

Activity in Montgomery Ward for a while was coincident with a revival of the perennial rumor that merger of the company with Sears-Roebuck is near. The report was denied in well informed banking circles, but the shares of both mail order corporations continued prominent in the dealings. Board room gossip had it that much of the buying was originating in the middle west. An erstwhile grain operator was said to be investing heavily in Montgomery Ward stock.

Farm implement shares were better, International Harvester trailing Case up for a gain of 1½ points.

WHEAT HIGHER; LARGE EXPORTS FROM CANADA

Market Here Gets Some Better Support.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat prices drifted slowly higher yesterday. There was a noticeable lack of pressure. With Liverpool strong there was sufficient scattered buying to carry the December up ⅝c to a high of 53c. Selling against offers checked the bulge. Closing trades were fractionally under the best figures of the day with net gains of ⅜@⅝c, the September leading the advance. The latter closed at 50c, while December was 52⅝@52¾c and May, 57⅞@58c.

A feature of the day's developments was the pronounced strength in Liverpool where December wheat closed at 4⅜c per bu over the same future in Chicago and the October was 3½c over September, both being at the largest premium as compared with the American market of the season.

December in the English market was 57c at the last or ⅝c under the October. While the wider difference held out hope of some business in domestic wheat the only sale reported during the day was a cargo of dark No. 1 hard at the gulf to Greece. The latter has been about the best buyer for some time.

Canadian Prairie Wheat Moving.

Recent rain and snow in the Canadian northwest failed to check the movement of wheat in the prairie provinces to any great extent. Deliveries at interior points on Monday aggregated 6,242,000 bu, compared with 1,363,000 bu a year ago. Since Aug. 1 the producers have delivered around 106,000,000 bu. Winnipeg felt the effect of hedging pressure, but this was offset to some extent by buying by exporters and the Canadian market closed unchanged to ⅛c higher with December at 52⅝c in Canadian funds.

A heavy foreign demand was shown for Canadian cash wheat. Sales in all positions were estimated at well above 1,000,000 bu. This included around 500,000 bu sold from the Pacific coast to Shanghai. In addition Europe was a buyer for shipment via Montreal.

An increase of 22,384,000 bu in the world's available supply of wheat in the last week, as reported by Bradstreet's, failed to have any effect on the market, the grain presumably having been hedged some time ago. Total stocks are now placed at 354,501,000 bu, compared with 426,382,000 bu last year. Routine news generally had little effect on the market.

Iowa Offers Cash Corn.

Country offerings of cash corn to arrive increased materially yesterday and local handlers reported around 200,000 bu booked, including a few cars from Iowa. According to one of the largest of the private wire houses they booked a car of Iowa corn to arrive yesterday for the first time since July, 1931, when congestion in the nearby delivery in Chicago caused a sharp upturn in prices.

A few cars of Iowa corn have been received in the last few days on consignment. For many months the peculiar distribution of the corn crop has turned the flow of Iowa grain to the west and northwest in place of the normal movement to the east.

Hedging pressure and selling against offers checked and advancing tendancy in corn futures, and the finish was unchanged to ⅜c higher, the September showing the most strength, closing at 27⅜@27½c. December was 29@29⅛c, and May 34c.

Oats held within narrow limits and closed ⅛@¼c higher, with September, 15⅝@15¾c; December, 17⅞c, and May, 20⅞c. Country offerings were limited, and arrivals at terminals are down to around actual daily consumptive requirements. Rye was ⅛@¼c higher with wheat. September closed at 30c; December, 33½c, and May, 37⅝c.

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 9,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 12,000.

The range of cattle prices spread out more. Top grades of steers held almost steady again yesterday. The rank and file were pounded down. Poorest grades of cattle sank close to the season's bottom prices, the inside price for beef steers at $4.75 being lowest in recent weeks, while the peak price at $10.25 was only 10c under the highest mark since January.

The general level of the market is higher than a year ago. Bulk of steers during the first two days of the week sold at $6.65@9.90, against $5.75@9.00 during the corresponding days in 1931.

All but top grades of steers declined 25c, selling 50c under last Thursday and in some instances more decline was cited in comparing with the high point of last week. The "upper crust," selling at $10.00 and above, comprised a small proportion of the run and cut little figure in the general market.

Swift Pays Top Price.

These were bought up on the early rounds. Swift paid $10.25, the extreme top for a shipment of 1,476 lb beef steers for a Boston house. Cows and heifers sold slowly at weak to 25c lower prices. More than 300 yearling heifers sold at $7.00@8.25, while only outstanding lots of beef cows are eligible to more than $4.00, the bulk selling at $2.85@3.50. Calf prices weakened again and most late selling revealed a 25c lower basis, only selected vealers getting above the $7.00 line, with specialties at $7.50. Sales are fully 50c under the close of last week. Yesterday's 500 westerns were mostly stockers and feeders that sold at barely steady rates.

A narrow and discriminating demand met yesterday's short supply of hogs, resulting in a dull and generally ebbing market. At the weakest spot of the session not more than 10c loss was registered, yet it was difficult to move much stock at the preceding day's quotations. The general average for the day moved down 5c to $5.00, being exactly $1.00 under the high point of the year. Yesterday's top at $4.55 was also $1.00 under the year's peak established in July.

Average Around $4.00.

The daily average cost of hogs has been hovering around $4.00 and slightly above for more than a month and has not been far above the "cut-out" value at any time. Yesterday's cost stood only 5c above the lowest since June 22. While supplies were light at most markets, the substantial increase reported at Sioux City, where highways were cleared of striking farmers, had an unsettling effect on the market here.

Lamb prices were driven into new low price channels when light supplies failed to bolsetr the market for dressed meat. Sheep receipts at the leading markets during the first two days of this week were 45 per cent smaller than a year ago, yet movement is slow at current quotations. Packers bought lightly at further declines of 25c, taking most natives at $5.25@5.50, while city butchers bought several hundred at $5.75 and handpicked a few at $6.00. Range lambs shared in the break, the tops from 43 carloads going at $5.50 and below. Country buyers are taking out feeders at almost fat lamb prices, paying $5.25 readily for desirable grades of feeders.

'ACCOUNTANTS TO HEAR ADDRESS BY ROSSETTER

George W. Rossetter, president of the Chicago Association of Commerce and general chairman of the national organization to reduce public expenditures, will address the National Association of Cost Accountants at the Hamilton club on Thursday evening, Sept. 21. He will talk on "Government Cost Reductions," and will explain the work of his committee to reduce public expenditures and to make the public tax conscious.

Santa Fe Car Loadings Trend Still Favorable

The Santa Fé loadings figures indicated a continuation of the recent improved traffic trend. For the Sept. 17 week loadings were down only 16.6 per cent, the lowest percentage decline from the like 1931 week in a long time. Loadings were up sharply from the previous week, which included the Labor day holiday.

Commonwealth Customers—PAY LESS—for LOANS

COMMONWEALTH'S rate on amounts above $100 is substantially lower than the lawful rate usually charged.

THE personal property which nearly every family owns and the signature of husband and wife enable one to secure any amount up to $300 quickly and easily.

You get the full amount of the loan, and up to 25 months to repay. Interest at the REDUCED RATE is charged only while you keep the money.

USED AUTOMOBILES FOR SALE.

WHY NOT

get permanent value in the used car you select? Cadillac's Used Cars are of known quality by every test. That is why so many customers . . . remain customers . . . and recommend Cadillac's values to their best friends.

RED STAR

cars represent quality at prices lower than you would expect . . . lower than you can find elsewhere. The increasing demand proves that Cadillac's policy of conditioning used cars in their Factory Branch New Car Service Division to a high standard insures permanent value to you . . . A few examples
